IMMIGRANTS TO NEW ENGLAND FOR WHOM ROYAL DESCENT HAS BEEN PROVED, VIRTUALLY PROVED, IMPROVED, OR DISPROVED SINCE ABOUT 1960: A BIBLIOGRAPHICAL SURVEY

Gary Boyd Roberts

During the past generation, since roughly 1960, various genealogical topics or types of records have been massively revitalized or consolidated. Such topics or records (about which I have written elsewhere, most notably in Genealogical Journal 12 [1983-1984]:68-80 and 13 [1984-1985]:65-70) include royalty studies, passenger lists, seventeenth-century New England, Mayflower studies, New England vital records, periodical indexing and extraction, southern marriage and other primary source publication, lists of soldiers and pensioners, census indexes, "mugbook" indexes, regional compendia, genealogical bibliography, and contemporary biography. This article is an attempt to consolidate bibliographically another major area of recent genealogical achievement – changes in the royal descent literature concerning colonial New Englanders. For many Register readers and perhaps most New England-derived Americans, such royally-descended forebears are our major "gateway" ancestors to medieval and pre-feudal Europe, and to the ancient world. In part this essay is an updating of my list of 110 royally descended New Englanders in The Connecticut Nutmegger 10 (1977-1978):187-198, 400; even more, however, it is a summary of our "state of knowledge" on this subject at this moment, and a listing of some of the best genealogical research of the last generation. Cited herein are leading articles and works by R.C. Anderson, P.C. Bartrum, T.F. Beard, J.I. Coddington, P.W. Coldham, M.B. Colket, W.E. Davies, W.G. Davis, Charles Fitch-Northen, D.L. Greene, H.B. Hoff, J.G. Hunt, M.S. Hyde, D.H. Kelley, A.B.W. MacEwen, G.A. Moriarty, G.I. Nelson, Herman Nickerson, Jr., J.A. Rasmussen, W.A. Reitwiesner, G.E. Russell, Douglas Richardson, G.B. Roberts, Milton Rubincam, H.F. Seversmith, W.L. Sheppard, Jr., N.D. Thompson, J.B. Threlfall, Sir A.R. Wagner, R.L. Ward, and H.J. Young. Some of the more recent discoveries were partly prompted, I'm told, by my earlier listing, and I hope that this bibliography also will encourage further research. Various scholars might still express a "nagging doubt" about one or another line, but the following list represents generally the consensus of our profession, and when combined with the 1977 Nutmegger article, which it often corrects, can stand, I think, as a "nearly authoritative" (a few personal biases inevitably intrude) listing of royally-descended New Englanders.

The article is divided into three lists – of immigrants with proved or "virtually proved" royal descents, with "improved" royal descents, or with disproved royal descents. A proved descent is one that seems to be clearly so through usually a combination of primary and printed sources. A "virtually proved" descent is one that seems validated by a series of reliable printed sources, but about which no single monograph using primary data also has yet brought all of these sources together. "Improved" royal descents are from later rather than earlier kings (Edward III over Edward I, Edward I over Henry II, Plantagenet over only Scottish or pre-Conquest English kings), or simply those concerning which we have more confirming or slightly corrective data. Disproved lines are those for whom newly found material or a reexamination of the basic argument has prompted the reversal of an earlier scholarly acceptance. Since the starting date for this survey is 1960 some – but only some – of the changes noted below are covered in Frederick Lewis Weis and Walter Lee Sheppard, Jr., Ancestral Roots of 60 Colonists Who Came to New England Between 1623 and 1650, Baltimore, 3rd ed., 1964, 4th ed., 1969, and 5th ed., 1976 (the 4th and 5th editions are henceforth abbreviated AR4&5) and, with Arthur Adams, The Magna Charta Sureties, 1215, Baltimore, 2nd ed., 1964, 3rd ed., 1979 (the 3rd edition is henceforth abbreviated MCS3). Lines that were first added to these editions but were based on pre-1960 material, however, are not discussed below. An eagerly awaited sixth edition of Ancestral Roots, which will incorporate even more of the changes noted below (but only those concerning immigrants covered in earlier editions) is scheduled for 1987. Also omitted from this listing are a handful of nineteenth or early twentieth century royally descended immigrants to New England discovered or brought to my attention after 1977 – most notably Ernst Bruno von (later de) Gersdorf of Mass., a third cousin of Queen Victoria through the counts Reuss-Ebersdorf and great-grandfather of Washington Post editor Benjamin Crowninshield Bradlee. Included are a few colonial immigrants ultimately to Long Island who belonged to larger clusters of nearly related colonists associated primarily with New England. For notable descendants of the immigrants treated below, and for a bibliography through 1980 of mid-Atlantic and southern royally-descended immigrants as well, see my own life's work, "The Mowbray Connection," 23 vols., manuscript, at the Society, the New York Public Library, and the Society of Genealogists in London. For its lengthy subtitle and some discussion of the work, see The Connecticut Nutmegger 10 (1977-1978):3-12, 187-198, 393-400, The Detroit Society for Genealogical Research Magazine, 41 (1977-1978):141, 42 (1978-1979):191, and Genealogical Journal 12 (1983-1984): 70, 13 (1984-1985):66 (the bibliography-by-immigrant is volume 22).

Abbreviations in the following bibliography include NYGBR, for The New York Genealogical and Biographical Record; NGSQ, for National Genealogical Society Quarterly; TAG, for The American Genealogist; and TG, for The Genealogist (the American journal founded by Neil D. Thompson in 1980, not the older British or contemporary Australian periodicals with the same name). Proved, virtually proved, improved (some "overhauled") and disproved royal descents of the past generation thus include:

I. Proved or "Virtually Proved" Royal Descents

1-2. Christopher Batt and Mrs. Anne Bainton Batt, his wife, both of Mass. — Walter Goodwin Davis, The Ancestry of Abel Lunt, 1769-1806, of Newbury, Massachusetts, Portland, Me., 1963, 175-198 (Batt, St. Barbe), 201-247 (and chart on 241 esp.) (Baynton) and AR4&5, lines 11 and 248; Rev. Stebbing Shaw, The History and Antiquities of Staffordshire, vol. 2, London, 1801, 268 (Grey of Enville, ancestral to St. Barbe and Batt); and New Complete Peerage articles on Grey de Ruthyn, Hastings, and Huntington (David of Scotland). A thorough monograph on the Greys of Enville, perhaps contemplated by Davis (see Abel Lunt, 194), would be desirable, especially since Mary Grey, a sister of the Margery Grey who married Richard St. Barbe, herself married John Dixwell of Coton, Warwickshire, and was the great-great-grandmother of John Dixwell, the English regicide and Cromwellian politician, later a refugee in Connecticut. See the John Dixwell articles in the Dictionary of American Biography and the Dictionary of National Biography, plus John Fetherston, ed., The Visitation of the County of Warwick in the Year 1619, Taken by William Camden (Harleian Society Publications, Visitations Series, vol. 12), London, 1887, 43 (Grey), 297 (Dixwell).

3. Mrs. Dorothy May Bradford of Mass., Mayflower passenger (who drowned off the tip of Cape Cod before the Mayflower landing at Plymouth, first wife of Governor William Bradford of the Plymouth Colony) — TAG 46 (1970):117-118, 47 (1971):87 (articles by David Humiston Kelley); Lucy L. Erwin, The Ancestry of William Clopton of York County, Virginia, with Records of Some of His Descendants, Rutland, Vt., 1939, 8-11, 63-65, 46-48 (Clopton, Knevet, Basset, Ridel) and AR4&5, line 188; and New Complete Peerage articles on Basset of Weldon and Chester (a line for Dorothy May through the Bowes, Clopton, Knyvett or Knevet, Basset, and Ridel families to Hugh Lupus, Earl of Chester, d. 1101, a kinsman of William the Conqueror — possibly a nephew of the half blood — and brother of Judith d'Avranches, wife of Richer, Seigneur d'Aigle and ancestress of both wives of Edward I, King of England, and of Blanche of Artois, wife of Edward's brother, Edmund Plantagenet, 1st Earl of Lancaster). Clinching documentary proof of Dorothy May's identification, and of Hugh Lupus's kinship to William the Conqueror, would be desirable. For the royal d'Aigle connections see George Andrews Moriarty, Jr., "The Plantagenet Ancestry (Ancestry of Edward III and Queen Philippa)," mss. at the Society, p. 111, and Genealogists' Magazine 19 (1977-1979):55-59.

4-5. Thomas Bressie of Conn. and Edmund Hawes of Mass. — a forthcoming article by Gary Boyd Roberts scheduled for TG 7 (1986), compiled largely from the Register 112 (1958):27-44 and 118 (1964):251-262 (Bressey and Shepherd articles by W.G. Davis, reprinted in English Origins of New England Families, 2nd series, Baltimore, 1985, 1:286-304 and 1st Series, Baltimore, 1984, 3:398-409); James William Hawes, Edmond Hawes of Yarmouth, Massachusetts, an Emigrant to America in 1635, His Ancestors, Including the Allied Families of Brome, Colles, Greswold, Porter, Rody, Shirley, and Whitfield; and Some of His Descendants, New York, 1914; Henry James Young, George Eldridge, Hydrographer, and Eliza Jane His Wife: Their Ancestors and Their Descendants, Carlisle, Pa., 1982 (which includes an ancestor table of Edmond Hawes for 33 generations, with a full bibliography), plus The Carolingian Ancestry of Edmond Hawes, Alice Freeman, and Thomas James, Carlisle, Pa., 1983, and Some Ancestral Lines of Edmond Hawes, Alice Freeman, and Thomas James, Carlisle, Pa., 1984; Evelyn Philip Shirley, Stemmata Shirleiana, or the Annals of the Shirley Family, Lords of Nether Etindon in the County of Warwick, and of Shirley in the County of Derby, London, 1873, chapters 1-3; and MCS3, line 122A.

6. Mrs. Jane Allen Bulkeley, the first, non-immigrating wife of Rev. Peter Bulkeley of Mass. — Donald Lines Jacobus, The Bulkeley Genealogy, New Haven, 1933, 38-51; TAG 42 (1966):129-135 (John G. Hunt); F.L. Weis, The Families of Standish of Standish, Lancashire, England, Dublin, N.H., 1959, 14-15; AR4&5, line 170.

7. Wiseman Clagett, colonial lawyer, judge, and only Solicitor-General of N.H., treated in the Dictionary of American Biography — Brice McAdoo Clagett, compiler of some Clagett-Downe annotations to the will of Abraham Downe (whose wife was a first cousin of the Solicitor-General's father) in NGSQ 62 (1974):207, is currently compiling a genealogy of all American Clagetts that will treat this immigrant, his royal descent, and his American progeny in considerable detail. Printed sources which together outline the royal ancestry include Leona Bean McQuiston, The McQuiston, McCuiston, and McQuesten Families, 1620-1937, Louisville, Ky., 1937, 138-139; Philip Morant, The History and Antiquities of the County of Essex, vol. 2, London, 1816, 559 (Clagett, Wiseman); Walter C. Metcalfe, ed., The Visitations of Essex, vol. 1 (Harleian Society Publications, Visitations Series, vol. 13), London, 1878, 526-528 (Wiseman); Miscellanea Genealogica et Heraldica, New Ser., 3 (1878-1880):201-202 (Rugeley, Knollys); Sidney Lee, ed., Dictionary of National Biography, vol. 11, New York, 1909, 275-279 (Sir Francis and Thomas Knollys); and AR4&5, line 1. See also the lengthy inscription on the sepulchral monument of Mary (Rugeley) Wiseman in the Windish, Essex parish church.

8. Mrs. Anne Lloyd Yale Eaton of Conn., second wife of Governor Theophilus Eaton of the New Haven colony — TAG 52 (1976):142-144 (Henry Bainbridge Hoff) & AR4&5, lines 124-126, 249 and 254. Since

Joan, illegitimate daughter of King John and wife of Llewelyn ap Jorworth, Prince of North Wales, may not be the mother of Llewelyn's daughter Angharad, wife of Maelgon Vychan, Lord of Cardigan Is-Ayron (TG 1 [1980]:80-95) see also TAG 32 (1956):71-79 (Peter G. Van der Poel on the ancestry of Thomas Yale, Mrs. Eaton's first husband and sixth cousin twice removed through descent from siblings of Owen Glendower). For further ancestry, moreover, of Mrs. Eaton's immigrant children by her first husband (David and Thomas Yale, and Mrs. Anne Yale Hopkins, the first the father of Yale College benefactor Elihu Yale and the last the wife of Edward Hopkins, Governor of Connecticut) see TAG 56 (1980):1-11, 101-105 (Robert Joseph Curfman).

9. Mrs. Agnes Harris Spencer Edwards of Conn., wife successively of William Spencer and William Edwards, by both of whom she left issue — Douglas Richardson is currently collecting material for a major monograph on this immigrant, her immediate family, and a royal descent through the Collamore, Hext, Fortescue, Beauchamp of Ryme and Hatch, and Mohun families. Behind the Fortescues this line is shared by the mother of Oliver Mainwaring below; and the Beauchamps of Ryme and Hatch, and the Mohuns, are ancestral to Thomas Trowbridge below as well (see the Trowbridge entry for early sources). Mr. Richardson's research also indicates 1) that Mrs. Edwards was a second cousin of the immigrant Peter Collamore of Scituate, Mass., who died without issue but was almost certainly the uncle of a younger Anthony Collamore, also of Scituate; and 2) that Mrs. Margaret Wyatt Allyn of Conn. shared this Fortescue line and was Mrs. Edwards's fifth cousin (for Mrs. Allyn's Fortescue descent see AR4&5, lines 52 and 25 and J.L. Vivian, The Visitations of the County of Devon, Exeter, 1895, 352-353, 357).

10. Mrs. Mabel Harlakenden Haynes (Eaton) of Conn., wife firstly of John Haynes, only colonial governor of both Mass. and Conn. — the Register 120 (1966):243-247 (Sir Anthony Richard Wagner and F.S. Andrus, reprinted in English Origins of New England Families, 2nd series, 2:215-219); MCS3, lines 3, 89, and 89A.

11. Mrs. Catherine Hamby Hutchinson of Mass., wife of Edward Hutchinson and daughter-in-law of Mrs. Anne Marbury Hutchinson of R.I. (see below) — Wayne H.M. Wilcox of Weymouth is currently collecting data for an article on this immigrant, who seems almost certainly to be the Catherine Hamby, daughter of Robert and Elizabeth, baptized at St. Matthew, Ipswich, Suffolk, 10 December 1615, as abstracted in the GSU International Genealogical Index. Her father is the Robert Hamby, son of William, baptized at Dallinghoo, Suffolk, 5 July 1573 (also per the I.G.I.), whose 1635 will was abstracted by Henry F. Waters in Genealogical Gleanings in England, vol. 2, Boston, 1907 (reprint, 1969), 1266, and whose pedigree (not including children, however) appears in Walter C. Metcalf, The Visitations of Suffolk, Exeter, 1882, 194. Royal descent can be traced through the Booth, Ayscough, Talboys, Boroughdon, Umfreville, and Comyn families; see A.R. Maddison, ed., Lincolnshire Pedigrees (Harleian Society Publications, Visitations Series, vols. 50-52, 55), vol. 1, London, 1902, 154 (Booth), 60 (Ayscough), vol. 3, London, 1904, 945 (Talboys), and AR4&5, line 224. Governor Thomas Hutchinson, a great-grandson of this immigrant, calls her "the daughter of Counsellor Hanby of Ipswich" (see P.O. Hutchinson, The Diary and Letters of His Excellency Thomas Hutchinson, Esq., vol. 2, Boston, 1886, 464). Unfortunately, however, in the two printed abstracts of her marriage license — Joseph Lemuel Chester, ed., Allegations for Marriage Licenses Issued by the Bishop of London, 1611 to 1828, vol. 2 (Harleian Society Publications, Visitations Series, vol. 26), London, 1887, 228-229, and Essex Institute Historical Collections 28 (1891):142-143 — the groom's uncle, Richard Hutchinson, is said to have attested that the bride's mother, who gave her consent (although the bride was 21) was "Katherine Hanbie of Ipswich," almost certainly a mistake for Elizabeth. Based largely, no doubt, on Waters' will abstract, John Denison Champlin concluded that Catherine's parents were Robert and Elizabeth Hamby, in NYGBR 45 (1914):166.

12-16. John, Thomas, and William Lawrence of L.I., and Mrs. Mary Lawrence Burnham and Mrs. Jane Lawrence Giddings, both of Mass., children of Thomas Lawrence of St. Albans, Hertfordshire, and Joan Antrobus, later Mrs. Joan Antrobus Lawrence Tuttle of Mass. — a forthcoming article by David L. Greene in The Genealogist that will trace a royal descent for Thomas Lawrence of St. Albans through the Bull, Knighton, Underhill, Caldebeck, Hinkley, Notbeam, Pecche, and Fitz-Robert families. See AR4&5, line 148, for the ancestry of Walter Fitz-Robert, d. 1198.

17. Mrs. Mary Gye Maverick of Mass. — the Register 115 (1961):248-253, 122 (1968):282-283 (John G. Hunt, reprinted in English Origins of New England Families, 1st series, 3:359-366); AR4&5, lines 124-125, 127, 261, 30-32 and NGSQ 59 (1971):254-262, 60 (1972):25-35 (W.L. Sheppard, Jr.). For the likely but not absolutely proved Baynton-Echyngham-Arundel (FitzAlan) descent from King Henry III, about which W.G. Davis was cautious, see the above-cited (under 1-2) Ancestry of Abel Lunt, 221-223, and AR4&5, lines 17, 21 and 59.

18. Richard More of Mass., a Mayflower passenger — the Register 114 (1960):163-168 and 124 (1970):85-87 (Sir A.R. Wagner, reprinted in English Origins of New England Families, 2nd series, 2:763-771, and in Genealogies of Mayflower Families From the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, Baltimore, 1985, 2:743-751). See also W.G. Davis, The Ancestry of Phoebe Tilton, 1775-1847, Wife of Capt. Abel Lunt of Newburyport, Massachusetts, Portland, Me., 1947, 97-98; Robert Moody Sherman, ed., Mayflower Families Through Five Generations, vol. 2, Plymouth, Mass., 1978, 121-125; Eugene A. Stratton and Robert S. Wakefield, "A Historical Background for Early Plymouth Colony Genealogical Research," Genealogical Journal 13 (1984-1985): 155-156; TAG 40 (1964):79-80 (Mrs. John E. Barclay); and Mayflower Quarterly 43 (1977):45-46 (R.S. Wakefield).

19. Mrs. Amy Wyllys Pynchon of Mass., daughter of George Wyllys, Governor of Connecticut, and Bridget Yonge, who died in England — TAG 39 (1963):86-89 (Ross Boothe, Jr.) and AR4&5, lines 15, 20, and 57. The ancestry of George Wyllys himself — see the Register 22 (1868): 186 and 33 (1879):350 (reprinted in English Origins of New England Families, 2nd series, 3:800, 808) — merits further investigation for the possibility of royal descent. This pedigree seems to have too many generations, and I suggest that one of the successive pairs of fathers Richard Willes and sons Thomas Willes may be a herald's copying error. The descent in Count H.H. d'Angerville, Living Descendants of Blood Royal, vol. 4, London, 1969?, 112-114, adds a third pair of Richard and Thomas Willises (or Wyllyses) and is clearly impossible chronologically. Some baronial ancestry through Naptons or other maternal forebears, however, may be likely. A first cousin of Governor Wyllys's father, moreover, was Thomas Willis, noted English schoolmaster, sometime of Lynn, Mass.; see TAG 41 (1965):114-118.

20. Edward Raynsford of Mass. — the Register 139 (1985):225-238, 296-301 (James A. Rasmussen); F.N. MacNamara, Memorials of the Danvers Family (of Dauntsey and Culworth), London, 1895, chapters 4-7, esp. 174-189 and the charts opposite pp. 155 and 171; H.J. Young, The Blackmans of Knight's Creek: Ancestors and Descendants of George and Maria (Smith) Blackman, rev. ed., Carlisle, Pa., 1980, 80-134, 138-158, wherein, using the just-cited Danvers genealogy, William F. Carter, The Quatremains of Oxfordshire, Oxford, 1936, volume 8 (pp. 50-59 esp.) of the 19-ledger manuscript collection of George Andrews Moriarty at NEHGS, and a few other sources Mr. Young developed a royal descent for Joan Bruley, 2nd wife of John Danvers of Colthorp, Oxfordshire, from Hugh Capet, King of France, through the Quatremain, Breton, Grey of Rotherfield, Duston, Wake and Clare families, and counts of Clermont, Montdidier, Roucy and Hainault; Mr. Young's later The Carolingian Ancestry of Edmond Hawes, Alice Freeman, and Thomas James, where this descent is charted on pp. 7-8, and Some Ancestral Lines of Edmond Hawes, Alice Freeman, and Thomas James, (both cited under Bressie and Hawes above); and Gary Boyd Roberts and William Addams Reitwiesner, American Ancestors and Cousins of The Princess of Wales, Baltimore, 1984, 32, 143-144. Further documentation for the Clare-Wake-Duston descent taken from Moriarty would be desirable, and Mr. Rasmussen is also investigating other gentry families in Raynsford's ancestry for the possibility of further royal lines.

21. John Stockman of Mass. — the Register 125 (1971):263 and material on the immigrant's parentage and immediate ancestry in possession of the Heraldry Committee of NEHGS (files available only to the Committee); W. Harry Rylands, ed., The Visitations of Hampshire and the Isle of Wight, 1530, 1575, and 1622-1634, Collected by Richard Mundy (Harleian Society Publications, Visitations Series, vol. 64), London, 1913, 158 (Leigh) and 59 (West) or William Berry, County Genealogies: Pedigrees of the Families of the County of Hants, London, 1833, 294 (Leigh) and 200 (West); W.G. Davis, The Ancestry of Mary Isaac, Portland, Me., 1955, 343-352 esp. and AR4&5, lines 11 and 248; and New Complete Peerage articles on de la Warr and Welles (plus AR4&5, lines 16 and 202) and John Comber, Sussex Genealogies, Horsham Centre, Cambridge, 1931, 70-71 (Copley). See also the Committee's Third Part of A Roll of Arms, Boston, 1936, 8, and Katharine (Dickson) Brown, Stockman-Gallison Ancestral Lines, Henniker, N.H., 1984, 215-216, 225-226. A thorough monograph on this line would be welcome.

22. Thomas Trowbridge of Conn. — TAG 18 (1941-1942):129-137 (D.L. Jacobus) and 57 (1981):31-33 (Charles Fitch-Northen), plus primary sources cited in both. A much longer monograph, incorporating Mr. Fitch-Northen's extensive research into this immigrant's ancestry, including material collected to document his royal descent, will appear in volume 8 (1987) of The Genealogist. Printed sources supporting this line include John Tuckett, Devonshire Pedigrees, London, 1859, 85 (Prowse of Chevithorne in Tiverton); Sir William Pole, Collections Toward a Description of the County of Devon, London, 1791 (compiled ca. 1615), 246-247 (Prowse of Chagford); F.T. Colby, ed., The Visitation of the County of Devon in the Year 1564 with Additions from the Earlier Visitation of 1531, Exeter, 1881, 10-12, and Devon and Cornwall Notes and Queries 22 (1942-1946):301-303 (Bampfield); John Hutchins, The History and Antiquities of the County of Dorset, 3rd ed., vol. 4, London, 1870, 491 and Proceedings of the Somersetshire Archaeological and Natural History Society 36 (1890), Part II: 32-33 (Beauchamp of Ryme and Hatch); H.C. Maxwell Lyte, A History of Dunster and of the Families of Mohun and Luttrell, 2 vols., London, 1909 (Mohun); New Complete Peerage articles on Mohun, FitzJohn, Essex, and Hertford; and AR4&5, lines 106, 151 and 246.

23. Mrs. Sarah Blair Watkinson of Conn. — TAG 47 (1971):65-69 and 48 (1972):79-80 (F.H. Pollard); Count H.H. d'Angerville, Living Descendants of Blood Royal, vol. 5, London, 1972(?), 225-226.

24. Thomas Weston of Mass., who returned to England, agent of the London syndicate which underwrote the sailing of the Mayflower, a New England resident for an unknown period post-1622, treated in the Dictionary of National Biography and the Dictionary of American Biography — NGSQ 62 (1974):163-172 (Peter Wilson Coldham); Sampson Erdeswick, A Survey of Staffordshire, London, 1844, chart opposite p. 164 (Weston); The Genealogist, New Ser., 7 (1890-1891):226-227 (Kniveton); The Reliquary 15 (1874-1875): chart opp. p. 7 (Montgomery of Cubley); Transactions of the Historic Society of Lancashire and Cheshire for the Year 1934, 86 (1935):47-65 (Longford); George Ormerod and Thomas Helsby, The History of the County Palatine and City of Chester, 2nd ed., London, 1882, 3:685 (Warren of Poynton); and AR4&5, lines 117, 153, 83 and 231. The cited Kniveton pedigree unfortunately does not list the daughters of two John Knivetons of Mercaston (the elder, son of an esquire to the body of Henry VII in 1495, was living in 1499; the younger John died in the lifetime of his father and left a younger son, John [III], who died in 1601). Barbara, daughter of one of these John Knivetons and paternal grandmother of Thomas Weston, died in 1592; her husband, Ralph Weston of Rugeley, died in 1613. Chronology and naming patterns (Barbara had daughters Jane and Anne; the younger John Kniveton married Anne Dethick and left an eldest son, Barbara's likely brother, who married Jane Leeche) suggest that Barbara was the daughter of the younger John Kniveton and Anne Dethick and the granddaughter of the elder John Kniveton and Margaret Montgomery of Cubley. A thorough monograph on the Knivetons is much needed, but royal descent for Thomas Weston seems clear.

II. "Improved" Royal Descents

Since 1960 various new lines for New England immigrants long known to be of royal descent, corrections that slightly adjust but finally confirm such ancestry, discoveries of missing dates, forenames, or spouses, and consolidations of massive research into the full known medieval ancestry of a few immigrants, have included the following: for

1-3. Mrs. Katherine Deighton Hackburne Dudley Allin (second wife of Governor Thomas Dudley, below), Mrs. Jane Deighton Lugg Negus, and Mrs. Frances Deighton Williams, sisters, of Mass. — TG 6 (1985):195-197, 216-218 (Dorothy Chapman Saunders, with a chart of the Deighton descent from King Edward I and both his wives).

4. Joseph Bolles of Me. — TAG 37 (1961):114-116, 38 (1962):180 (Walter Lee Sheppard, Jr., on Bolles' Welles-Mowbray descent).

5. Nathaniel Browne of Conn. — TAG 60 (1984):91 (discovery of his mother's forename as Ann; David L. Greene citing Peter Wilson Coldham) and footnote 5 in the forthcoming Bressie-Hawes article in TG.

6-11. Rev. Peter Bulkeley, Mrs. Elizabeth Bulkeley Whittingham Haugh, Mrs. Martha Bulkeley Mellowes, Mrs. Olive Welby Farwell and Mrs. Elizabeth St. John Whiting, all of Mass., and Rev. Thomas James, Jr., of L.I. — TAG 35 (1959):100-106, 37 (1961):45-51, and 40 (1964):95-99 (articles by John G. Hunt that develop a line from King Edward I and Piers de Gaveston, Earl of Cornwall. The line is abstracted in AR4&5, lines 9, 16A, 29B and 31). For Mrs. Whiting see also Genealogists' Magazine 16 (1969-1971):93-96 and TAG 34 (1958):15-17, 175, 46 (1970):256; and for Rev. Thomas James, Jr., the Blackman and two Hawes-Freeman-James works by H.J. Young cited in the Raynsford entry above and the Parke entry below. The Blackman volume contains an ancestor table (pp. 57-134, 138-158) for Rev. James for a full 32 generations (for Rev. Bulkeley and his sisters, of course, it covers 30 generations), with a lengthy bibliography.

12. Rev. George Burroughs of Mass. — TAG 48 (1972):140-146, 56 (1980):43-45, 60 (1984):140-142 (Glade Ian Nelson, D.L. Greene, and George Ely Russell). The last article covers the Maryland career of the minister's father, Nathaniel Burrough, also associated with Roxbury, Mass., who returned to England. As one of the persons executed for witchcraft in Salem in 1692, Rev. Burroughs will be the subject of a major monograph in the ongoing "witch" series by D.L. Greene and others in The American Genealogist; see TAG 59 (1983):245-246.

13-14. Edward Carleton and Mrs. Ellen Newton Carleton, his wife, both of Mass. — Walter Lee Sheppard, Jr., The Ancestry of Edward Carleton and Ellen Newton, His Wife, microfilm, 1 reel, Havertown, Pa., 1978 (which incorporates the earlier research of Tracy E. Hazen and George Andrews Moriarty and includes much new data compiled by both Mr. Sheppard and John G. Hunt). Moriarty's 19-ledger manuscript collection at NEHGS, acquired in the late 1960s, covers almost the complete medieval ancestry then known of the two Carletons, Dr. Richard Palgrave, and Rev. William Sargent, all of Mass., and of John Throckmorton of R.I.

15. Gov. Thomas Dudley of Mass. — TAG 44 (1968):129-137 (a conjectural patrilineal descent developed by Mrs. George F. Elmendorf and abstracted in MCS3, line 149B). See also TG 5 (1984):131-139, 154-156 (on the early Suttons) and the Register 139 (1985):60, 283-287, 140 (1986):219-229 (these last F.N. Craig on the ancestry of Dudley's matrilineal great-great-great-grandmother, Edith St. Clair, wife of Sir Richard Harcourt of Wytham, Berkshire, d. 1486).

16-17. Mrs. Anne Marbury Hutchinson and Mrs. Catherine Marbury Scott, both of R.I. — the Register 123 (1969):180-181 (Meredith B. Colket, Jr., aided by G.A. Moriarty and B.F. Wilbour, further confirming the Raleigh-Greene-Ferrers descent; reprinted in English Origins of New England Families, 2nd series, 2:483-484) and the Register 138 (1984):317-320 (F.N. Craig on the Chamberlain ancestry, correcting AR4&5, line 238). See, in addition, NGSQ 51 (1963):235-238 (Milton Rubincam), on the immediate family of Sancha de Ayala, d. 1418, Spanish wife of Sir Walter Blount, sister of a great-great-grandfather of Ferdinand II, King of Aragon (and V, King of Castile, husband of the celebrated Queen Isabella of Castile and grandfather of Holy Roman Emperors Charles V and Ferdinand I) and ancestress of the Marbury sisters, the likely Sutton-Dudley patrilineal forebears of Gov. Dudley above, the Ludlows and Robert Abell below, and other immigrants.

18. Thomas Lewis of Me. — His pre-1500 Welsh pedigree appears in Peter C. Bartrum, Welsh Genealogies A.D. 300-1400, Cardiff, 1974, 4:870, 887, 889, and 890 (Tudur Trevor 1, 18, 20, and 21), and Welsh Genealogies, A.D. 1400-1500, Aberystwyth, 1983, 10:1699 (Tudur Trevor 21 [D2E]). Unfortunately, for the bulk of the pedigree the only cited source is again the printed 1623 visitation of Shropshire.

19. Roger Ludlow, Deputy-Governor of both Mass. and Conn., credited with drafting the "Fundamental Orders" of Connecticut, uncle of Mrs. Sarah Ludlow Carter of Va. and great-uncle of Gabriel Ludlow (Jr.) of New York City — Herbert Furman Seversmith, The Ancestry of Roger Ludlow (vol. 5 of Colonial Families of Long Island, New York, and Connecticut), Washington, D.C., 1964; NGSQ 51 (1963):150-164, 224-234 (Seversmith's biography of Roger Ludlow) and 53 (1965): 119-122 (review by Milton Rubincam).

20. John Nelson of Mass., merchant and public official — TG 2 (1981):123-128 (H.B. Hoff), an outline of his descent from King Edward III. Nelson was a nephew of Sir Thomas Temple, 1st Bt., Governor of Acadia and sometime resident of Boston; his sister Margaret Nelson is said to have married Rev. Thomas Teackle of Accomack Co., Va. (see, in addition to the sources cited by Hoff, John A. Upshur, Upshur Family in Virginia, Richmond, 1955, 24-25) and a first cousin once removed was John Alston of S.C. (see #212, Lineage Book, Descendants of the Illegitimate Sons and Daughters of the Kings of Britain).

21. William Poole of Mass. — MCS3, line 27 (an alternative royal descent developed by G.B. Roberts).

22. Mrs. Muriel Gurdon Saltonstall of Mass. — A.L. Langston and J.O. Buck, Pedigrees of Some of the Emperor Charlemagne's Descendants, vol. 2, Cottonport, La., 1974, pp. xcviii-xcix of the "Foreward" by Timothy Field Beard (the elimination of a generation in her Knyvet descent, noted in MCS3, line 18). An earlier notice of this "extra generation" appeared in the Register 53 (1899):114-116, 250 (reprinted in English Origins of New England Families, 2nd series, 3:61-63).

In addition to the above corrections, confirmations, consolidations and further data, the royal descents of eight New England immigrants have been completely reworked. Either several more royal descents, or descents from later kings, have been established (as for Abell and Mainwaring), or previously believed descents have been disproved and alternative lines from earlier kings developed. The eight immigrants whose royal ancestry has thus been the subject of "major overhaul" are as follows:

1. Robert Abell of Mass. — TG 5 (1984):158-171 and sources cited therein (an article by Neil D. Thompson that persuasively identifies the immigrant's maternal grandmother as Mary Mainwaring, first wife of Richard Cotton of Combermere, d. 1602, presents a 5-generation ancestor table for the immigrant's mother, and suggests various new royal descents. These last include several from King Edward I and one through Elizabeth FitzAlan, Dowager Duchess of Norfolk, and Sir Robert Goushill, her third husband, through the Stanley, Savage, Honford, Mainwaring of Over Peover and Mainwaring of Ightfield families).

2-3. Griffith Bowen and Mrs. Margaret Fleming Bowen, his wife, both of Mass. — The Connecticut Nutmegger 19 (1986-1987):335-341 and NGSQ 67 (1979):163-166 (in which Lt. General Herman Nickerson, Jr., aided by Welsh scholars P.C. Bartrum and William C. Rogers, identifies Margaret Fleming and outlines one descent each for both Bowen and his wife, from Gruffudd ap Ifor Bach, d. 1211, and Mabel, illegitimate daughter of William FitzRobert, 2nd Earl of Gloucester, whose own father, Robert of Caen, 1st Earl of Gloucester, was an illegitimate son of King Henry I). William Addams Reitwiesner, working largely from P.C. Bartrum's above-cited compendia and G.T. Clark's Limbus Patrum Morganiae et Glamorganiae, London, 1886, has charted Griffith and Margaret's ancestry for 16 generations. Griffith had 7, and possibly 13, descents from Gruffudd and Mabel; Margaret had 5, and possibly 10. For Mrs. Bowen's Herbert ancestry, moreover (her matrilineal great-grandmother was Alice Herbert, illegitimate daughter of a brother of William Herbert, 1st Earl of Pembroke of the second creation), see P.C. Bartrum, "The Ancestors of My Lord Herbert" in The National Library of Wales Journal 17 (1972):238-248. The classic discussion of the nature and reliability of Welsh bardic pedigrees, which Bartrum's compendia consolidate, of Welsh genealogical scholarship generally, and of the differences between surviving evidence for medieval England and Wales, is Francis Jones's "An Approach to Welsh Genealogy" in the 1948 Transactions of the Honorable Society of Cymmodorian, London, 1949.

4. Thomas Bradbury of Mass. — TAG 55 (1979):1-4 and 57 (1981): 98-99 (a full ancestor table for this immigrant, later abstracted onto a single folio chart widely distributed to Bradbury descendants, by John Brooks Threlfall, with some early assistance by Robert Charles Anderson). See also Mr. Threlfall's TAG articles on the Eden (55:5-16 and 57:97-98), Heigham (58:168-180) and Cotton (57:35-44, 55-56) families, an as yet unpublished John Rede article, H.E. Salter, The Boarstall Cartulary (Publications of the Oxford Historical Society, vol. 88), Oxford, 1930 (for the Rede-Harlyngrugge-Marmion descent) and for detailed accounts, with full documentation, of every generation between Bradbury and Louis IV, King of France, Henry I (the Fowler), German Emperor, and Edward the Elder, King of England, J.B. Threlfall's The Ancestry of Margaret (Brooks) Threlfall, 1st ed., 4 vols. arranged by ancestor-table number, Madison, Wis., 1985 (much of volumes 3 and 4 cover the ancestry of Thomas Bradbury). For earlier disproof of royal descents for Bradbury through the FitzWilliam and Poyntz families, see articles by R.C. Anderson in TAG 52 (1976):176-177, 247.

5. Rev. John Davenport of Conn., a founder of the New Haven colony — TAG 52 (1976):216-217 (Gary Boyd Roberts and John Insley Coddington; note that Matilda or Maud, the forename of the wife of the 1st Lord Botetourt, was inadvertently omitted, and the royal descent of Nathaniel Browne in TAG 23 [1946-1947]:108 is slightly amended in generation 6); MCS3, line 122A; and footnote 2 in the forthcoming Bressie-Hawes article in TG. The minister's patrilineal descent is unknown beyond his grandfather, Coventry mayor Edward Davenport, but some affiliation with the noted Cheshire family is almost certain.

6. John Drake of Conn. — MCS3, line 22, generations 11-17 only (for virtual disproof of the Courtenay line, and lack of proof for the Bonville alternative, see Charles Fitch-Northen, "A Revision of the Grenville Pedigree," in Devon and Cornwall Notes and Queries 34 [1978-1981]: 154-161); Raymond Gorges, The Story of a Family Through Eleven Centuries, Being a History of the Gorges Family, Boston, 1944, 13-40 and chart at end; and AR4&5, line 215 (Lovel). Mr. Fitch-Northen has also developed another royal descent for John Drake through the Grenville, Gilbert, Hill, Champernowne, Daubeny, Wilington, Freville, Cromwell and Marmion families, based on various primary and manuscript sources in Devon, and J.L. Vivian's The Visitations of the County of Devon, Exeter, 1895, 405 (Gilbert), 486 (Hill) and 162 (Champernowne), Sir John MacLean, The Parochial and Family History of the Deanery of Trigg Manor, vol. 1, London, 1873, 384 (Wilington), New Complete Peerage articles on Daubeny and Marmion, and TAG 20 (1943-1944):255-256. See also TAG 41 (1965):239-244 (Genevieve Tylee Kiepura on Drake's kinship to Sir Francis Drake and Sir Humphrey Gilbert). Some scholars still query whether the John Drake of New England mentioned in the 1633 will of a kinsman, Francis Drake of Esher, was the immigrant to Windsor. Further research on this identification or other possible Drake lines has been undertaken by Walter Lee Sheppard, Jr., Robert Behra, and Douglas Richardson.

7. Oliver Mainwaring of Conn. — Collecting several articles and notes by Howard M. Buck and extending them, Robert Behra of St. Louis, Mo., has shown that the immigrant's paternal grandmother, Margaret Torbock, was three times a descendant, through the Torbock, Stanley, Gerard, Trafford, Savage and Legh families, of Thomas Stanley, 1st Baron Stanley, and Joan Goushill, daughter of the above-named Sir Robert Goushill and Elizabeth FitzAlan, Dowager Duchess of Norfolk. The Buck articles are in the Register 79 (1925):110-111 (reprinted in English Origins of New England Families, 2nd series, 2:677), Devon and Cornwall Notes and Queries 5 (1908-1909):50-62 and 9 (1916-1917):3-4, and Transactions of the Historic Society of Lancashire and Cheshire for the Year 1915, vol. 67 (New Ser., vol. 31), 1916, 212. See, in addition to the various documents cited by Buck, Matthew Gregson, Portfolio of Fragments Relative to the History and Antiquities, Topography and Genealogies of the County Palatine and Duchy of Lancaster, London, 1869, 242, and The Reliquary 11 (1870-1871), chart opposite 97 (Torbock); Joseph Foster, Pedigrees of the County Families of England, vol. 1 — Lancashire, London, 1873 (Stanley, Gerard, Trafford and Legh pedigrees); George Ormerod and Thomas Helsby, The History of the County Palatine and City of Chester, 2nd ed., London, 1882, 1:713 (Savage); and William Farrer and J. Brownbill, eds., The Victoria History of the County of Lancaster, London, vol. 3, 1907, 180 (Stanley). For the far lesser royal descent of the immigrant's mother see AR4&5, line 217. Mr. Behra's research has not yet, however, confirmed the suggestion by D. L. Jacobus (see TAG 41 [1965]:225-227) that Peter Manwaring of New London and Thomas Manwaring of Lyme, likely brothers and sons of Richard and Mary Mannering of Hempstead, Long Island, were younger near kinsmen, possibly nephews, of Oliver.

8. Mrs. Alice Freeman Thompson Parke of Mass. and Conn. — See H.J. Young's already-cited The Blackmans of Knight's Creek: Ancestry and Descendants of George and Maria (Smith) Blackman, 55-134, 138-158 (an ancestor table for Mrs. Parke for 32 generations, with an extensive bibliography), The Carolingian Ancestry of Edmond Hawes, Alice Freeman, and Thomas James, and Some Ancestral Lines of Edmond Hawes, Alice Freeman, and Thomas James. For disproof of the descent from King John through the Corbet, Harley, and Besford families (in AR4&5, line 29A) see TG 1 (1980):27-39 (H.J. Young and John G. Hunt) and for a general review and outline of the two remaining royal descents for Mrs. Parke see Gary Boyd Roberts and William Addams Reitwiesner, American Ancestors and Cousins of The Princess of Wales, 32, 143-144 and TG 4 (1983):176-179, 184-185 (David L. Greene, with note 25, p. 184 added by Neil D. Thompson). For Young's major sources for the descent from Hugh Capet, King of France through the Bruley and Danvers families see the entry under Edward Raynsford of Mass.

III. Disproved Royal Descents

1. Mrs. Anne Dixon Allanson of Me. — Danny D. Smith, Walter Goodwin Davis: A Scholar's Unique Contribution to New England Genealogy, with an Index to the Principal Surnames in His Works (Maine Genealogical Society, Special Publication No. 1), Portland, Me., 1985, 36-38, 50 (a summary of arguments by Andrew B.W. MacEwen strongly suggesting that the Dixon pedigree compiled by or for Francis Dixon-Johnson, esq., in 1891, and reported by W.G. Davis in The Ancestry of Sarah Miller, 1755-1840, Wife of Lieut. Amos Towne of Arundel (Kennebunkport), Maine, Portland, 1939, 76-78, was a forgery. The origin of George Dixon, gent., of Ramshaw Hall, Durham, father of the immigrant, is almost certainly unknown.)

2. Anthony Colby of Mass. — NGSQ 62 (1974):263-264 and TAG 51 (1975):65-71 (John G. Hunt and G.I. Nelson independently concluding that the immigrant was certainly not Anthony, fourth son of Thomas Colby of Beccles, Suffolk, and Beatrix Felton. This conclusion was also reached by D.W. Hoyt, below, and could be inferred as well from a Colby pedigree — TP COL 54 at the Society — compiled by Sir A.R. Wagner). David W. Hoyt in Additions and Corrections for The Old Families of Salisbury and Amesbury, Massachusetts, Providence, 1919 (reprinted as part of the original work by both Genealogical Publishing Company and New England History Press in 1982), 1059-1060, and F.L. Weis in The Colby Family in Early America, Concord, Mass., 1970, 3-4, 330-335, suggest that the immigrant might be Anthony Colby, b. ca. 1595, 2nd son of Christopher Colby of Grantham, Lincolnshire, and Anne Thorold. J.B. Threlfall further investigated Colby's parentage in the late 1970s and found an Anthony Colby of Ipswich, Suffolk, d. 1604, who also might be the immigrant's father. But no conclusive evidence has been found and Anthony Colby's parentage must still be considered unknown.

3-4. Mrs. Barbara Dungan Barker and Mrs. Frances Dungan Holden, both of R.I. (a 3rd sibling was Rev. Thomas Dungan of Penn.) — TG 4 (1983):187-202, an article by Thomas P. Dungan that completely dissociates William Dungan of St. Martin-in-the-Fields, London, father of the immigrants and first husband of Mrs. Frances Latham Dungan Clarke Vaughan of Newport, R.I., from Judge Thomas Dungan of Lincoln's Inn, and thus disproves the noble ancestry for the Dungan siblings first proposed by Alfred Rudolph Justice in The Ancestry of Jeremy Clarke of Rhode Island and Dungan Genealogy, Philadelphia, 1922, and further developed and corrected by Robert Joseph Curfman in Forebears 15 (1972):103-106 and The Colonial Genealogist 8 (1977):200-212.

5. William Gayer of Nantucket, Mass. — Pennsylvania Genealogical Magazine 28 (1973-1974):14-29, in which Wallace Evan Davies, relying heavily on Robert Gayre of Gayre and Nigg and R.L. Gair, Gayre's Book, Being a History of the Family of Gayre, 4 vols., London, 1948-1959, conclusively and amusingly refutes the royal descent outlined in volumes 1 (1959, 52-56, 247-250), 3 (1964, 48-51, 523-526), and 5 (1972[?], 855-857) of Living Descendants of Blood Royal. London, compiled by Arthur Adams and Count H.H. d'Angerville. The parentage of William Gayer and his brother, Sir John Gayer, Governor of Bombay, is unknown.

6. Christopher Helme of R.I. — the Register 127 (1973):214-215, in which Margaret Helms Browning, printing William Elme's will verbatim, notes that it refers to "Christopher Elme my sonne by my first wife," and thus that the immigrant's mother was almost certainly, as per A.R. Maddison's Lincolnshire Pedigrees, vol. 1 (Harleian Society Publications, Visitations Series, vol. 50), London, 1902, 327, Grisill Spratt, not the royally descended Priscilla Wentworth, his 3rd wife, as argued by Richard LeBaron Bowen in the Register 98 (1944):11-25 (who relied in part on a misabstraction of Elme's will in the Register 22 [1868]:132). All three of these Register articles were reprinted in English Origins of New England Families, 2nd series, (1:753-754, 2:311-327, 3:666) but the certainly gentle ancestry of William Elme and Grisill Spratt has not, I think, been further explored for a possible alternative royal descent.

7. Richard Montagu of Mass., brother of Peter Montagu of Va. — Myrtle Stevens Hyde of Ogden, Utah, is preparing a major article on the immediate ancestry of these two immigrants. Her research in the Burnham, Buckinghamshire, parish register shows that their paternal grandmother, Margaret Malthous, called "daughter of John Malthous of Bynfield in Com. Bucks. (Berks.)" in W.H. Rylands, ed., The Visitation of the County of Buckingham Made in 1634 (Harleian Society Publications, Visitations Series, vol. 58), London, 1909, 93, was not, since an eldest son was born in 1562, the Margaret Malthus baptized at Binfield, Berkshire 15 Feb. 1558, daughter of John Malthus and Margaret Bullock (see John Orlebar Payne, Collections for a History of the Family of Malthus, London, 1890, 13, 33-34, 47), this last a daughter of Thomas Bullock of Arberfield and Alice Kingsmill, a granddaughter of Gilbert Bullock and Margaret Norris, a great-granddaughter of Sir William Norris and Lady Joan de Vere, and a great-great-granddaughter of John de Vere, 12th Earl of Oxford, and Elizabeth Howard. The 1659 will of the immigrant's mother, Helen or Ellen (Allen) Montagu, establishes finally, as had been concluded by George William Montagu in his 1886 and 1894 genealogies of the American descendants of Richard and Peter, and by Sir A.R. Wagner in Pedigree and Progress, London, 1975, 235, 264, that the printed 1634 visitation of Buckinghamshire misplaced the line connecting the immigrants and their siblings to their parents, Peter Montagu and the above Helen or Ellen (Allen). Further investigations into the correct Malthus descent, or into other forebears of this gentry family might disclose an alternative royal line.

8. Richard Scott of R.I., husband of Mrs. Catherine Marbury Scott of R.I., #17 among the "improved royal descents" above — Sir A.R. Wagner in English Genealogy, 1st ed., Oxford, 1960, 366-367, 2nd ed., Oxford, 1972, 415-416, and 3rd ed., Chichester, 1983, 415-416, persuasively argues that the Scott pedigree roll published, with extensive commentary and supplemental data compiled by Richard LeBaron Bowen, in the Register 96 (1942):3-27, 192-194 (and reprinted in English Origins of New England Families, 2nd series, 3:88-119, but with a disclaimer in my introduction, 1:vii) is an early 17th century heraldic forgery. Edward Scott of Glemsford, Suffolk, the immigrant's great-grandfather, was almost certainly not, as the roll indicates, the 3rd son of Richard Scott of Scot's Hall, Kent (younger son of Sir John Scott and Anne or Amy Pympe, for whose royal descent see MCS3, line 134) and Mary Whetenhall. Edward's father was indeed, Wagner thinks, probably a Richard Scott, clothier, also of Glemsford, d. 1565.

9. Mrs. John Trumbull of Conn., the English wife of the "painter of the American Revolution" — George S.H.L. Washington, in TAG 28 (1952):168-171, suggests that Trumbull's English wife, Sarah Hope Harvey, was the third of five illegitimate daughters of Edward Thurlow, 1st Baron Thurlow (1731-1806), British Lord Chancellor, and a "Mrs. Harvey" upon whose identity Washington speculates. He also states that the eldest of these five daughters, Mrs. Maria Harvey Nelson also came to the U.S. and was the matrilineal great-grandmother of Mrs. George Mortimer Pullman, wife of the railway magnate. Lord Thurlow's descent, via the Wingfield, Gilbert, Torkington, and Hovell alias Smith families from the twice above-mentioned Sir Robert Goushill and Elizabeth FitzAlan, Dowager Duchess of Norfolk, can be readily traced from various printed sources listed in the bibliographies of George Marshall and J.B. Whitmore. In Robert Gore-Browne's Chancellor Thurlow, London, 1953, however, Mrs. Harvey is identified as Polly Harvey or Humphreys, a barmaid in her father's Fleet Street coffee house, whose surviving daughters by Lord Thurlow were Caroline (later Mrs. Samuel Brown), Catherine (later Baroness Saltoun) and Mary or Maria (later Lady David Cunyngham of Milncraig, wife of the 5th Baronet) (see p. 59). And in John Trumbull, Patriot-Artist of the American Revolution, Boston, 1975, 191, Irma B. Jaffe quotes a letter from Trumbull to his family, concerning his new wife: "Her parents, as I said died when she was Young; one sister she had who died when she was an infant, and the only brother she lost a few years later; thus She has no near relations living, of her blood; and in this Country still more than ours, other ties are feeble." These items were brought to my attention by Don C. Stone of Philadelphia.

10. Dep. Gov. Francis Willoughby of Mass. — TAG 56 (1980):12-13, in which Kimball G. Everingham dissociates the immigrant's father, Col. William Willoughby, Commissioner of the Royal Navy, from the younger branch of the baronial family of Willoughby of Parham to which he was linked by E.E. and E.McC. Salisbury in Family Histories and Genealogies, New Haven, 1892, vol. 1, pt. 2, 507-604 and the Register 40 (1886):50-56 (reprinted in English Origins of New England Families, 2nd series, 3:821-827, with again a disclaimer in my introduction, 1:vii). This now disproved royal descent is also outlined in MCS3, line 83.

As regards royal descents for immigrants somehow associated with the Mayflower, I consider the line of passenger Richard More (and of his three siblings who did not survive the winter of 1620/1) fully proved, and those of passenger Mrs. Dorothy May Bradford (whose only child left no issue) and agent Thomas Weston "virtually proved." Robert Leigh Ward's article on "The Baronial Ancestry of Henry Sampson, Humility Cooper, and Ann (Cooper) Tilley" (three further passengers, of whom Sampson left descendants) in TG 6 (1985):166-186, may eventually lead to another Mayflower royal descent, if such ancestry can be traced through the Greenes of Greene's Norton, Hastings, Peche or Pipard families. And although John G. Hunt has found much material that will undoubtedly be of keen interest to future Brewster and Winslow researchers (see TAG 41 [1965]:1-5, 63, Of Mary Brewster, the Identity of Mary, Wife of Elder William Brewster of the Mayflower, Bowling Green, Va., 2 vols., 1984-1985, and the Register 121 [1967]:25-29, 122 [1968]:175-178, and 124 [1970]:182-183 — these last articles, like the More items by Wagner, twice reprinted to date), no conclusive proof of Brewster's wife's maiden surname, or of the identity of the paternal grandmother of the five Winslow brothers (two of whom were Mayflower passengers, and a third the husband of one) has yet been found. George C.V. Young's Pilgrim Myles Standish, First Manx American, Peel, Isle of Man, 1984, strongly suggests, as had earlier research, an Isle of Man birthplace and manorial ancestry for the military leader of the Mayflower company. In Gentlemen of Courage — Forward (Alderley Edge, England, 1987) Lawrence Hill argues that the Standishes of Ormskirk, forebears of the Isle of Man family, derive from Hugh Standish, younger son of Sir Alexander Standish of Standish (d. 1445) and Constance Gerard. If Sir Alexander is indeed a patrilineal ancestor of the immigrant, then Myles Standish shares the royal descent of Constance Gerard outlined in AR4&5, line 170.

Gary Boyd Roberts, the Society's Special Projects Director, wishes to thank Glade I. Nelson and Neil D. Thompson of Salt Lake City, and Douglas Richardson of Bethany, Oklahoma, for reviewing this article and suggesting various further sources. He also wishes to thank Brice McAdoo Clagett, Wayne H.M. Wilcox, David L. Greene, Lt. General Herman Nickerson, Jr., John B. Threlfall, Robert Behra, Myrtle S. Hyde, and Don C. Stone for reviewing, usually orally, those sections concerning their own research. Mr. Roberts bears full responsibility, however, for all interpretations or judgments.

OWNERS OF LAND in BROOKLYN, NY

routed all Forrest's forces, and destroyed war material valued at hundreds of millions of dollars. The forts at Columbus were carried by Winslow's brigade alone, led by himself, in a battle by night, and it was the last battle of the war (April 16, 1865). He was then distinguished in the administration of civil affairs in Georgia, under military orders, until his command was mustered out Aug. 10, 1865.

After the war he engaged in railway construction and management; was a leading figure in half a dozen roads in the west; built also the West Shore in New York; was President of the New York, Ontario & Western, of the St. Louis & San Francisco, and of the Atlantic & Pacific, as well as Inspector for the United States of the Union Pacific.

Twenty-five years of this strenuous labor seriously endangered his health, and he was forced to retire. Though compelled thereafter to limit carefully his physical movement, his mind never lost its vigorous activity; he was always keenly interested in the affairs of his country and always occupied in helpful services to his friends.

A soldier without fear and without failure; a citizen spiritedly patriotic and self-sacrificing; a friend who never lost an occasion to prove his loyalty; a husband who, during the long years of his married life, brought unalloyed happiness to his wife, he was a true American, worthy of his American ancestry.

THE EARLIEST "BOUWERIES"* IN BROOKLYN, AND THEIR OWNERS

By Joel N. Eno, A.M.

The earliest Dutch settlers of Brooklyn obtained individual grants by patent, first on the East river.

1. The first patent was granted in 1636 to Jacques Bentyn and William Adrianse (Bennet), who had bought from the Indians a tract of 930 acres, extending from near the present 28th Street, along Gowanus cove and bay to New Utrecht line; that is, from a certain tree on Long Hill (now "Ocean Hill" in Greenwood cemetery), on the rear of the farm owned (in 1869) by Cornelius W. Bennett and that late of Abraham Schermerhorn, and on the boundary between Brooklyn and Flatbush, to the third meadow creek on the bounds between Brooklyn and New Utrecht, land formerly of Henry K. Kent and Winant & Bennett. Bennet became owner of the whole or nearly the whole tract; a deed from Jacques Bentyn, December 26, 1639, acknowledging that he sold to William Adriansen land adjoining said Adriansen for 360 guilders. Bennet built a house on present Third Avenue, near 28th Street, burned by the Indians in 1643; on the site of the later Schermerhorn house. His widow married Paulus van der Beeck. On May 25, 1668, a confirmatory patent was granted to Thomas Fransen of a tract on Gowanus meadow, divided into four parts; Numbers 2 and 4 of which were transferred to Fransen; No. 4 had been conveyed by Adrian Willemsen Bennet, son of Willem to Paulus van der Beeck, and on September 5, 1666, by van der Beeck and his wife, Maria Thomas (Bennet). Van der Beeck was one of the patentees to whom the township of Brooklyn was granted by Gov. Nicolls, October 18, 1667. The Bennet farm was in possession of Adrian, son of the original owner, in 1696. The stone De Hart or Bergen house was near the first meadow, on Gowanus Cove, west of Third Avenue, near 37th and 38th Streets. This, and the Schermerhorn house are both older than the Cortelyou or Vechte house in Fifth Avenue built in 1699, and till 1859 supposed to be the oldest house in Brooklyn. The swamp, Cripplebush, on the land of Bennet is identical with that formerly between Third and Fifth Avenues near 28th Street. The second of the three meadows was at 45th and 46th Streets on First and Second Avenues, and came into possession of Simon Arison (Aertsen, or De Hart) and joined land of Agias van Dyck, southwest of 47th Street; later the farm sold by H. A. Kent to Winant Bennet partly in Brooklyn and partly in New Utrecht. This Van Dyck farm was bought by Hendrick Van Dyck, the deed being dated October 6, 1708, and sold by him in 1760 to John Bergen, who conveyed it to his son Teunis, father of Cornelius Bergen; and lay between 57th and 59th Streets.

* The Dutch of the period of the Dutch Governors is Bouwery, plural Bouwery*en*. Such spellings as wyn, wys, zyn, gelyk, now uijn, etc., are common as late as Marin's Franschen Nederdeutsch Woorden-boek, 1762. I thought it fittest to use the corresponding English of Stuyvesant's time, ("Bouwery" and) "Bouweries." O'Callaghan, Hist. New Netherland, vol. 2, p. 291 and footnote 2; and Brodhead's New York, vol. 1, pp. 504, 681, 742, 762.

In 1869 it was owned by William C. Langley and Thomas Hunt. The Theodorus and Leffert Bergen farms at 52nd to 56th Street, together formed a tract originally sold April 6, 1724 to Joseph Hegeman for £824; he sold it May 10, 1734, to Cornelius Sandford for £500; August 28, 1744, it was sold by Theodorus Van Wyck of New York and his wife Helen, only daughter of said Sandford, to Hans Bergen; the first of several farms bought by the Bergens at Gowanus, Yellow Hook, and Bay Ridge. From Hans it descended to his son Michael, who divided it between his sons Theodorus and Leffert; the portion of Leffert was owned in 1869 by Thomas Hunt and M. McGrath. The Peter Bergen and Van Pelt farms from 46th to 52nd Streets, were once owned by the Van Pelt family, and divided between two brothers; of whom Wouter conveyed his to Peter Bergen, who divided it between his sons Martenus and Peter. Land in dispute between Arison and Adriaen Bennet, was confirmed November 2, 1696, to Arison (de Hart) and later comprised the farms of Simon and John S. Bergen. Arison (Dutch Aertsen) emigrated to New York in 1664, and bought land adjoining Bennet soon after; his house, the De Hart house, is on record in 1679. He bequeathed his farm to Simon, Jr., who died childless, bequeathing his farm to his sister Geertje, who married Simon Bergen; he divided it between his sons Simon and John S., the former taking the plot on which the De Hart house stood, between 37th and 40th Streets, which was inherited by his daughter Leah, wife of Jacob Morris. The land devised by Willem Ariaense Bennet to his widow Maria Thomas (alias Badge) was patented September 9, 1644, to the widow; it lay between 28th and 41st Streets and in 1869 was held by Abraham Schermerhorn, Garret S. and John S. Bergen, and the heirs of Henry Pope, besides that part of Greenwood cemetery which is taken from the rear of the Schermerhorn and Bergen farms.

2. April 5, 1642, Kieft granted a patent to Cornelis Lambertsen (Cool) of lands extending from the wagon road between said lands and Jan Pietersen's, along the river to a certain swamp, (Kreppelbosch), next to the land of Willem Adriaense (Bennet); which land was formerly occupied by Jans Van Rotterdam and Thomas Beets (i. e. Bescher.) This appears on Butts' map as farms of Peter Wyckoff, John Wyckoff, Henry Story, and Winant Bennet. A deed of Thomas Bescher to Cornelis Lambertsen (Cool) of May 17, 1639, for these premises, is the earliest conveyance from one settler to another which has been found for lands in Brooklyn; of which the English translation follows—as to description: "A plantation before occupied by Jan van Rotterdam, and afterward by Thomas Bescher, situate on Long Island. . . on which borders the plantation of Willem Adriaensen (Bennet), cooper; and to the north, Claes Cornelise Smits', reaching the woods in longitude; for all of which Cornelis Lambertsen (Cool) shall pay to said Thomas Bescher 300 Carolus guilders, at 20 stuyvers the guilder." This deed, and most patents for the Dutch period, contain "Lange Eyland" the Dutch equivalent for "Long Island," notwithstanding W. E. Griffis' bold assertion that it does not occur for more than a century later. Jan Pietersen (Staats) lands are set down on Butts' map to J. Dimon, R. Berry, H. L. Clark, A. Van Brunt, and heirs of Rachel Berry. The land set down to Edwin C. Litchfield in 1869, was originally the Vechte farm; 1st to 5th Streets, on which the Cortelyou house stood; on the west side of Fifth Avenue near 4th Street. What remains of the Cortelyou house is now the club house in Washington Park. The founder of the Vechte family was Claes Adriaentse van Vechten of Norch in Drenthe province, Holland. In the Revolution, his grandson, Nicholas Vechte, owned the house; his heir, Nicholas R. Cowenhoven in 1790 sold the house and part of the farm, for £2500 to Jacques Cortelyou, the first Cortelyou, who emigrated in 1652 to New Utrecht; his sons were Adrian and Jacques; the latter sold off city lots. The land between 5th and 7th Streets is set down on the map to Theodorus Polhemus, who received it from his father. Between 7th and 9th Streets, Rem Adriance's; his daughter married Cornelius Van Brunt; the farm on Gowanus creek between 9th and 12th Streets, was owned about 1810 by Cornelius Van Brunt, and divided between his son Adriance, and Henry L. Clarke. The Berry farm on Mill creek, 12th to 14th Streets was sold before the Revolution by Cornelius Van Duyn to Walter Berry, and conveyed by Richard Berry to A. W. Benson. From 15th to Middle Streets, the tract was conveyed about 1751 by Christophel Scarse and Peter Van Pelt to John Bergen, and by him to his brother Dirick Bergen, and fell to his three daughters; Mrs. Joseph Smith, Mrs. Walter Berry, and Mrs. Ebenezer Carson; on Butts' map set down to J. Dimon, Peter Wyckoff, and the heirs of R. Berry. From Middle Street to 20th Street, was originally one farm, owned by Cornelius Van Duyne, and conveyed during the Revolution to Peter Wyckoff; in 1869 held by John Wyckoff. From 20th to 25th Streets was originally one farm owned by Jacob Fardon, and sold in 1720 to Anthony Hulsaart of New Utrecht. He sold to Joseph Woodward and Wynant Bennet, and Woodward sold to Henry Story. It was a tract originally sold by Paulus Vander Beeck to Wm. Huycken in 1679, whose son Conradus deeded it December, 1699, to Cornelius Gerritse Van Duyne, who had married Huycken's oldest daughter. Blokje's Berg, a small hill on Gowanus Cove near the corner of Third Avenue and 23rd Street, had the old Wynant Bennet house, near the place where the British received their first check in the Long Island battle, August 27, 1776. The farms of Cornelius Bennet and Joseph Dean (1869) were originally one, reaching from 25th to 28th Streets. Along the bay between 24th and 28th Streets, was the hamlet of Gowanus, laid out in village lots.

3. Red Hook (Dutch, Roede Hoek) included all the land west of Sullivan Street. Its use was granted in 1638 to Director Van Twiller, to be relinquished at the demand of the W. I. Company. He had already obtained Nutten or Governor's Island and other islands, besides lands at Catskill and on Long Island; in all, 3000 to 3750 acres. In 1652 these grants were declared null and void, and reverted to the Company, which through Stuyvesant in 1657, granted Red Hook to the town of Breukelen. It was sold by the patentees and freeholders of Brooklyn, Aug. 10, 1695, to Col. Stephanus van Cortlandt; estimated at 50 acres. The Van Cortlandt heirs deeded to Mathias Van Dyke, Red Hook, "on the Island of Nassau, formerly Long Island, 50 acres more or less," with a mill on it, corner of Dikeman and Van Brunt Streets. Matthias Van Dyke deeded it to his son John, Feb. 1, 1736, and it fell to his sons Nicholas and Matthias in 1784.

4. Frederick Lubbertsen's patent, dated May 27, 1640, included the whole neck of land between East river and Gowanus creek. He was boatswain to Director Kieft in 1638, and then lived in New Amsterdam. His tract is described as "lying on Long Island, near Werpos;" in 1869, bounded by Degraw and Harrison Streets west of Court Street, and by the East river and Hamilton Avenue. Lubbertsen did not settle on his land until 1653; on Nov. 22, 1679, he devised it to his two daughters, Aeltje, wife of Cornelis Seabring, and Elsie, wife of Jacob Hansen Bergen, and to his wife's two sons, Peter and Hendrick Corssen (Vroom). Bergen's land, over 200 acres, was given to his oldest son, Hans Jacobus Bergen, in 1732; he by will in 1743 gave it to his only son, Jacob, who occupied the old Lubbertsen house near the corner of Hoyt and Warren Streets. He conveyed 130 acres near Court Street and Gowanus creek to John Rapalje in 1750 for £700, and bought part of Gerret Wolpherts Van Couvenhoven's patent, and of Jan Evertse Bout's, March, 1698; Vroom, who then owned the land given to himself and brother, conveyed 100 acres to Seabring for maintaining Corssen for life. John Marsh, of New Jersey, had built a mill on the meadows Corssen and Seabring held in common, about 1689; hence the mill became known as "Seabring's", later Cornell's or the "Red Mill"; at Columbia Street and Tiffany Place, opposite Sedgwick Street. The I. Seabring mill, built after 1766, near the head of Gowanus bay, northeast corner of Hicks and Huntington Streets, was later called the "Luqueer Mill."

5. Claes Jansen Van Naerden (or Ruyter) obtained a patent Sept. 30, 1645, of land bounded southwest and southeast by Frederick Lubbertsen's and northeast by Jan Manje's; 21 morgens and 200 rods. (A morgen is about two English acres, and a Dutch rod is 12 feet 3.62 inches English.) Van Naerden sold to Michael Tuddens, March 11, 1660; he to Michael Hayneste (Hainelle), April 3, 1666, who sold to Dirck Janse Woertman.

6. Jan Manje's patent was next to the foregoing, and was granted Sept. 11, 1642. From this land to D. J. Woertman's adjoining, in 1674, was Andries Hudde's patent. He, with W. Gerritse, bought several flats in Flatlands and Flatbush in 1636; but the Brooklyn patent was obtained Sept. 12, 1645. Hudde never occupied it himself, but it was conveyed by power of attorney through Pieter Cornelissen to Lodewyck Jongh for 400 guilders; the order being approved by the Director, Jan. 2, 1651. Jongh's widow in 1676 conveyed part to Jeronimus Rapalje; in 1679 another part to D. J. Woertman, and in 1685 the rest to the heirs of Joris Dirckse. The Hudde, Manje, and Ruyter patents comprised the whole territory which was later the Remsen, and Philip Livingston estates, Ralph Patchen's, Cornelius Heeney's, Parmenus Johnson's, etc. From Atlantic to Clarke Streets, and from Court Street to East river was bought by D. J. Woertman, and sold Oct. 10, 1706, to his son-in-law, Joris Remsen, for £612, 10s. current money of New York. Joris Remsen was the second son of Rem Jansen Vander Beeck, ancestor of the Remsen family in the United States. Philip Livingston became owner of a large part before 1764. His mansion stood on the east side of Hicks Street, 400 feet south of Joralemon Street. His distillery property was sold July, 1785, to Daniel McCormick; and the property south of the distillery on the 29th April, 1803, to Teunis Joralemon; and the mansion became known as the Joralemon house.

8. Claes Cornelissen (Mentelaer) van Schouw received a patent Nov. 14, 1642, for land probably reaching to the ferry at the foot of Fulton Street.

9. North of the ferry was a small parcel of land of Cornelis Dircksen (Hooglandt) "the ferryman"; he sold Jan. 24, 1643, to Willem Thomassen (or Janssen), and Dirckse obtained another parcel behind the first, Dec. 12, 1645. He conveyed land to Cornelis de Potter, Aug. 28, 1654, and a part to Egbert van Borsum, then ferryman, adjoining Potter's. The Thomassen tract lay next to Henry Breser's originally.

10. Jacob Wolfertsen (van Couwenhoven) received a grant July 3, 1643; confirmed to Breser Sept. 4, 1645, and conveyed by him Aug. 29, 1651, to Cornelis de Potter for 1125 guilders. The patents of Lubbertsen and Breser comprised the balance of the Comfort and Joshua Sands property, as on the Butts map,—up to the line of Fulton Street; and before the Revolution was owned by John Rapalje, great grandson of the first Rapalje, and owner of the largest estate in Brooklyn, but banished for loyalism in 1779, and his estate confiscated to the State. He was reimbursed, however, by the British government. The portion between Gold and Fulton Streets was bought July 13, 1784, by Comfort and Joshua Sands for £12,430 in State scrip.

11. Frederick Lubbertsen, Sept. 4, 1645, obtained a grant of land between H. Breser's and Edward Fiscock's.

12. Fiscock's widow married Jan Haes. Her land was near Martyn's (later Martyr's) Hook, and embraced a part of the Navy Yard site. A part was sold to Cornelis de Potter in 1652, afterward to Aert Aertsen (Middagh), ancestor of the Middagh family, now extinct, though it gave name to Middagh Street. Aertsen married Breckje, second daughter of Hans Hansen Bergen and Sarah Rapalje, and received a patent for land adjoining Joris Rapalje, of 100 acres Oct. 24, 1654, named "Cripplebush" (Dutch Kreupelbosch, underbrush); with his stepfather, Teunis Gysbert (Bogaert).

13. Next to Haes, was Hans Lodewyck's grant, by patent of Nov. 3, 1645.

14. Next was a grant to M. Picet, but regranted to Willem Cornelissen Feb. 19, 1646 (25 morgen), confirmed and regranted by the Governor July 12, 1673, to Michael Heynell, Dirck Jensen, and Jeronimus Rapalje.

15. Peter Caesar Italien, alias C. Alberti, received a grant for a tobacco plantation June 17, 1643; 25 morgen and 24 rods sold in 1647 to John Damon; May 1, 1647, 24 morgen and 450 rods sold; the tract extended from Clermont to Hampden Avenue.

16. Peter Montfoort received a patent May 29, 1641, for land between Hamilton and Clermont Avenue.

17. Jan Montfoort, probably Peter's brother; his "patent" adjoined. In 1869 it was held by John and Jacob Ryerson (between Hamilton and Grand Avenues), they were sons of Marten, who originally owned the whole tract; and descendants of Martin Ryerse, emigrant from Amsterdam, and first husband of Annetie, daughter of Joris Janse de Rapalje; and brother of Adrian Ryerse of Flatbush. Of the descendants of Adrian's sons, from Elbert come the Adriance family, and from Marten the Martense family of Flatbush.

18. Joris (i. e., George) Jansen de Rapalje came from Rochelle, France, in 1623, in the ship Eendracht to Fort Orange; in 1626 to New Amsterdam, north side of Pearl Street; 1654 to Waalbogt, now Wallabout; bought a tract (Rennegaconck) of the Indians, June 16, 1637, reached from the kil or creek to Kreupelbush, for which Kieft gave him a patent June 17, 1643; now the site of the Marine Hospital and the land between Nostrand and Grand Avenues. He had 11 children. Part was conveyed to Jeronimus Remsen in 1714; by him to John Van Nostrand in 1719; by him to Daniel Rapalje in 1729; by him to Garret Nostrand in 1765.

19. Hans Hansen Bergen received a patent March 30, 1647, of 200 morgen, from Rennegaconck creek to the present Division Street, bound between Brooklyn and Williamsburgh; on Butts' map lands of Gen. Jeremiah Johnson, James Scholes, Abraham Remsen, Abraham Boerum, Abraham Meserole, McKibbin, Nichols, Powers, Schenck, Mills, etc. Bergen came from Bergen in Norway by way of Holland in 1633 to New Netherland; he settled on Pearl Street adjoining J. J. de Rapalje, whose daughter, Sarah, he married in 1639; she was the first white female born in New Netherland, June 9, 1625, at Fort Orange. This was the origin of the Bergens of Long Island and New Jersey. The Bergen land went to Bogaert, Sarah's second husband, 1664. The later Johnson homestead was bought from Rem Jansen Vanderbeeck, who married Janetje de Rapalje, whence it fell to their two sons Isaac and Jeremias Remsen; the latter buying out Isaac, it fell to Jeremias, Jr., who bequeathed it to his relative, Barent Johnson, father of Gen. Jeremiah Johnson. The Boerum farm was originally owned by Teunis Bogert, whose son Adrian sold it to Jacob Bloom; his grandchild sold it to Abraham A. Remsen, March, 1816; sold by him Nov., 1816, to Abram Boerum, and his brother Cornelius' land to Abraham Remsen.

20. The second tier from East river: first Gerrit Wolphertsen (van Cowenhoven); patent March 11, 1647, on the road from Flatbush to Brooklyn village. Next Jacob Stoffelsen, who left Brooklyn in 1656. 22. Jan Evertsen Bout received patent July 6, 1645, for land west of van Cowenhoven; it went to Joris Jurianse, who married Bout's widow. She married, 3d, Jan Janse Staats. The original tract included Freke's and Denton's or the "Yellow Mill." Bout gave the neck to the children of Adam Brower, ancestor of the Browers. Jurian Andriese sold 27 morgen Feb. 19, 1708, to Carell Debevoise* for £400. 23. Huyck Aertsen (van Rossum) obtained

*Carel De Beauvois (or Bevoise), ancestor of the family in the United States, came from Leyden, Holland, arriving Feb. 17, 1659, with his wife Sophia, and children Jacobus, Gertrude and Catherine; Cornelis was born March 3, 1659, at New Amsterdam. The family is Huguenot, originating in Beauvais, an important town in the Department of the Oise, northern France; earlier Beauvois.

patent Feb. 22, 1646, to land next to Bout; it went to Albert Cornelis Wantenaer, who married Rossum's widow. 24, 25 and 26 patents were lands between the present Fulton Street and Avenue, Raymond Street and a line a little south of Tillary Street; taken up by Joris Dircksen, Pieter Cornelissen, and Cornelis Dircksen in 1646; (see Dircksen "the ferryman").

BROOKLYN FIFTY YEARS AGO, AND NOW.

Brooklyn had its origin by the settlement of Jan Evertsen Bout in 1645 near the spot where Hoyt and Smith Streets join Fulton; the latter was then the road to the "Ferry," which is now nearly under Brooklyn Bridge. Most of the land near the Ferry almost to Wallabout was granted to Jan Rapalje in 1643, but a great part of it was sold by his grandson, John Rapelje, to Comfort and Joshua Sands in 1784, for £12,430 sterling. They founded a settlement called Olympia. John Jackson sold the site of the Navy Yard to the United States in 1801, and on the rest of his land near founded "Irishtown" in the Fifth ward, adjoining Olympia. In 1790, the first United States Census found only 1600 population in Brooklyn. Brooklyn when incorporated as a village April 12, 1816, was bounded as follows: From the foot of Joralemon Street to Red Hook Lane; thence to Jamaica Turnpike; thence to Wallabout Pond and the East River. The village had increased to 7000 population in 1820, and was incorporated a city April 18, 1834. The First Ward, on Butts' map, 1869, and Fulton's Farm Line map, 1874, was on the lands of Ralph Patchen (on State Street), Philip Livingston (on Livingston Street), Remsen (on Remsen Street), R. Benson (on Montague Street), Pierpont from De Bevoise (on Pierrepont Street), Swartcope at Monroe Place, Jackson, Kimberly, and Waring, between Pierrepont and Clark Streets, Middagh at the foot of Henry Street, and Jacob and John Hicks on Hicks Street, and Columbia Heights. The Second ward was on lands of Comfort and Joshua Sands; the Fourth on lands of C. and J. Sands and J. B. Johnson, except Tillary's small tract at the beginning of Tillary Street; the Fifth on C. and J. Sands, except a small section on J. Jackson (Irishtown), next to the Navy Yard, and another on Samuel Jackson, about the corner of Concord and Duffield Streets, with part of J. B. Johnson's and John Duffield's (the latter at Duffield Street). A considerable number of street names throughout the city remain as monuments locating the early farm ownership. The Third ward is an extension from the old village, from Boerum Place to Fourth Avenue, on lands of J. Cornell, Schermerhorn, S. Smith, Samuel L. Gerrison, George Martense, De Bevoise, and Mary Powers (sold later to Castelar, Christmas, and Lloyd). The Sixth ward extended along Buttermilk Channel from the First ward and South Ferry, to Hamilton Avenue and Fourth Place, on Lands of Ralph Patchen, Cornelius Heeney, Parmenus Johnson, Selah Strong (on Strong Place), Degraw (at Degraw Street), John Cornell (on Columbia Street), Simon Cornell

(from Strong Place to President Street, and east on Red Book Lane), Hoyt's Prospect Hill, adjoining; to Hamilton Avenue, were lands of Kellogg and Blake, Kellogg and Clark, Brush and Benjamin, and Hicks and Smith, between Court Street, Red Hook Lane and Fourth Place. The Tenth ward adjoined the Third and Sixth; owners, J. Boerum, W. Boerum, J. Reid, Jacob Bergen, J. C. Freake (who sold to Brady & Fiske), Poole, Clarke. The Twelfth ward extended from the Tenth to Brooklyn and Erie Basins; owners, Johnson, S. Cornell, Nicholas Luqueer (at Luqueer Street), Jordan Coles, Remsen's Island and Gerritson's Island, Tyson Van Dyke, N. Van Dyke, and Mathias Van Dyke, at the Basins. Eleventh ward, north of Third, from Fulton Street to Portland Avenue; owners, John Duffield, Sam. Fleet (at Fleet Street), Samuel James. Between Myrtle and De Kalb Avenue were De Bevoise, Hamilton H. Jackson, St. Felix (at St. Felix Street), John Jackson east of Washington Park, and John Jackson and John Skillman, north of City Park. Twentieth ward, adjoining Eleventh, is bounded by Portland Avenue, Flushing Avenue, Washington Avenue, and Atlantic Avenue, on lands of Nicholas Cowenhoven, Post Farm (Washington Park), John Jackson, John Ryerson, Jeremiah V. Spader, John Spader, heirs of Jacob Ryerson, W. Hunter, Jr., Clark, Hunter, Jacob Ryerson. The Seventh ward joins the Twentieth on Washington Avenue; other bounds are Flushing Avenue, Bedford Avenue, and Atlantic Avenue, on lands of John Ryerson (at Ryerson Street), Martin Ryerson, John Jackson, Schenck (at Schenck Street). Gen. Jeremiah Johnson, John Skillman (at Skillman Street), Clark and Manley, Tunis Johnson, W. J. Cornell and P. Reid, the tract of the last four half inclosed in the land of Tunis Cowenhoven from beyond De Kalb Avenue to Gates Avenue; on Gates, Ryerson owned from Monroe to Madison Streets, Meserole, from Madison Street to Jefferson Avenue; the estate of Leffert Lefferts, and from Fulton Streets to Leffert Place, Rem Lefferts. The Ninth ward is a Triangle between Flatbush Avenue and Franklin Avenue, on James Pearsall, Parmenter, J. Lefferts, James Underhill, Cornelius Van Cleef, Nehemiah Denton, Nicholas Cowenhoven, Anthony Kerr, Wm. Powers, Evans, and Evans to Glover, Levi Hart, Mary Johnson, Wm. J. Cornell, J. C. Freeke, Moses Smith, S. Fleet, Poole, Estate of Leffert Lefferts, Rem Lefferts, Robert Wilson, Abraham Selover, Robert De Bevoise. The Twenty-second ward adjoins the Ninth on Flatbush Avenue to Prospect Park and Fourth Avenue and the Canal leading to Gowanus Bay; on Poole, Sebring, Ino. C. Ham, (to P. Remsen), Charles Hoyt, late Brower, Eliza Powers, Thomas Poole, Theodorus Polhemus, Polhemus, Jr., Adrian Cortelyou and A. Cortelyou to E. C. Litchfield, Jaques Cortelyou to E. C. Litchfield, Cooper, Theodorus Polhemus, Thomas G. Talmage, Rem Adriance, Van Brunt, H. L. Clarke and H. L. Clarke to A. W. Benson & Fiske, E. W. Benson, Richard Berry, Joseph to Berry, Debora Carson, Rachel Berry to E. B. Litchfield. Between Prospect Park and Prospect Avenue were Joseph Dean, John Vanderbilt, Cornelius Bennet, A. Martenus and John and Peter Wyckoff.

The Eighth ward runs southward from the Twenty-second at Prospect Avenue to the City line between New Utrecht and Gowanus Bay, (including Greenwood Cemetery) continuing tracts of John and Peter Wyckoff, and John Vanderbilt; it has also Jeremiah Vanderbilt (north of Greenwood Cemetery), and H. Story and Wynant Bennet alongside the cemetery and southward; Joseph Dean, Cornelius Bennet, Schermerhorn, Gerrit and John Bergen, John G. Bergen, G. Bergen, Delaplaine, Henry Poole, Simon Bergen to Jacob Morris, and to Lott, and Lott to Delaplaine, John Bergen, and Bergen to John Delaplaine, Van Pelt to Hunt, Martenus and Peter Bergen, Leffert Bergen, Theodorus Bergen, Cornelius Bergen to Hunt & Langley, and Wynant Bennet again. The Polhemuses descend from Rev. Johannes Theodorus Polhemus, first Dutch preacher at Brooklyn, Midwout, Amersfoort, and Gravesend, till 1659. The first Dutch church of Brooklyn was at Fulton Street between Smith and Hoyt Streets. Ward Nineteen is the triangle on Wallabout Bay and the Navy Yard between Flushing Avenue and Broadway; on land of Abraham Boerum, Abraham Remsen, James Scholes, Gen. Jeremiah Johnson, Delmonico, and De Bevoise. Division Street was the boundary between Brooklyn and Bushwick (Williamsburgh section), in which Broadway is situated.

The Twenty-first ward adjoins the Nineteenth on Flushing Avenue to Lafayette Avenue, with Broadway on the north. From Nostrand Avenue to Broadway; Henry Boerum, Rapelyea, Jacobus Lott, F. Vandervoort, Delmonico, J. Meserole, Samuel Meeker, and Wright and Butler (formerly Thomas Brown). Ward 25 continues this last group of tracts, running triangularly between Broadway and Atlantic Avenue to the New Lots line. Ward Twenty-three adjoins ward Twenty-five along Lafayette Avenue from Bedford Avenue to Yates (now Sumner) Avenue and includes Tompkins Park, which with the land south belonged to Tunis Johnson; at Greene and Bedford Avenues, Wm. Spencer; Bedford between Quincy and Monroe Streets, including Lefferts Park, was Rem Lefferts (later R. Graves); from Monroe Street to Putnam Avenue along the east side of Marcy Avenue James De Bevoise owned; to Hancock Street, Estate of Leffert Lefferts; to Halsey Street, Rem Lefferts; Macon and McDonough, Mrs. Lott, nearly to Nostrand Avenue, where T. N. Redding, Betts, and Isaac Brinkerhoff owned; between Fulton Street and New York and Brooklyn Avenues, Rem Lefferts, Jr., adjoining Sarah Millard, between whom and Yates (now Sumner) Avenue was James Lefferts, Jr.

Ward Twenty-four runs from Atlantic Avenue to Flatbush town bounds, between Nostrand and Troy Avenues; contains Lefferts tracts; Estate of Leffert Lefferts, Cornelia Lefferts, Rem Lefferts, Rem Lefferts to Bell, to Rogers, and to J. Moser; southward, John Jackson, Isaac Cortelyou, S. Smith, S. Caton, R. Malbone, Jonathan Trotter, Joralemon, L. Green, Wheaton, Johnson Leake, Delmonico, Schomaker, Bowne, Skillman, John Dittmar, T. M. Sother, N. E. Mason, J. Spader, Jeremiah Meserole, J. Hegeman, Z. Coffin, Sam. Welles, Backhouse, Boerum, Stillwell, John Lefferts, Vanderveer. John Halsey Bergen, Chapin; and from near Nostrand Avenue along Greene Avenue, Jeremiah Remsen; between the Remsen and the Leffert estate, the heirs of Samuel Gerritson; from near Utica Avenue to Ralph Avenue, Hoogland, J. Lefferts, Carregan, Schomaker, Paul Porter, Delius, Overton, Stanbury, Powers, J. Halsey, Skillman, Redding, Lefferts, Johnson, Leake; beyond, in third division of woodland to New Lots line were long narrowish strips of Thompson, C. Bostwick, James T. Johns, Williamson, Cornelius Suydam, Mary Powers, Jane Bergen, Lunington Van Sickle, Heirs of John Devoe, Mrs. Macomber, Thomas P. Graham (late Jacobus Lott), Michael Stryker, A. O. Millard, James Lefferts, Moses Suydam (to Johnson Leake), Mrs. Sarah Lefferts, Estate of Leffert Lefferts, Rem Lefferts, Robert Lane.

Twenty-fifth ward, from Atlantic Avenue to Broadway; on Gabriel De Bevoise and Jacobus De Bevoise, Mrs. Lott, Moses and Lambert Suydam, Daniel Lott, Bailey, James Lefferts, J. L. Stratton, Ryerson, Estate of Leffert Lefferts, Gideon Tucker, Wm. Phillip, Dr. N. A. Garrison, Mrs. Lott, Rem Lefferts, Philip Reid, Hendrick Suydam. The foregoing cover all of the original city of Brooklyn; the city and borough have since absorbed the town of Bushwick. In Bushwick, Williamsburgh was incorporated a village April 14, 1827; from Brooklyn line (Division Avenue) to Union Avenue, thence down Bushwick Creek to East river; now mostly in wards 13 and 14; an addition, now wards 15 and 16, was made April 18, 1835; with the rest of Bushwick consolidated with Brooklyn, July 18, 1853.

Ward 13 is on land of Jacob Berry, Abraham Meserole, David Griswold, Boerum, Frederick K. Devoe, David Dunham, Conselyea, John Miller, Noah Waterbury, Grover and Garrett Furman, Van Mater, Abraham Canon. Ward 14 is on J. H. Maxwell, M. Judson, Richard M. Woodhull, Francis Titus, Lewis Sandford, Sharp & Sutphen, Wm. Vail, Wm. Burnett, Frost, Butler, Hurdy & Sinclair, John Skillman, David Meserole, Mackerell & Richardson. Ward 15 continues the last few, and adds J. Skillman to Joshua Newton, Andrew and Wm. Conselyea, John Devoe, P. Devoe, W. P. Powers, Vandervoort L. Richardson, Morgan L. Smith, Vandervoort & Conselyea to W. P. Powers. Ward 16 joins 15 on Ten Eyck Street; other bounds, Flushing Avenue, Broadway, and Bushwick Avenue; on James Scholes, Abraham Meserole, Boerum to McKibbin (at McKibbin Street), and Nichols, Abraham Bogart to Francis Varet, John Cook to Thomas Moore, Gabriel Cook, Abraham Varet to Francis Varet, Jacobus De Bevoise. Ward 17, known as "Greenpoint," lies on East river, Newton Creek, Meeker Avenue, and wards 14 and 15. On East river, heirs of J. Meserole, and (formerly) Crane & Co.; next east, David Provost, J. B. Taylor, Keziah Bliss, Cunningham, Williams & Sneeden, Samuel J. Tilden, heirs of Peter Calyer (on Calyer Street), heirs of Peter Meserole, heirs of Capt. John Meserole, John G. Van Cott, D. C. & A. C. Kingsland, Abijah Mann, Jacob Bennet to A. Mann, Bradford, E.

Bridge. Ward 18 extended from bounds of wards 15, 16, 21, and 25 to Queens county bounds, and from Meeker Avenue to Evergreen Cemetery. Beginning from 17th ward bound (Meeker Avenue), heirs of John Waters, Anthony Hulst (at Anthony Street), Estate of John Devoe, Charles J. De Bevoise, Gabriel De Bevoise, J. W. & M. Y. Beadell, Wm. Cooper, Peter Cooper, Coope & Hayne, Joseph Conselyea, Stephen B. Masters, Van Alst, Noah Waterbury, heirs of Charles Schenck, Allen & Decevee, Corlies & Leeds, George White, Abraham Vandervoort, James B. Wyckoff, Ralph Lane (at Ralph Street), Stephen, Mary and Charles Schenck, Gabriel and James De Bevoise, heirs of Jacob Suydam, Wm. H. Furman, Miss Margaret Duryea (from whom are named Margaretta and Duryea Streets), William Covert (at Covert Street), William Van Voorhis (Van Voorhis Street), T. W. Fields, Robert and John Cooper, heirs of John Moffat (Moffat Street), Francis Dubois, James Pilling (Pilling Street), John Vanderveer (Vanderveer Street), Watson Bowron.

Ward 26, "East New York," was taken from New Lots, and lies east of wards 24 and 18, thence extending northward on both sides of Atlantic Avenue. Former owners, John R. Pitkin, Horace A. Miller, land of Gilliam Schenck, Samuel J. Stewart, and Walter Nichols (Nichols Street).

Wards 27 and 28 have been taken from the old ward 18 as described above.

The four other wards, absorbed in Brooklyn in 1894 by act of the Legislature, were in 1890 the following towns: ward 29 was Flatbush; ward 30, New Utrecht; ward 31, Gravesend; ward 32, Flatlands.

COLONEL JOHN LIVINGSTON OF NEW LONDON, CONN., ELDEST SON OF ROBERT LIVINGSTON, FIRST LORD OF LIVINGSTON MANOR, N. Y.

CONTRIBUTED BY E. B. LIVINGSTON (1911), London, England.

Since the publication of the Livingstons of Livingston Manor, I have come across some further references to this somewhat neglected member of the New York Livingstons, one of which clearly proves he died in London, England, and not in New England, as I inferred might have been the case, owing to the rather ambiguous entry of his death in Musgrave's Obituary.

MANUMISSIONS IN KINGS COUNTY, N.Y., 1797–1825

By KENNETH SCOTT, F.A.S.G.

At the end of the eighteenth century and up to 1826 numerous slaves were set free by their masters in Kings County, New York. Manumissions became especially frequent after the passage on 29 March 1799 of "An Act for the gradual abolition of slavery" by the New York State Legislature. (Laws of New York, 22 Session of the Legislature, ch. 62.) Records of such manumissions for four towns in Kings County are here published, giving name of owner, name of slave (usually with age), date of manumission, and, in parentheses, the page(s) where the item is found, as follows: Brooklyn Town Meeting Minutes, 1785–1823; Flatbush Slave Records, 1799–1819; New Utrecht Slaves Record, 1800–1822; and Bushwick Town Records, 1600–1825. The material is published through the courtesy of Professor Arthur J. Konop, Director of the James A. Kelly Historical Studies Institute of St. Francis College, Brooklyn, N.Y.

enormous amount of plate, many slaves, money in England, and eig family portraits. Of his indentured servants, John Nicholson, Henry th carpenter, and Thomas the glazier were given a year of their time, an "cousin David Abbot" his entire seven years. Signing as witnesses we Richard Fossaker, John Washington, Thomas Gilson, Wm. Andrew Alexander Spence, and Jno. Nicholson.

Two documents concern the estate of George Hedgman, deceased: th widow Hannah's accounts (Oct. 1762) and a bond of Travers Daniel a guardian of the son John (10 Aug., 12 Geo. III).

Pages 450 to 463, torn from what must have been a record book of th Court of Stafford County, contain twenty recordings, all apparently ma 14 December 1671. There are two accountings, three depositions (concern ing the theft and killing of swine), one oath, five deeds, one article of in denture, one lease, two wills, two court orders, two bonds, and one pow of attorney. Of particular interest is the will of Giles Brent "of the Retir ment in Stafford County" who identifies himself as son of the late "Richar Brent, anciently Lord of the Manors of Admington and Larkestoke in th County of Glocester in England," mentioning his son Giles, daughter Ma Fitzherbert, and two brothers in England, Richard and William.

As this digest shows, the collection is a random one. Only the fact th all of the documents pertain to Stafford County unifies it.

LOYALISTS AND "DOUBTFUL" MEN OF KINGS COUNTY, 1777

By Kenneth Scott

Andrew Eliot, last Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of New York took with him to Scotland in 1783 numerous official documents. In 195 the State Library in Albany acquired these papers from the Earl of South esk and among them are items concerned with the militia of Kings Coun in 1777 and also with woodlands in that county which were sold in 178 to His Majesty's government. The Americans who took money for the woodlots were not above making money by providing a source of fuel fo the British army. Militiamen described by the captains of the compani as "loyal" are contrasted with men designated as "doubtful." In each in stance a "doubtful man" is here indicated by an asterisk, instead of th dot or o used on the militia lists.

One document, entitled "The Declaration Against Popery," reads a follows:

"I A.B. do solemnly and sincerely, in the presence of God, profess, testify, and declare, that I do believe, that in the Sacrament of the Lords supper there is not any transubstantiation of the Elements of bread & wine into the body and blood of Christ, at or after the consecration thereof by any Person Whatsoever: And that the invocation or adoration of the Virgin Mary, or any other Saint, and Sacrifice of the Mass, as they are now used in the Church of Rome, are superstitious and Idolatrous: And I do solemnly in the Presence of God, profess, testify and Declare, that I do make this Declaration and evry part thereof, in the plain and ordinary sense of the words read unto me, as they are Commonly understood by English protestants, without any evasion, equivocation, or mental reservation whatsoever, and without any dispensation granted me for this Purpose by the pope, or any other authority or Person whatsoever, and without any hope of any such dispensation from any person or authority whatsoever, or without thinking that I am or can be acquitted before God or man, or absolved of this declaration, or any part thereof, although the Pope or any person or persons, or Power whatsoever shall Dispense with or Annul the same, or Declare that it was null or Void from the beginning. Kings County. October ye 16th 1777."

The declaration is signed by the following officers of the militia companies of the county:

A return, undated but probably taken in 1777, of the Kings County regiment of militia, commanded by Colonel William Axtell, lists 409 men, of whom 374 were in the companies of foot and 35 in Capt. Rem Couwenhoven's troop of light horse. All of the men in the troop of horse were considered "loyal," but eighty men in the companies of foot were designated as "doubtfull." Incidentally, only 153 of the men in the companies of foot were provided with firelocks.

On August 27 Captain Couwenhoven prepared a list of his thirty-five cavalrymen and noted that the equipment still needed by them was as follows: "16 pairs of pistols, 25 carbines, 17 swords, 20 cartridge boxes, 29 pounds of powder [and] 80 pounds of balls." Couwenhoven added that if the colonel "recovers" the arms, they should be sent to the colonel's house. Officers in the cavalry were Rem Couwenhoven, Cpt., Hendrick Suydam, Lt., Johannes Emons, 2 Lt., John Johnson, Cornet, Hendrick

Saydam, Lt., Hendrick Saydam, Corperel, John Norstrant, Corpl., Andrwe [sic] Casper, Corpl.; privates were the following (here alphabetized, as has been done in the case of privates in the foot companies):

Afterthought!! Any one really interested should look over all the names given in the "Colonial Laws of New York" and follow the index which in one place is wrong, giving p. 535 where it should be p. 555. The reason for looking them over is that the name "Cognot" was discarded by me as Irish, not Palatine, and just now it appears that it might have become later "Coughnet" which united with one of the family trees of the Bellingers. In other words, a Coughnet and a Bellinger were participants in a second trial of matrimony about 100 years ago.

TRYON COUNTY MILITIA

Names of Militiamen in French and Indian War Before Revolution. First Publication in this Form.

Chapter One

Believing that since the list of the names of the persons who served in the militia in the upper Mohawk valley, previous to the Revolution, will command general interest, I have collected from the reports of the state historian, the names of persons who served from 1757 to 1767 in the militia companies of Captains Petry, Dygert, Klock, Conrad Frank, Lieut. Van Alstein and Col. Jost Herkimer's Granadier company of men to be officers in the militia, and hereby submit them for your consideration.

The first record of appointment of officers for the upper valley that I find was when Gov. William Crosby gives the "List of officers of the Militia for Albany Co. Nov. 17, 1733." "or above ye falls of ye Maquas (Mohawk) River." Capt. Johan Jurgh Kast (who drew lot 22 on north side), Lieut. John Jost Herkemer (who drew lot 36 on south side, al-

ADDITIONAL NAMES

The following names are found in the Oriskany roster, Vol. 1 of Green's Gateway to the West, but do not appear among the Tryon County Regiments found in New York in the Revolution. The Battle of Oriskany was fought under the direction of the committee of safety and before the state government was functioning. Those who were killed or wounded or disabled from further action might easily have been overlooked by those who prepared the roster of soldiers, depending on the state papers. The list of soldiers follows:

These names while they do not appear among the Tryon County Militia Regiment will be found in the Oriskany Roster of beginning, shall be and is hereby erected into a separate town, by the name of the Colonie."

It was divided, February 25, 1815, and its legal existence as a town terminated by giving its territory to Albany and Watervliet. The Albany portion was made the "Fifth Ward" for many years.

It was a small town, less in area than any other town in the State. Its population in 1810 was only 1,406, and in 1815, 1,657, having 245 houses and stores, and thirty slaves. The houses and stores were principally on one street, except near Albany.

In 1818 an effort was made to restore it to town privileges, but did not succeed.

In Colonie, in 1813, were "the Public Garden of Mr. Buckmaster," two breweries, a distillery, two large tanneries, a tallow chandlery, rope walks, a grain mill and several other manufactories, including a part of the "tobacco works" of Mr. James Caldwell, which were on Mill Creek, mostly on the north or Watervliet side. There was also "a Seceders' Church," whatever that might be, and "a large brick edifice filled with military stores belonging to the State of New York and the United States," called "The Arsenal," standing "on the east side of the principal street," "connected with which is a large yard."

Says Spafford in 1813, in his "Gazetteer of New York:" "The compact village of Colonie is continuous with Albany, of which it forms a large and populous suburb, though legally organized under a separate municipality." "That part necessarily belongs to Albany in a general view of its population, resources, wealth, trade and general character."

In Fry's Albany Directory for 1813, the first published in the city, we find no name of a citizen of Colonie except "Spafford, Horatio G., author of Geography and Gazetteer, Colonie, two doors south of Arsenal." Mr. Fry makes this explanation in his prefatory "Notice:" "Should this publication meet its hoped-for encouragement, in the sale of the books, the next may be accompanied with a list of inhabitants in the Colonie and a map of the city."

GUILDERLAND was named from Guilderlandt in the Netherlands. It was formed from Watervliet, February 26, 1803. The northwest portion of the city of Albany was annexed to this town, February 26, 1871. It is bounded, north by Schenectady County, east by Watervliet and Albany, south by Bethlehem and New Scotland, west by Knox, and has an area of 38,784 acres, the largest number of any town in the county. Its outline is very singular, suggesting a rhombus in general form, the apexes of the two acute angles of which are fifteen miles apart northwest and southeast.

The surface is quite varied, from the sandy ridges and the marshes of the eastern part of the town to the higher hills of the Helderbergs on the west. The soil is a barren sand in the northeast; but there are many fertile farms of sandy loam well improved by cultivation in other parts of the town, producing excellent grass, grain and fruits, which find a ready market in Albany.

The Indian Ladder Gap, supposed to mark an ancient Indian trail, is in this town, and remarkable for picturesque scenery.

Formerly the town was distinguished for certain manufactures. In 1792 glass works were commenced in this town, eight miles from Albany. Among the proprietors were Jeremiah Van Rensselaer, John Sanders, Abraham Ten Eyck, Elkanah Watson, Frederick A. De Zeng, K. K. Van Rensselaer, Douw Fonda, Walter Cochran, Thomas Mather and Samuel Mather.

In 1796 the ground was laid out in streets and house lots, and plans for a church and school house were made. The project of a manufacturing town, to be called Hamilton, in honor of Alexander Hamilton, was considered. The Legislature, as an encouragement, exempted the company and the workmen from taxation for five years. The corporation was called the Albany Glass Company. At the first, it was owned by McClallen, McGregor & Co., the Co. being James Caldwell and Christopher Batterman; and a loan was granted to the proprietors by the State to the amount of £3,000 for eight years—three years without interest and five years at five per cent. In 1795 Robert McGregor left the firm, and a new company, under the name of Thomas Mather & Co., was formed. At one period 500,000 feet of window glass was manufactured annually. The works were discontinued in 1815, as it is said, for want of a suitable supply of sand and fuel.

Abel French, of Albany, established a factory near the center of the town in 1800, and the place was named French's Mills. In 1795 clothing mills were erected here by Peter K. Broeck. In 1800 Knowersville had a cotton factory, and later a hat factory. The first tavern in town was kept here by Jacob Acker during the Revolution.

Whigs and Tories dwelt here in constant feud during the trying days of 1775–83. The feelings then engendered between discordant families long remained. The exultant Whigs, on getting news of the surrender of Burgoyne, it is said, illuminated

Montgomery County--formed from Albany March 12, 1772-named Tyron Co. for Wm. Tryon, Colonial Gov. Present name given in honor of Gen. Richard Montgomery of the Rev. in April 2, 1784. Principal seat of the Mohawks, one of the most powerful tribes of the Five Nations. Amilitary post, known as Fort Hunter, was established near the mouth of Schoharie Creek in 1711. About the same time a large number of German Palatinates, sent over by Queen Anne, setled upon the Hudson, and shortly after removed to Schoharie and the Mohawk Valley, and settled upon lands given them by Gov. At about the same period a considerable number of Hooland Dutch, From Schenectady and vicinity, found their way into the co. and extend3d their improvement up the valley. After the British and French won the Indians over there were many bloody battles along th e Mohawk River. In Oct. of 1781, the last party of 600 British and Indians, attacked but were set to running. The practically ended the war in Tryon co.

Much manufacture is carried on in town, consisting of mill machinery, agricultural implements, carriages, car springs, and carpets at Amsterdam Village, and of woolen goods at Hagamans Mills. Incorporated April 20, 1830 Pop. 2044. First settlers at Amsterdam Village were Albert Veeder, E. E. DeGraff, Nicholas Wilcox, and Wm. Kline. Florida was formed from Mohawk, March 12, 1793. Port Jackson is a canal village on the Mohawk, opposite Amsterdam pop. 369. Minaville, on Chuctenunda Creek, near the center contains 95 inhabitants. Minden was formed from Canajoharie, March 2, 1798 Mindenville, on the Mohawk, in the w. part of the own, contains 30 houses. John Abeel, an Indian trader, settled here in 1748. on the west, by a straight line to be drawn from the points of the said south and north lines."

In 1687, Gov. Dongan, in his report to the English Board of Trade, says: "The town of Albany lyes within the Ranslaers' Colony; and, to say the truth, the Ranslaers had the right to it, for it was they settled the place, and upon a petition of one of them to our present King, about Albany, the petitioner was referred to his Majesty's council at law, who, upon a perusal of the Ranslaers' papers, made their return that it was their opinion that it did belong to them. * * * The town itself is upon a barren sandy spot of land, and the inhabitants live wholly upon trade with the Indians. I got the Ranslaers to release their pretence to the town and sixteen miles into the country for commons to the King, with liberty to cut firewood within the colony for one and twenty years. After I had obtained this release of the Ranslaers I passed the patent for Albany."

This "Ranslaers' Colony," otherwise the "Manor of Rensselaerwyck," was erected into a district, March 24, 1772, and subdivided soon after the war of the Revolution, March 5, 1779, into east and west districts. The west district included the whole of the territory now called Albany County, except the City of Albany as above described, and certain State lands, so called, located in the northeast part of the town of Watervliet. All the rights therein remaining to the Patroon, the late Hon. Stephen Van Rensselaer, of revered memory, upon his death, January 26, 1839, descended to his son Stephen, while those of the east district, formerly including most of Rensselaer and a part of Columbia counties, descended to his other son, William P.

It will thus be seen that the whole territory of this county was once included within the Colony of Rensselaerswyck, the history of which appears under its appropriate head.

With the exception of the City of Albany, the whole of the territory now called Albany County, and including most of that now constituting the town of Niskayuna, in Schenectady County, was incorporated March 7, 1788, into a town by the name of Watervliet. Niskayuna was set off March 7, 1809, making the county limits coincide with those of the west Manor of Rensselaer.

From this territory the following towns in Albany County have since been incorporated:

Names.	Date.	From what other town.
Rensselaerville	March 8, 1790	Watervliet.
Coeymans	March 18, 1791	"
Bethlehem	March 12, 1793	"
Berne	March 17, 1795	Rensselaerville.
Guilderland	Feb. 26, 1803	Watervliet.
Colonie	April 11, 1808	"
Westerlo	March 16, 1815	Coeymans & Rensselaerville
Knox	Feb. 28, 1822	Berne.
New Scotland	April 25, 1832	Bethlehem.
Cohoes	May 19, 1869	Watervliet.

The local history of these towns, as fully as space will allow, will be written by others. We give a summary of some facts of general interest.

It will be seen that no town organization existed in Albany County until after the Revolutionary war and the adoption of the Federal Constitution, when Watervliet, as above stated, was organized March 7, 1788. Before this, except what jurisdiction inhered in the Manor of Rensselaerwyck, all civil, judicial, and other matters of common interest, were managed at Albany, made a city more than 100 years prior to this date. The City of Albany was then, except in territory, the County—the center of business, of military and civil power, and of social interest.

OUTLINE SKETCHES OF THE TOWNS OF THE COUNTY.

BERN.—More recently and generally spelled Berne; named from Berne, Switzerland, the native place of Jacob Weidman, one of the first settlers. It was formed from Rensselaerville, March 17, 1795, and embraced what is now the town of Knox, which was taken off from the north part February 28, 1822. It is the middle of the three western towns of the county; about 20 miles from Albany; has an area of 38,782 acres, and is bounded north by Knox, east by New Scotland, south by Westerlo and Rensselaerville, and west by Schoharie County. The Helderbergs lie along its eastern border, the western slope of which gives a broken surface, varied by hills, ravines and plateaus. The soil is a loam formed of sand, gravel and clay; a fine calcareous, argillaceous loam abounds in the valleys; and marsh, bog, clay and marl patches are found. Brooks are numerous, most of them finding their way to Schoharie creek. The lofty ledges of the hills on the eastern border are interesting natural features. Thompson's Lake, on the Helderbergs, and White Sulphur Springs, in Berneville, are places of much resort.

Good flagging stone is quarried near Reidsville, and mineral springs and limestone caverns are found in the town.

The first settlers were mostly Germans who came and occupied manorial lands about 1750. A interests of the farmer are carefully studied, and the general appearance of the farms denotes improvement and progression.

The minerals of the town are few and possess very little value.

The Indian history has but little of interest. They occupied territory surrounding Albany when the Dutch traders came, with whom a traffic in furs was established and treaties made that secured the friendship of the natives and advantage to the settlers, who located in the vicinity of (now) Kenwood, where they had a place for the burial of their dead, and, perhaps, a camping ground.

In the years that followed settlement and occupation of forests for agriculture and civilization, the Indian was disturbed in his possession as monarch. A new element entered his domain of wild forest life, which introduced changes in many of his customs, and taught him practices and arts that in time were used against the white settlers. The use of firearms and other modes of warfare enabled him to execute his savage designs with greater skill and certainty.

During the war of the Revolution, the Indians, who were under the control of the British and Tories, committed many acts of violence, and were a source of annoyance and terror. They had rendezvous in different parts of the town, where they met their allies in secret, and plotted hostile incursions against the neighbors.

Time works changes, and as civilization advanced, the Indian receded, and soon disappeared from the town of Bethlehem, making, in a degenerate condition, his final exit about forty years ago, and a few generations hence nothing will remain but the imperfect records of history.

Connected with the past may be mentioned the old Whitehall mansion, near the Delaware turnpike road, a part of which was built by Gen. Bradstreet, and during the Revolution is said to have been a resort for the Tories. It afterward came into the possession of C. Ten Eyck, and was occupied by the family until its destruction by fire in the spring of 1883.

Among other houses, yet in existence, erected before the Revolution by early settlers, is the Nicoll house, now in possession of Alex. R. Baker, built soon after 1720; the house of Peter Van Wie, 1732; the Abbey Hotel, a part of which was erected by a Van Rensselaer, and the old house of S. Baumes. Remains of others mark the place where deeds, long since forgotten, have been enacted in the early struggles for a home and the means of an honest livelihood.

The Cherry Hill Mansion and Mount Hope are landmarks that tell of the early settlers, the first being the residence of Solomon Van Rensselaer, and the latter now the property of Ezra P. Prentice.

Many saw-mills were in use in different parts of the township, which are now abandoned from the fact that the source of supply for logs is rapidly diminishing. A few others have taken their place, and the mills now in use are of a more substantial character, with improved machinery and modern fixtures.

VILLAGES.

Bethlehem Center P. O. (Babcock's Corners) is a small village, four miles south of Albany, on the "Albany and Bethlehem Turnpike Road." Among the first settlers were James Gibbons, Job Gardner, ——Greennay, ——Davis, Joshua Babcock.

There are 40 dwellings, 45 families, 190 inhabitants, 2 blacksmiths, 2 wheelwright shops, school-house, church and hotel. Widow Van Buren, postmistress, and post-office kept at the toll-gate-house. Four cemeteries are located here.

South Bethlehem P. O. (Janes' Corners), nine miles from Albany, on the "Albany and Bethlehem plank road," and a station on the West Shore R. R., is pleasantly located. William Jones, James Callanan, Ambrose Wiltsie, Rimmey and Mosher were early settlers. Elishama Janes kept tavern.

The village has 30 dwellings, 33 families, 135 inhabitants, M. E. church, school-house, 2 stores, shoe shop, harness, blacksmith and wheelwright shop, barber's room and saloon. It has a band of 12 musicians, with O. S. Jolley as leader.

Here are located (in the town of Coeymans) the mills of Mr. Henry Callanan. These mills formerly belonged to Philip Kimmey, and were built about 1845 by Ira Jagger, millwright. Here also was located a tannery, about 1825, on the farm of Isaac and John Coffin, which for many years was operated by Robert Carhart, after which it passed into the possession of Cornelius Waggoner, and in 1832 Frederick Schaubb bought the property, and it was destroyed by fire in 1883. The post-office was established in 1874; John Sager is the present postmaster. A short distance from the village, on the farm of John Mosher, is a willow tree that measures 25 and 30 feet in circumference. Tamar Randall, afterward the wife of Henry Wiltsie, when a child, brought this willow twig from Pitchtona, and planted it by the roadside, a century ago, where it now stands, a living monument to her memory.

Chevalier St. George, Surgeon-in-Chief of Kings Hospital, at Port Au Prince, of Doctor Frisbee's service under him at said hospital and of his qualification to practice medicine and surgery in any part of the world. A certificate of license for another member of the society was based upon the diploma granted by the College of Physicians and Surgeons of London, England; and one, decidedly Hibernian, was upon the certificate of two gentlemen, who each stated that the other was a physician in Galway, county Galway, without stating from what source their own right to be deemed physicians was derived.

The number of members who have joined the society, is about 230, who have held diplomas granted by the Medical Colleges of this State, of Massachusetts, Vermont, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and by the State and County Societies.

The society library was commenced in 1806, from the support derived from a yearly tax on the membership of an amount equal to $20. It grew to a respectable size and was valuable in its composition. Its books and journals were circulated throughout the County and it continued to flourish till 1848, when the society virtually disbanded and sold the library at auction. The explanation of this action is to be found in the act of the Legislature, passed in 1845, affecting the practice of medicine in this State, and which it was thought would prove detrimental to the interests of the profession. It has, however, worked beneficially, in resting the prestige of the profession upon its real rather than its assumed merits; but it was not until 1864 that the society aroused from the torpor which followed this action and renewed its career of usefulness. It now numbers thirty-six members, who are drawn from all parts of the County.

The following are the members who resided in Auburn at the time of joining the society, with the date of joining:

David H. Armstrong, June 6, 1866; Chester Bradford, May 1, 1828; Asahel M. Bennett, May 5, 1814; Leander Bigelow, August 7, 1828; Lansingh Briggs, May 5, 1831; J. D. Button, February 3, 1831; Truman S. Brinckerhoff, August 31, 1864; C. C. Bates, September 10, 1873; Joseph Cole, August 7, 1806; A. H. Cogswell, May 6, 1824; A. L. Cooper, August 1, 1833; T. N. Calkins, August 7, 1834; J. Ambrose Crane, June 1, 1837; Edward C. Cadwell, January 4, 1838; Walter Channing, May 10, 1876; R. H. Chase, June, 1871; J. P. Creveling, June, 1871; Theodore Dimon, June 3, 1841; David Dimon, June 2, 1842; —— Dirker, September 12, 1871; Iddo Ellis, November 6, 1806; Charles E. Searing, January 14, 1874; Amanda Sanford, June, 1871; Charles Van Eps, August 7, 1828; Charles E. Van Anden, January 18, 1861; Joseph M. Wood, August 7, 1827; Sylvester Willard, May 6, 1824; Andrew D. Wood, February 2, 1832; Noel Weaver, June 4, 1838; J. W. Wilkie, June 1, 1865; H. L. Wood, June 2, 1875, John I. Brinckerhoff, Jr., June 2, 1869.

Only two women have been members of this society. Their names are included in the above list.

Cayuga County Homeopathic Society.—The therapeutics of the Homeopathic school of medicine is founded on the theory of similia similibus curantur. The principle was discovered and applied by Samuel Hahnemann, an accomplished and skillful German practitioner of the old school of medicine, who abandoned a lucrative practice under Government patronage, at Gommeon, near Magdeburg, on account of conscientious scruples against administering drugs according to the vague formulas then in use. Having proved certain remedies upon himself and others, he commenced the practice of his new theory at Leipsic, whence he was soon driven by the bitter opposition he encountered to Paris, where he met with success and secured converts, town. Lansing moved out of the town in 1805. Gilbert and John D. moved to Canadice, and died there. James moved out of the town about 1816 or '17.

John Nutt came in from Vermont soon after 1800, and settled two miles east of Union Springs, where his son, Harvey H., now lives, and where he died.

Philip Yawger came in from New Jersey with ten children, six sons and four daughters, in 1801, and settled one mile north of Union Springs, where his grandson John C. Yawger now lives. He came by means of Jersey wagons. He died on the homestead September 3d, 1830, aged 77. None of his children are living. One son, Peter, was Member of Assembly in 1827 and 1831. A small stream in the north part of the town perpetuates his name. Numerous grand-children are living in the County; among whom are Philip O., a merchant in Union Springs, and Lafayette, proprietor of a grist and plaster-mill on Yawger Creek, which was built about twenty-six years ago, and in which 500 to 600 tons of plaster are ground per year. Peter took up 260 acres, which are now owned by John O. and Henry, sons of Henry Yawger, and grandsons of Philip. Philip took up a section on the site of Owego, where he stopped one season; but disliking the location he came on to Springport. His grandson, Philip O. Yawger, says the Indians destroyed his first year's crops, which was the cause of much suffering. Upon Philip's farm was discovered the first plaster bed in Springport, about 1809. A portion of the plaster rock was brought to the surface by the plow, and having been paying a high price for Nova Scotia plaster, the hope of finding here a cheaper substitute for that article led him to give it a trial upon a fall crop. The rock was pulverized by means of pounding, and the result was so satisfactory as to lead to further investigation, and the discovery of the plaster bed as before stated. The embargo of 1812, which excluded Nova Scotia plaster, favored the rapid development of Cayuga plaster.

Humphrey Hunt came in from Orange county, Vt., in 1805, and settled one mile south of Union Springs, where Peter B. Wood now lives. He was a Revolutionary soldier, serving the whole seven years, first, on account of his youthfulness, as captain's waiter. He accompanied Sullivan's expedition against the Iroquois in 1779, and was one of the party detached to destroy the villages of the Cayugas on the east shore of Cayuga Lake. He was twice wounded, once in the hand and again in the hip. In 1828, he removed to Mt. Morris, Livingston county, and died there a little over a year after.

Ichabod Clark came in about 1805 or '7, and settled about three miles east of Union Springs. His wife was a daughter of Gilbert Weed.

Amos Howland came in from Galway, Saratoga county, about 1806, and settled on Big Gully Creek, two and one-half miles south-east of Union Springs, where he started a woolen-mill, in company with a man named Allen, which he conducted two or three years. He afterwards found employment in the woolen-mill erected by Philip Winegar, at the south spring. He resided here till his death, July 18th, 1850.

Thomas Collins, the first inn-keeper, located about 1807, in Union Springs, where his daughter, Sarah, widow of Thomas Van Sickle, now lives. William Cozzens came in from R. I., in 1810, and settled in Union Springs, where James Arnold now lives. He was an old sea-captain. He was engaged in agricultural, and for a short time, in mercantile, pursuits. He died here in 1842, aged 63. William Cozzens, his son, was a merchant here some thirty-five years and till his death April 3d, 1860. His children are all dead. Elisha Eldredge came from White Creek, Washington county, in 1810, and settled on 100 acres in the north part of the village of Union Springs, where James Arnold now lives. He sold to William Cozzens in 1815, and removed one mile east, to the next tier of lots, where he died November 2d, 1874, aged 97. Three children are living, viz: Joseph and Edward, in Springport, and Isaac, in Chicago.

William Taver came in from Rensselaer county, about 1813, and settled in the south-west corner of the lot on which the brick residence of Clinton Backus now stands. He moved to Williamson, Wayne county, in 1825, and subsequently to the west part of the State, where both he and his wife died.

Elam Anthony, came in from White Creek, Washington county, in 1815, and settled in Union Springs, where he has followed the business of carpenter and joiner. He is now living in that village, aged 88 years, October 5th, 1878. In 1818, he married Nancy, daughter of Humphrey

Hunt, who is still living with him aged eighty. He has nine children living, only three in this State, Lydia, wife of Peter Howell, Cordelia, wife of Edward Curry, and Mary, all in Union Springs.

Philip Winegar, who took a prominent part in developing the business of the village, came in from Dutchess county, in 1815, on foot, and bought an interest with Esick Mosher, his father-in-law, in the mill property at the south spring, which consisted of a log grist-mill, with one run of stones, a small saw-mill driven by a "flutter" wheel, and a clothing establishment. The latter with the building erected for its accommodation by Mr. Winegar, in 1830, was burned in the winter of 1834–'5, and rebuilt in 1836. The following year he moved his family here, and settled at Union Springs, where he continued to reside till his death, August 21st, 1862, aged 77. He soon after bought Mosher's interest in the mill property, and he and his sons Esick M., Z. S., and G. W., owned it till 1854, when it came into the possession of the Beardsley Bros.

James S. Allen came in from Greenfield, Saratoga county, in the winter of 1818, and settled on the Big Gully, two miles east of Union Springs, where he took up forty acres, selected for its water privilege, the fall being about twenty feet, and erected a carding and fulling-mill, and manufactory of woolen machinery, which business he carried on till 1830, when he removed to the village and engaged in the manufacture of thrashing machines. He was succeeded in 1842 by his son A. W. Allen, who carried on the business nine years, and who then engaged in other undertakings. The farm on which Allen first settled, now belongs to the Seneca Allen estate. He died here March 28th, 1868.

Town Officers.—The first town meeting was held at the house of John Yawger, inn-keeper, the first Tuesday in April, 1823, and the following named officers were elected: Wm. Cozzens, Supervisor; Wm. G. Harkness, Clerk; Giles Robinson, Henry Crane and Gilbert Goodrich, Assessors; Thomas A. Buddington, Giles Robinson and Samuel Wisner, Commissioners of Highways; John S. Toan and Moses Wisner, Poor-masters; Asa N. Burnham, Jonathan Carr and Alexander Thompson, Commissioners of Common Schools; Stephen Mosher, Hiram Hunt and Asa N. Burnham, Inspectors of Common Schools; Wm. Sherd and Peter Flinn, Commissioners of Public Lands; Samuel Marsh, Collector; Samuel Marsh and Ephraim Sharp, Constables.

The present officers (1878) are:

Supervisor—James L. Hammond.

Clerk—Oscar E. Shank.

Justices—Ashbel W. Carr, Levi Collins and Solomon R. Myers.

Assessors—John F. Courtney, Samuel Jenney and Llewellyn Davis.

Commissioner of Highways—Amos M. Haley.

Overseer of the Poor—John D. Weed.

Inspectors of Election—Jesse D. Thompson, P. Henry Byrne and Horace C. Carr.

Collector—Leonard H. Carr.

Constables—Leonard H. Carr, Walter Garrison, George Bowen, Asa Shank and John T. Stout.

Excise Commissioners—John Quigley, Samuel Jenney and David Everett.

Game Constable—Nathan S. Jennings.

Union Springs.

Union Springs is beautifully situated on the shore of the lake, six miles south of Cayuga by railroad, and derives its name from the springs before referred to. Its regularly laid out and handsomely shaded streets, with its tasty cottages and ornate dwellings just visible through the luxuriant foliage, present a pleasing picture as viewed from the lake, which, with the little island of Frontenac, that solitary gem of the western lakes, three-fourths of a mile distant, presents an equally picturesque spectacle.

It contains eight churches, (Baptist, Catholic, Christian, Episcopal, Hicksite Friends, Methodist Episcopal, Orthodox Friends and Presbyterian,) the Howland Institute, the Friends' Academy, a Kindergarten school, a Union school, one newspaper office, (the Union Springs Advertiser,) one bank, (the First National of Union Springs,) the New York Central Insurance Company, one hotel, (kept by George E. Ashby,) seventeen stores of various kinds, two meat markets, (kept by S. S. Bliss and Shank & Anthony,) two harness shops, (kept by Wm. Graves and James Reynolds,) two carriage shops, (kept by N. C. Dean and J. R. Ely,) two grist-mills, a saw-mill, plaster-mill, planing-mill and hub-factory, foundry and machine shop, brick and tile works, limestone quarry and kiln, (owned by Laber of settlers were attracted at an early day by the limestone interests here. Geo. Valmore, from Troy, commenced the boot and shoe business in 1841, and has since continued it.

John Richardson and John C. Yawger, the former of whom had previously done business some four years, did business a few years from about 1841, under the name of Richardson & Yawger. They dissolved and divided their stock, Mr. Richardson becoming associated with Wm. Cozzens, and Mr. Yawger, with his brother Henry. Philip O. Yawger succeeded his brother John C., in 1862, and did business with Henry six years, and since then, alone.

N. C. Howland, who was born in the town August 11th, 1826, commenced the jewelry business in 1861, and is still engaged in it.

S. W. Rogers, from Avon, commenced the drug business here in 1863, in company with Dr. M. B. Eaton, with whom he was associated two years. He then bought Eaton's interest, and has since carried on business alone, with the exception of a short time, when he was associated with Dr. B. A. Fordyce.

David Everett, from Hackettstown, N. J., commenced business here April 26th, 1864, as a partner with his uncle, J. S. Everett, who commenced business in August, 1848. July 26th, 1869, he bought his uncle's interest, and has since done business alone.

F. A. Carr, who is a native of this village, commenced the hardware business about 1871.

J. F. Woodworth & Son, (Frank,) hardware merchants, came in from Baldwinsville in the spring of 1871 or 1872, and bought a half interest with Charles N. Howland, with whom they did business two years.

W. S. L. Freer, jeweler, from Newark, Wayne county, commenced business in 1873. In March, 1878, he became associated with J. R. Montague, a former resident of the village, with whom he is now doing business, under the name of Freer & Montague.

J. Wallace Elverson, grocer and crockery ware dealer, commenced business in February, 1873, in company with A. L. Howland, whose interest he bought in February, 1876.

W. H. Cozzens, grandson of Capt. Wm. Cozzens, dealer in books and stationery, commenced business in August, 1875.

J. R. Schenck, dealer in boots and shoes, commenced business in 1876. He is a native of the town.

E. M. Hart, druggist, came from Romulus, Seneca county, and commenced business in April, 1876.

J. Brougham, dealer in boots and shoes, came in from Root, Montgomery county, and commenced business April 1st, 1877.

Geo. D. Hibbard recently commenced business in the north part of the village.

POSTMASTERS—The post-office was established at Union Springs in 1811, and Dr. Jno. Mosher, who was the first postmaster, held the office till about 1841. He was succeeded by Geo. P. Morgan, who held it in 1842, and for a period of four years. Wm. Smith held the office for one year after Mr. Morgan, in 1846, and was succeeded by Frederick P. Cone, who held it till about 1849. Jno. C. Yawger was postmaster from 1849-'53; Edward Eldredge, from 1853-'57; Dr. Noyes Palmer, from 1857-'61. N. C. Simons next held it nearly four years, and was succeeded by Joseph Clark, who held it till Mr. Johnson took the presidential chair, when A. B. Capron was appointed, and held the office till 1869. James B. Burlew next held the office till 1873, and was succeeded by James R. Angel, the present incumbent, who was appointed December 10th, 1873.

PHYSICIANS.—The first physician in Union Springs was John Mosher, who practiced from 1800 till his nephew Stephen Mosher came in about 1817. The latter practiced till 1833, when he sold to David L. Dodge, from Dutchess county, who practiced till about 1851. He was followed about this time by Noyes Palmer, from Montezuma, who practiced till his death, May 7th, 1863. Charles Farnham, from Scipio, practiced here from 1841-'8. S. A. Tremain, from Trumansburgh, came in about 1856, and practiced till the opening of the war. Joseph G. Richardson came in from Philadelphia in 1867, and practiced three or four years. F. H. Hamlin came from Wayne county in 1869, and practiced till 1874. Dr. Wm. G. Harkness, who joined the County Medical Society, November 3d, 1808, while a resident of Fleming, was one of the earliest physicians in Springport. He lived two miles north-east of the village. He was also an early teacher; he taught school about 1810, about a mile south of the village.

Civil Government

The beginning of civil government in Dutchess County may be set down as of October 23, 1713, when, by an Act of Assembly, the county was empowered to elect a supervisor, a treasurer, two assessors, and two collectors.

By an Act of 1719, Dutchess was divided in three divisions, later called wards, the North, Middle and South, each electing a supervisor. Each of the three wards extended from the Hudson River east to the Connecticut line. On December 16, 1737, the county was divided into seven precincts, known as Beekman, Charlotte, Crum Elbow, North, Poughkeepsie, Rhinebeck and South East. Other precincts were added and, eventually, they gave way to the existing twenty townships of the county. The city of Poughkeepsie was established within the borders of the town of Poughkeepsie, and the smaller city of Beacon within Fishkill Township.

The two cities and twenty towns, with their present populations, according to the United States Census of 1940 (last available census) are:

Cities—Poughkeepsie, 40,478; Beacon, 12,572. Towns—Amenia, 6,873; Beekman, 790; Clinton, 1,070; Dover, 7,385; East Fishkill, 2,024; Fishkill, 3,615; Hyde Park, 4,056; LaGrange, 1,638; Milan, 695; Northeast, 2,201; Pawling, 2,752; Pine Plains, 1,301; Pleasant Valley, 2,061; Poughkeepsie, 14,495; Red Hook, 3,405; Rhinebeck, 3,264; Stanford, 1,386; Union Vale, 1,056; Wappinger, 4,345; Washington, 3,080. Total for towns, 67,492; total population of the county, 120,542.

There are now eight incorporated villages within the county. They are: Fishkill, within the town of Fishkill; Millbrook, within Serving as Attorney General were: Egbert Benson, of Red Hook; Governor Lewis, and Thomas J. Oakley, of Poughkeepsie.

James Roosevelt, father of President Roosevelt, served as a member of the State Board of Charities, appointed 1879. He succeeded Harvey G. Eastman, of Poughkeepsie, who was the founder of Eastman Business College, and one of Poughkeepsie's mayors.

Eighteenth century State Senators from Dutchess County included Jonathan Landon, Zephaniah Platt, Ephraim Paine, Jacobus Swartout, Cornelius Humphrey, Anthony Hoffman, Thomas Tillotson, Abraham Schenck, and Peter Cantine, Jr.

This county was not represented in the Colonial State Assembly apart from Ulster until 1713. The first resident Assemblyman was Leonard Lewis, who served during the years 1713-26. Lewis was joined in 1715 by Baltus Van Kleeck, of Poughkeepsie, who served until his death in 1717. Van Kleeck was succeeded by Johannis Terbosh, and the latter by Henry Beekman, between the years 1725 and 1758. The fact that Beekman, member of the land owning family, was continued in office for thirty-three years was indicative of the dormant and controlled nature of local politics of the period.

Other eighteenth century members of the Assembly included Johannis Van Kleeck, Jacobus Terbosh, Johannes Tappen, Henry Filkin, Robert R. and Henry Livingston, Leonard Van Kleeck and Dirck Brinckerhoff.

During the same period, Representatives in Congress included Egbert Benson, of Red Hook, 1789-93; followed by Theodorus Bailey, Poughkeepsie; David Brooks, and Isaac Bloom, of Red Hook, until his death in 1803.

Townships of Dutchess County

TOWN OF FISHKILL

The town of Fishkill, which today surrounds the southern Dutchess city of Beacon on three sides, and in this respect holds the same relationship to Beacon as does the town of Poughkeepsie to the city of Poughkeepsie, was once the most populous and wealthiest of Dutchess' twenty townships. The 1940 census listed Fishkill's population as 3,615, that of Beacon, 12,572. The town of Poughkeepsie, on the other hand, now has a population of 14,495, or more than the city of Beacon.

While the first legal settlement in Dutchess was in Poughkeepsie, Fishkill was virtually on a par with Poughkeepsie and Rhinebeck among the oldest communities of the county, and gave us the the most intimate glimpses of the earliest relations between the white settlers and the Indians. Bordering the Hudson River, and flanked by the Fishkill Mountains, the community at the southwestern end of the county also played an important rôle in the War of the Revolution, and is rich in historical tradition.

The name, Fishkill, modification of the Dutch, Vis-Kill, is that also given to the creek (kill) which passes through the town, and empties into the Hudson. The city of Beacon combines what were formerly Matteawan and Fishkill Landing, below which was centered one of its most important industries of an extended period, the manufacture of bricks from the brick clay deposits of the area.

The story of Beacon will be detailed later; for the present, it may be pointed out that it was incorporated as a city in 1913. The town of Fishkill was formed March 7, 1788, or about a century after its first settlement. The Rombout Patent embraced the original town and a portion of the town of Poughkeepsie. In 1708, a partition was made of lands of the patent lying between the Fishkill and the Wappingers Creek to the north; lands to the north and south of the streams were held in common by the patentees or their representatives. The southern section was deeded to Catharine Brett, wife of Roger Brett, and daughter and sole heir of Francis Rombout; the intermediate section of the three areas to the children of Gulian Verplanck.

Francis Rombout, the patentee, was a native of Holland and came to New Amsterdam with the Dutch East India Company. He engaged in business in New York with Gulian Verplanck, and became mayor of that city in 1679. He married the widow, Helen Van Ball (née Teller). The couple's only child, Catharine, after her marriage to Brett, settled in Fishkill and their dwelling, known as the Teller house, still stands today. A gristmill, built by the Bretts, was believed to be the first in Dutchess County.

The Verplanck name is prominent in the history of the county, and the old family homestead, which stood until comparatively recent date, was the headquarters of Baron Steuben during the Revolution, and it was in this house that the Society of the Cincinnati was formed, of which George Washington was the first president.

The town of Fishkill originally embraced the town of East Fishkill, which was set off November 29, 1849; also the town of Wappinger, which became a township on May 20, 1875. Earlier, or on February 9, 1821, a part of the present town of LaGrange was set off. The incorporated village of Fishkill is within the town borders, as is the hamlet of Glenham. Fishkill Landing and Matteawan lost their identity as hamlets when they were made a part of the city of Beacon.

Approximately one hundred years passed between the time of the first settlement of Fishkill and the beginning of the town government in 1788. Prior to 1788, Fishkill was Rombout precinct. Progress of settlement had been slow in the county as a whole and, in 1723, there were only 195 inhabitants on the tax rolls, forty-seven of them in the South Ward. In that year, according to early historians, Jacobus Swartout was a supervisor, serving the area that was to become Fishkill; Peter Dubois and Thomas Terbush, assessors; John DeLarger and Jacob Terbush, overseers of King's Highway; John Buys and Garret Van Vliet, overseers of fences.

In 1730, the taxable inhabitants increased to seventy-one in the South Ward. Jacobus DePeyster was then supervisor; Johannes Terbush and Jacobus Swartout, assessors; John Brinckerhoff, clerk; Francis Drake, surveyor of the King's Highway; John Schouten was surveyor along the road from Wappingers to Madam Brett's mill; and Cornelius Bogardus was surveyor of Madam Brett's bridge.

Settlers of the period of 1739, when the population had increased, were indicated in a petition of freeholders to alter the course of a highway in the vicinity of Wicopee, hamlet in which Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau's home is situated. Names on that petition included those of Swartout, Schouten, Sorin, Noostrand, Smith, Rosecrans, Hallsted, Montross, Brett, Schenck, Brinckerhoff, Leston, Brevort, Brorwin, Roe, Suchat, Yeuming, Young, Monfort, Flenwilling, Roosenkraus, Hegeman, Lossing, Mills, Ostrander, Van Tossell.

Further reference to the Quaker Meetinghouse at Pawling will be made in a section on churches of the county. It may be mentioned here that in connection with Lowell Thomas' development of the Lake Hammersley property as home sites, the Quaker Hill section has always been known as an attractive resort. Its Mizzen-Top, standing until comparatively recent date, was long a popular resort hotel, first occupied in the summer of 1881. Akin Hall was another popular place, which, as with the hotel, was constructed by Albert J. Akin.

Town of Dover

Dover Township, like Pawling, bordered on the east by the Connecticut State line, was, as previously indicated, set off from the town of Pawling in 1807. Ten Mile and Swamp rivers flow through the town. The earliest settlers were believed to be Dutch, including the names of Osterhout, Van Dusen, Dutcher and Knickerbocker. James A. Benson, the present supervisor, is a descendant of one of the early settlers. Errol B. Hufcut, one of the town's leading citizens, is a descendant of Hans Hufcut, one of the early settlers. Derrick Dutcher and Jacob VanCamp located near Plymouth Hill prior to 1731.

One of the first gristmills was known as Preston Mill, after Ebenezer Preston, who built three mills on the Ten Mile River. John Preston conducted a tavern in the town in the early nineteenth century.

Prior to the erection of the town, annual meetings were held in the tavern of Jackson Wing. First supervisor of the town was George Crary, and James Ketcham was the first town clerk.

Dover Plains, unincorporated village in the northern part of the town, lies on the line of the Harlem Valley Railroad, branch of the New York Central system. Among the earliest settlers of the village were Cornelius Dutcher, Jonathan Mabbett, and James Ketcham. Stephen, Justus and Uriah Gregory were early merchants of the village. Continuing as storekeepers there were James Ketcham and Lawrence and Joseph Belding. George Casey was believed to be the first postmaster.

Mr. Ketcham, whose grandson, John H., became a general in the Civil War and was a member of the Congress, was a soldier in the War of 1812. He also served as a member of the State Legislature in 1814. John H. Ketcham's career will be outlined in the section on the Civil War.

The town of Dover's present-day population of 7,385 is, in part, accounted for as the site of the Harlem Valley State Hospital, one of the four State institutions in the county, and development of which will be outlined in another section. This hospital, for the care of patients with mental diseases, is located at Wingdale, a hamlet in South Dover. A newly-constructed magnesium plant in South Dover, taking advantage of rich mineral deposits in the town, is a development of the old South Dover marble quarries, a thriving industry of an earlier period. Dutchess County's industrial development will be detailed separately.

Town of Amenia

Adjoining the town of Dover on the north, and also bordered on the east by the Connecticut State line, Amenia Township was formed on March 7, 1788. The former precinct of Amenia, created in 1762, consisted of the easternmost tier lots of the Great Nine Partners, and embraced a part of the present town of Northeast. A part of the town, now Amenia Union and South Amenia, was a part of the Oblong, or Equivalent Land, ceded to New York by Connecticut after years of controversy.

Pioneer white settlers in Amenia found remnants of Indian tribes there, and the Moravian missionaries were active in the town, the Rev. Joseph Powell having been identified with the movement.

The first white settler to build in Amenia was Richard Sackett, an English sea captain, who obtained a patent for about seven thousand five hundred acres of land, and the license to purchase property from the Indians. Sackett was one of the nine men who obtained the Little Nine Partners Patent, dated April 10, 1706. He had been active, with Robert Livingston, as a member of a commission named to effect the settlement of the Palatines at Germantown.

Although Sackett apparently attempted to achieve in the eastern section of the county the same objective which Livingston attained in the northwestern part of Dutchess, he encountered mission was conducted and there that a monument to Gottlob Buttner was erected.

Hammertown, in Pine Plains, contained a tannery, built about 1776 by Peter Husted, and continued by members of that family, and a scythe works founded by John Harris, which was an important early industry in the town.

Pine Plains village, unincorporated, is the important business center of the town, and contains the junction of a number of important county roads, including the northern terminus of the mid-county highway. A main highway to the west extends to Red Hook and Rhinebeck, while another, over an old east-west turnpike extends to Millerton. In the center of one of the county's prosperous farming districts, Pine Plains was made a point on the line of the old Poughkeepsie & Eastern Railroad. Paved highways have, within the modern period, brought about an abandonment of most of the smaller railroad lines in the county, the railroad to Poughkeepsie being among them.

Seymour Smith Institute, founded by a native of that name, was a well-known preparatory school at Pine Plains, which was successfully conducted from 1874 to the contemporary period, giving way to the Pine Plains Central Public School, the first of the central rural schools in the county.

The first town meeting in Pine Plains was held at the home of Israel Reynolds on April 1, 1823. Israel Harris was the first supervisor and Reuben W. Bostwick, the first clerk. The long line of town officers has included family names still familiar to Pine Plains, including Charles Bostwick and William H. Bostwick, Anthony Pulver, Cornelius Pitcher, Irving W. Rowe, and Silas I. Deuel.

A rural community, Pine Plains has a population of 1,301.

Town of Stanford

The town of Stanford, in northeastern Dutchess, is bordered by the towns of Pine Plains on the north, Northeast and Amenia on the east, Washington on the south, and Clinton on the west. Another of the interior rural counties, its population, as of the 1940 census, was 1,386. Wappingers Creek extends to Stanford; other bodies of water are Hunn's and Upton lakes.

Stanford was formed from the town of Washington on March 12, 1793. Church records set forth that Ephraim and Comer Bullock were among the early settlers. The Bullocks, like Paul Upton, for whom Upton Lake was named, emigrated from Massachusetts. The Dibble family was an early arrival; Christopher Dibble arrived from Long Island and settled in the northern part of the town in 1782.

The first town meeting, held at the home of Ephraim Paine in 1793, resulted in the election of the following: James Tallmadge, supervisor; Solomon Sutherland, town clerk; William Cash, James Hildreth, Lewis Burton, assessors; John Sherwood, collector; John Sherwood, William Bockee, Benjamin Dimmie, or Dimmick, constables; Zachariah Mosher, Elias Walbridge, overseers of the poor; Gurdon Miller, Jeremiah Sherril, John Thompson, commissioners of highways; William R. Sunderland, Amos Knapp, Asa Allen, George Adsit, Samuel Lovett, pound masters.

Principal hamlets in the town are Stanfordville and Bangall, while smaller crossroad places include Bare Market, in the western part of the township. Early historians say that the Market received its name from the bareness of a certain taproom of an old country store there. An individual was said to have stamped the place with the name, when the stock of liquor was insufficient to meet his appetite.

Stanfordville, no longer benefiting as a point on the route of the former Poughkeepsie, Hartford & Boston Railroad, is on the line of the mid-county highway, as is Bangall.

Henry J. Knickerbocker was appointed postmaster of the hamlet in 1875; he was also a general storekeeper. Charles Waltermier, one of the earlier storekeepers at the same location, was the son-in-law of Elder Philetus Roberts, who was pastor of the Christian Church in the town. David P. Ketcham was another of the storekeepers in the nineteenth century, having succeeded William Stewart, who established his business in 1825. Hiram J. Wing conducted a harness shop in the community during the latter part of the nineteenth century. Other early small industries were the wagon and blacksmith shops of Edwin Juckett and James Van Tassel; a wagon parts manufactory established by David P.

Like Pawling, the town of Washington was an important point of the early development of the Friends Meeting. Not only did the township contain one of the earlier meetinghouses of the Quakers, but the Nine Partners Boarding School. The Friends Yearly Meeting purchased of one Joseph Mabbett, a former mercantile property, for one thousand six hundred pounds, in which the Nine Partners School was established. The building was opened in 1796, and the school was conducted successfully for more than a quarter of a century.

A division of the "Orthodox" and "Hicksite" groups of the Friends eventually resulted in the termination of the school enterprise at Millbrook. However, Dutchess County today includes among its educational institutions another preparatory school under the sponsorship of the Society of Friends. In the town of Poughkeepsie is Oakwood School, which carries on the sturdy traditions of the religious group which has been strongly identified with the development of the county from its early days. Oakwood School is actually a continuation of the older school. In another section of the history more will be said about the Quakers of Dutchess.

The town of Washington today has a population of 3,080, of which 1,340 are residents of the incorporated village of Millbrook.

Town of Union Vale

Union Vale, in the south central section of the county, bordered on the north by Washington, on the west by LaGrange, and the south by Beekman, contains the major portion of the beautiful Clove Valley, with fertile agricultural lands. The town was included in the patent of Henry Beekman and, in 1716, he deeded to his son, Henry, about one thousand acres in the locality. Early histories say that the Emighs (now called Eighmie), reputed to be among the earliest settlers of the county, were the earliest arrivals in Union Vale. Benson J. Lossing, the historian, was a descendant of these pioneer settlers.

Other early inhabitants of the town were the Klines (or Kleins), Uhls, Reeds, Moreys, Wilkinsons, Abels, Crouses, Moshers and Skidmores.

The town was formed from Beekman and Freedom (now LaGrange) on March 1, 1827.

The first supervisor was John Wilkinson, and the first town clerk, Allen Butler. Other supervisors up until the 1850s included William D. Williams, Allen Butler, Stoddard Judd, Richard Vincent, John D. Snedecor, Leonard Vincent, James Uhle, Andrew Northrop, Richard and David D. Vincent, Isaac Vail, Jarvis Hall, Reuben L. Coe, Robert Bennett, and John U. Abel.

One of the smaller towns in the county, Union Vale now has a population of only 1,056. It has no large hamlets.

Now almost entirely dependent on its rich farm lands for local occupation, Union Vale, or the Clove, once gave employment to a considerable number for the operation of ore mining. Iron ore from the extensive Clove mines, during one period of the last century, was carted over a plank road to Poughkeepsie for use in its once thriving ironmaking industries. As with numerous of the smaller industries of the county, especially those dependent upon local natural resources, the Clove Valley mines declined in output after the beginning of the present century. The "Brown Ore Mine" at the Clove had been opened by Jeremiah and William Emigh about 1856. The Towers, of Poughkeepsie, who were the operators of the Tower furnaces in the city, conducted one of the two mines at the Clove during the latter period of their operation. Up until the turn of the century, the mines produced as high as one hundred tons of ore daily, employing upwards of one hundred men.

One of the old iron mining properties was leased by the Clove Valley Rod and Gun Club, group of wealthy sportsmen, who today hold a vast acreage on the west mountain flanking the valley.

The lovely Clove Valley contains a country home, with large acreage, of Judge John E. Mack, of Poughkeepsie, well known lawyer, and long a personal friend of President Roosevelt, who twice nominated Mr. Roosevelt for the Federal Government office.

Town of Beekman

Beekman, in the southeast part of the county, but west of Pawling, got its name from Colonel Henry Beekman, the patentee of 1697. Included in the Beekman Patent were the northeast sec-treasurer. Mr. Schryver was the first board president and Nicholas V. Schryver the first clerk.

Beekman Arms, at Rhinebeck, said to be one of the oldest, if not the oldest among hotels in the country of continuous service in one location, is the village's most striking landmark. Among the older institutions, Starr Institute, established in 1862, furnished facilities "for the intellectual and moral improvement of the inhabiants of the town of Rhinebeck." The institute continued on a permanent basis a free reading room and circulating library. It was the gift to the people of Mrs. Mary R. Miller, a granddaughter of General Philip Schuyler, of the Revolutionary War staff of officers, in memory of her husband, who was William Starr Miller.

The DeGarmo Classical Institute, successor to the Rhinebeck Academy, was one of the older private schools in the county.

Town of Hyde Park

Coming to the town of Hyde Park, which was the home community of President Roosevelt, let us point out at the start that the estate of Mr. Roosevelt was within the area of the Great Nine Partners, and more particularly within the Nine Water Lots, which fronted on the Hudson River. The earliest white settler of record in this part of the present town was Jacobus Stoutenburgh, a former Westchester County trader, who bought an interest in part of the water lot territory embracing the present village of Hyde Park and south of Crum Elbow Creek. He is understood to have settled in the ninth water lot.

Contemporary historical research, aided by President Roosevelt himself, has cleared up some points of confusion with regard to the early settlement in Hyde Park. Reference is, therefore, included here to another patent, relatively small by comparison with the Great Nine Partners tract, known as the Pawling Patent, and covering lands, within the township, north and west of Crum Elbow Creek. Henry Pawling, prior to 1695, which was the year of his death, purchased a tract of approximately four thousand acres. The property was acquired under a license granted by Governor Dongan. The patent was not made out to Pawling, but to his widow, Nieltie, and their children, in 1696. Thereafter, or in 1703, a group of New York men learned of the grant, and petitioned for a surplus of the area property. Thus, in 1704, a patent for said surplus was granted to Jacob Regnier, Peter Fauconnier, Benjamin Aske, Barne Cosens and John Persons. Fauconnier was secretary to the then Governor Cornbury, and he was Surveyor-General of the Province of New York and thus familiar with the land patents.

Dr. John Bard, whose connection with the history of Hyde Park will be treated in detail in the section of the river estates, later became the sole owner of the Pawling or "Hyde Park" patent, a name which he applied to the tract. Dr. Bard and his son Samuel were both famous physicians of their time. The Bard home was on the estate which later passed to Frederick Vanderbilt, and which is now a National Park site.

In the northern part of the town of Hyde Park is the hamlet of Staatsburg, the name of which was at times confused with that of the Stoutenburgh family. The hamlet received its name from the fact that the Staats family, and not the Stoutenburghs, held the majority interest in the tract originally held by the patentee, Pawling. Pawling's heirs sold most of their holdings to Dr. Sam-mains which he applied to the trust. Dr. Hays and his son Samuel were both famous physicians of their time. The Hays home was on the estate which later passed to Frederick Vanderbilt, and which is now a National Park site.

In the northern part of the town of Hyde Park is the hamlet of Staatsburg, the name of which was at times confused with that of the Spotsylvania family. The hamlet received its name from the fact that the Staats family, and not the Spotsylvania, held the manorial lordship in the true original land by the patentee, Fawling. Fawling's heirs sold most of their holdings to Dr. Samuel Staats, of New York City, first of that family to acquire property within the town.

The village of Hyde Park was so named by Dr. Bard. The hamlet bore that name as early as 1795. Prior to that time the river landing was called Stoutenburgh, after the earliest settler in the southern section of the town. Dr. Bard applied the place name, Hyde Park, to the former Pawling patent in honor of Sir Edward Hyde, Lord Cornbury, who as Governor of the Province granted a patent to Peter Fauconnier and others.

Some years ago, at the time when Mrs. James Roosevelt, late mother of President Roosevelt, applied the name Crum Elbow to the Roosevelt estate, and such right was disputed by Howland Spencer, owner of property on the west side of the Hudson River, the summer White House was thereafter referred to as the Hyde Park house. Local historians were staunch in their support of the Roosevelts, however, in their intention to call the property Crum Elbow.

Hyde Park became a town, by separation from the town of Clinton, under an Act of 1821. P. B. Collins was moderator at the first town meeting in that year, and the first town officers were:

James Duane Livingston, supervisor; Reuben Spenser, clerk; Peter A. Schryver, Tobias L. Stoutenburgh, and Christopher Hughes, assessors; Isaac I. Balding, collector; John Lamoree, Abraham O. Van Wagenen, overseers of the poor; Cornelius Van Vleet, Jr., Isaac Stoutenburgh, Willet Marshall, commissioners of highways; Rev. Peter S. Wynkoop, Red David Brown and Luther Clark, commissioners of schools; John Creswell, I. Tompkins, F. Russell, inspectors of schools; Charles A. Shaw, William Wagenen, constables.

James Roosevelt, the father of President Roosevelt, was supervisor of the town in the years 1871-72.

Early settlers in the eastern part of the town adjoining Pleasant Valley and Clinton, included Quakers from Rhode Island and Connecticut, among them the Moshers, Waters, Frosts, Marshalls, Bakers, Briggs, Halsteads, Hoags and Stringhams. Some of the Quaker families who moved to other parts of the State at an earlier period included families named Barber and Dickinson.

until 1822, and the old church lot across the street became a graveyard. A number of skeletons were removed from the premises at the time of the construction of a modern business block ten years ago. The Reformed Church organization still owns this commercial property at the busy corner of the county seat. The third church, dedicated in 1857, and which served well up into the contemporary period, stood on the present site of the State Theatre, at Main and Little Washington streets. The present church of the First Reformed body is a modern stone edifice at Hooker and Hanscom avenues, in a residential section.

Record of the early church indicated that the Rev. Mr. Schoonmaker left Poughkeepsie, in 1774, principally because of his failure to master the English language. He was said to have been an eloquent preacher in the Dutch tongue. The Dutch language was reported to have disappeared from the church records in 1783. First sermon in English was believed preached about 1740.

Among the ministers of the First Reformed Church at Poughkeepsie was the Rev. Cornelius C. Cuyler, 1809-33, who undertook the building of the third church. Much of the early church history was written by the Rev. Dr. Acmon P. Van Gieson, whose pastorate began in 1867, and who served the church until his death in 1906.

In 1847, the congregation had increased to such an extent that a separate body was organized, and an edifice built at Mill and Catharine streets. Tunis Brinckerhoff, Charles P. Adriance, Abraham G. Storm and Joseph H. Jackson were elders and James W. Bogardus, Casper D. Smith, Albert Brett and John P. Flagler, deacons, of this, the Second Reformed Church. The same church is now occupied by the First Lutherans, and was previously known as the German Lutheran Church. The first pastor of the Second Church was the Rev. Charles Whitehead.

Dutchess County is said to have had more Friends' Meetings than any other county in the State. The first settlement of Quakers in the county was, as has been indicated, on Quaker Hill in Pawling. Benjamin Ferris and Nathan Birdsall, said to have arrived in 1728, were believed to be the original settlers. The Oblong Meeting at Pawling was reported to have attracted Friends from Westchester and Long Island, but largely from New England Meetings.

A list of the names of heads of families of the Oblong Meeting of 1761 contained the following names: John Bull, Wing Kelley, Oliver Tryon, John Wing, John, Joseph, Abner, Benjamin and Moses Hoag, George Soule, Philip Allen, Ebenezer Peaslee, Nehemiah Merritt, Elijah Doty, Henry and Abraham Chase, Edward and Abraham Wing, Prince and Israel Howland, David and Jonathan and Elisha Akin, Benjamin, Reed and Zebulon Ferris, Timothy Dakin, James Hunt, Isaac Haviland, Nathan Birdsall, Sr., Nathan Birdsall, Jr., Joseph Jinnins, Robert Whitely, Nathaniel Stevenson, Abraham Thomas, Isaac Bull; among the women, Patience Akin, Desire Chase, Mary Allen, Abigail Gifford, Phebe Boudy, Ann Hepburn, Sarah Davis, Ann Corban, and Hannah Birdsall.

Purchase Meeting, in the lower part of Westchester County, was the first organization of the Friends in the New York Province. The first mention of the Dutchess Meeting was that of January, 1742, when a certificate from Dartmouth, Massachusetts, was received from George Soule and wife, "being settled at Nine Partners." At the same Meeting, Benjamin Ferris, William Russell, James Clermont and Thomas Franklin were appointed to "conclude the dimentions of a meeting house to be build on the Oblong." In April of the same year, overseers were named to preside over the Meeting at Oblong and New Milford, Connecticut, where a Meeting had been established as early as 1739. In June, 1742, approval was given for the Oblong project.

The Oblong Meetinghouse was thus built in that year, and was replaced in 1764 by the structure which still stands today. This meetinghouse was used as a hospital while Washington's army was quartered in the section. Loopholes, cut through the plank siding at the gables, at that time, are still seen in the attic. The first house was believed to have been erected on the south side of the road, nearly opposite the present one, where the graveyard is still located.

In 1769, the second Monthly Meeting of the Society in Dutchess County, and the third in the Province, was established at Nine Partners, near Millbrook, in the town of Washington. The old principal streams are Ten Mile River, Wassaic Creek, and West Brook, and their branches. A range of metamorphic limestone extends N. and S. through near the center of the valley.[1] Iron has been extensively mined in the highlands W. of the valley.[2] The soil is a clayey and stony loam. Amenia Ville, (Amenia p. o.,) N. of the center of the town, contains the Amenia Seminary,[3] 3 churches, and 30 houses. It is a station upon the Harlem R. R. The City, (p. o.,) in the N. W. corner, contains a church and 17 houses; Wassaic, (p. v.,) a R. R. station, furnace, sash and blind factory, and 18 houses; Amenia Union, (p. v.,) upon the Conn. line, 2 churches, a woolen factory, and 30 houses;[4] and South Amenia (p. v.) a church and 8 houses. Leedsville (p. o.) is a hamlet near the E. border. Sharon Station, on the line of Northeast, is a p. o. Richard Sackett purchased large tracts of the Indians in this town and Sharon, Conn., and settled in 1711; he failed of getting his title recognized by the crown, and died in poverty in 1748 or '49.[5] During the Revolution a furnace and foundery for the manufacture of steel for the use of the army was established about 1 mi. S. of Wassaic. The site, known as "The Steel Works," is still covered by coal dust and cinders. There are 7 churches in town.[6]

BEEKMAN—was formed as a town, March 7, 1788.[7] A part of "Freedom" (now La Grange) was taken off in 1821, and a part of Union Vale in 1827. It lies in the S. E. part of the county, a corner extending to the S. border. Its surface is a hilly and broken upland. Pleasant Hill, on the N. border, is the highest summit. Limestone and slate crop out on the summits and declivities of nearly all the hills. The streams are small creeks and brooks tributaries of the Fishkill, and are bordered by wide, fertile intervales. Silver Lake is a fine body of water near the W. line. Iron ore is found S. of this lake.[9] The soil is a productive, gravelly loam. Green Haven, (p. v.,) near the W. border, contains 1 church and 18 dwellings; Beekmanville, (Beekman p. o.,) near the center, 1 church and 12 dwellings; Poughquag (p. v.) 2 churches and 15 dwellings; and Beekman Furnace, on the N. line, an iron manufactory and 10 houses.[10] The first settlements are supposed to have been made about 1710; but the early records are lost. A Delong located in 1716, and kept an inn at an early day. Rt. Rev. Alonzo Potter, Bishop of Penn., and his brother, Rt. Rev. Horatio Potter, Provisional Bishop of the Diocese of N. Y., were natives of this town. There are 4 churches in town.[11]

CLINTON[12]—was formed from "Charlotte" and Rhinebeck Precincts, March 13, 1786. Pleasant Park and Pleasant Valley were taken off in 1821. It is an interior town, lying N. W. of the center of the co. Its surface is a rolling upland considerably broken by hills in the N. and W. Shaw Mts., on the N. border, and Sippe Barrack, in the W., are the highest points.[13] Salt Point Creek, the principal stream, flows S. through near the center. Crum Elbow Creek forms a portion of the W. boundary. Several small lakes, the principal of which is Long Pond, lie in the N. part. The soil in the N. is a sandy loam, and in the center and S. it is a productive, slaty loam. Clinton Hollow, (p. v.,) near the center, contains 25 houses, Clinton Corners (p. v.) 25 houses, Schultzville (p. o.) a gristmill and 10 houses, and Pleasant Plains (p. o.) a church and 8 houses. Bulls Head, Clinton Point, and Hibernia are p. offices. Derrick Van Tassel located in town about 1755. There are 3 churches in town; Friends, Presb., and Prot. E.

DOVER—was formed from Pawling, Feb. 20, 1807. It lies on the E. border of the co., S. of the center. The E. and W. borders are occupied by hills and mts., and the center by a deep, wide valley. The valley is about 400 feet above tide, and the summits of the hills are 300 to 500 feet higher. Ten Mile River flows S. from the N. line to near the S. boundary, thence turns E. and discharges its waters into the Housatonic. It receives from the S. Swamp River, a stream that [5] Mr. Sackett was connected with the Livingstons in the settlement of the Palatinates at "German Camp," (now Germantown, Columbia co.) Ulric Winegar and his son, Capt. Garrett, were the next families. They removed from "German Camp" in 1724 and settled on the Oblong tract. The father died in 1754, aged 102 years. —— Delamater settled soon after the Winegars, N. W. of Amenia Union. Henry Nase, Stephen Hopkins, Joel Gillett, Hez. King, Abm. and Joshua Paine, J. Howe, and Elisha Kinney settled previous to 1743. After this time the town rapidly filled up with settlers, mostly from New England. The first mill is supposed to have been built by John Dakin at Leedsville, and the first inn to have been kept by Stephen Hopkins, near the center of the town.

[4] This mission was commenced in Sept. 1740, by Henry Rauch, and on the 22d of Feb. 1742, the first 3 Indian converts were baptized. Before the end of the year, 26 more were converted, and a place of worship was erected. This little community had not become fully settled before its quiet was disturbed by the intrusion of an armed force under the orders of the sheriff, at the instigation of intolerant and bigoted neighbors; and, although neither arms nor any thing else were found that could be construed into hostile designs against the Government, the missionaries were seized and brought before the Governor and Council at New York, under charge of being in the interests of the French and of endeavoring to seduce the Indians from their alliance with the English. Upon refusing to take the oath of allegiance, they were reprimanded and discharged. Their enemies, well knowing their conscientious scruples in regard to oaths, in 1744 obtained the passage of an act "for securing his majesty's government in New York," by which an oath of allegiance was made obligatory. Rather than do violence to their consciences, the missionaries removed to Bethlehem, Penn., followed by several of their Indian converts. N. B.—The regular mode of forming family names in the Low Countries or Netherlands (Holland and Belgium), as in Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Iceland was patronymic; that is, the Christian-name of the father was the basis of the last name of the son; so Remsen, the son of Rem(mert) Jansen; the ending—sen, the same as son, in English John-son, is varied to -zen, and often shortened to -se; as in Jan-se=son of Jan (Eng. John); Dirck-se, son of Didrik or

Dedrick; Teunis-se, son of Teunis (Antony); but this mode resulting in many duplicate names, there grew into use, as a temporary expedient for distinguishing between duplicate names, the affixing of the native place of each; with the preposition of location, usually van=of; occasionally te, ten, ter=at the; as in the following:

Ten Broeck, Johannes (=J. at the Marsh), of Holland; had a son born at Albany, 1686. Ten Eyck, Coenradt (=C. at the Oak), Amsterdam to New Amsterdam, 1653. Terhune, Albert Albertse (=A. (the material was desired [by Muirhead Guide Books, Ltd.] at an early moment). The Dutch marriage records of New Amsterdam, Kingston and Bergen were first examined, these giving definite information regarding the continental homes of many early settlers. The standard works of Pearson, Bergen and Riker were also studied, these having covered many of the early public records, and the published records of New York State relating to the early Dutch (these are voluminous) were also looked into as far as practical, to complement the former. The individually published family genealogies were also referred to, although with a measure of caution, as some of these cannot be classed as infalliable. It is surprising how comparatively few Dutch genealogies there are. Other authorities are noted in the list appended and it is believed that they are mainly trustworthy, although it is quite possible that once in a great while an error in deduction might have crept in. Even such an authority as Pearson made a slip occasionally and unfortunately errors are to be found in nearly all genealogical works. Mr. A. J. F. van Laer, N. Y. State Archivist, has been particularly kind and helpful to the author in this work, and his knowledge of this subject is known to be unsurpassed.

The list is, of course, not complete....

though his force was greatly reduced by hunger, fatigue, and the continual harassing attacks of the militia, which hung upon their rear.

The prospects of the Mohawk Valley were now gloomy in the extreme. Nearly every settlement had been desolated, and nearly every family had lost some of its members.[1] In the spring of 1781, Col. Willett assumed the command of the American forces on the Mohawk, and, by his military skill, daring, and knowledge of Indian warfare, he not only successfully repelled all attacks made upon the Mohawk settlements, but carried the war into the enemy's own country.

On the 9th of July, 1781, 300 Indians, under a tory named Doxtader, made a sudden attack upon the settlement of Currytown, (in the town of Root.) After burning the buildings and collecting a large amount of booty, they retreated. Col. Willett, at the head of 150 militia, immediately pursued and overtook them at "Durlah," (Dorlach,) a few mi. over the line of Schoharie co. A severe skirmish ensued, when the Indians fled, leaving 40 of their number dead on the field.[2] The final incursion into the Mohawk Valley was made Oct. 24, 1781, by a party of 600 British and Indians, under Maj. Ross and Walter N. Butler, who made their first appearance in the neighborhood of Warrensbush. They marched to the vicinity of Johnson Hall and commenced the usual work of plunder and murder, but were arrested by a sudden attack by forces under Cols. Willett, Rowley, and Harper. A severe engagement ensued, resulting in the retreat of the enemy. Col. Willett pursued, and, coming up with the rear guard at West Canada Creek, another skirmish took place, in which the infamous Walter N. Butler was killed.[3] The shattered remnant of the British forces escaped by way of Oswego. This affair practically ended the war in Tryon co., and the remaining Indians, stripped of almost every thing except the soil, were allowed to resume in peace their accustomed employments.[4] In a few years the ravages of the war were completely obliterated, and the fertile regions of Central and Western N. Y., which had become known through the military expeditions that had traversed them, soon began to fill up with a New England population. The splendid domains of the Johnsons and other royalists were confiscated, and the feudal tenants of the colonial period were replaced by enterprising freeholders under the new government.[5]

AMSTERDAM[6]—was formed from "Caughnawaga,"[7] March 12, 1793. Perth (Fulton co.) was taken off in 1831. It lies on the N. bank of the Mohawk, in the N. E. corner of the co. Its surface consists of the intervale along the river, and a rolling upland gradually rising for the space of 2 mi and attaining an elevation of 300 to 500 feet. The principal streams are the Kayaderosseras, 3 mi W. of Amsterdam Village, Chuctenunda,[8] at the village, and Evas Kil,[9] near the E. border. The soil in the valley is a deep, rich alluvium, and upon the hills it is a fertile, gravelly loam. Near Tribes Hill are extensive stone quarries. A considerable amount of manufactures is carried on in town, consisting of mill machinery, agricultural implements, carriages, car springs, and carpets, at Amsterdam Village, and of woolen goods at Hagamans Mills. Amsterdam,[10] (p. v.,) Montgomery, April 20, 1830, contains 4 churches, the Amsterdam Female Seminary, a bank, printing signal; and they had the inexpressible mortification and chagrin to see the beaten foe slipping through the net in which they had been caught, without the possibility of preventing their escape. Had it not been for the indecision or cowardice of Gen. Van Rensselaer, the whole party might have been taken. At the time, he was openly charged of cowardice or treachery by the Mohawk chief, and he entirely lost public confidence.

[1] Some idea of the extent of these ravages may be formed from a document prepared by the supervisors of "Tryon co.," dated Dec. 31, 1781, and addressed to the legislature. They therein stated that the buildings had been burned within the co.; that 354 families had abandoned their habitations and removed; 633 persons had deserted to the enemy; 197 had been killed, 121 taken prisoners; and 1200 farms lay uncultivated by reason of the war. This statement did not include Cherry Valley, Canajoharie, Martin, Middlefield, Springfield, Harpersfield, and the Royal District, which had been totally deserted and depopulated. The population of the co. at the beginning of the war was about 10,000. While the sufferings of the colonists were thus great, the Indian loss was much greater. Their whole country had been ravaged, their homes and crops destroyed, and a large portion of their number had died in battle or by pestilence. At the close of the war the miserable remnant of the once powerful nations humbly sued for peace, and were obliged to accept terms that deprived them of almost their existence.

[2] In this action Col. Willett succeeded in drawing the Indians into an ambuscade. They fled so hastily that all their baggage and a number of prisoners was captured. On their retreat they murdered a number of prisoners to prevent their escape.

[3] Walter N. Butler was one of the most inhuman wretches that ever disgraced humanity. Ferocious, bloodthirsty, and delighted to revel in perfect delight at the spectacle of human suffering. He surpassed the savages in barbarity; and many a victim was saved from his clutches by the interposition of the Indian chief Brant.

[4] Special acts were passed in 1780, '81, and '83, directing the commissioners of sequestration to relieve certain distressed families. Rev. Daniel Gros, of Canajoharie, acted as almoner of the commissioners; and his acts are preserved among the public papers of the State.

[5] For several years after the war, ghosts were reported as frequently seen stalking about the old residences of the royalists. The appearances which gave rise to these reports were doubtless the tories themselves, returned in disguise to obtain valuables which had been secreted upon their previous hasty flight. The settlers, who had suffered so much, were slow in forgetting the injuries they had received; and for many years after, few, either Indians or tories, who had been engaged in the war, could show themselves in the settlement with safety.

[6] Named by Emanuel E. De Graff, a Hollander and early settler.

[7] On the 9th of March, 1789, the portion of Mohawk district N. of the river was set off and named "Caughnawaga." The first town meeting was held at the house of John B. Wimples. "Caughnawaga" was formed as a town, March 7, 1788. It embraced all that part of Montgomery co. lying N. of the Mohawk and E. of a line extending from The Noses v. to Canada. This town was divided in 1793 into Amsterdam, Mayfield, Broadalbin, and Johnstown.

office, and several manufactories. Pop. 2044. Hagamans Mills (p.v.) has 124 inhabitants. Cranesville[1] (p. v.) 92, and Mannys Corners 8 houses. Tribes Hill,[2] (p. o.,) on the line of Mohawk, is a hamlet. A wire suspension bridge here crosses the Mohawk to Florida.[3] The first settlement was commenced about 1710, by Dutch and Palatinates. About 1740, Sir Wm. Johnson built a large stone mansion upon the w. side of the Kayaderosseras, 3 mi. w. of Amsterdam Village.[4] This building was fortified and named "Fort Johnson." Col. Daniel Claus and Guy Johnson, sons-in-law to Sir William, occupied fine mansions respectively 1 and 2 mi. below Fort Johnson,[5] previous to the Revolution. The first settlers at Amsterdam Village were Albert Veeder, E. E. De Graff, Nicholas Wilcox, and Wm. Kline. The first church (Ref. Prot. D.) was formed in 1792.[6] The first settled minister was Rev. Conrad Ten Eyck, in 1799. There had been preaching in town at a much earlier period.

CANAJOHARIE[7]—was formed as a district March 24, 1772, and as a town March 7, 1788. Cherry Valley was taken off in 1791, Minden in 1798, a part of Root in 1823, and of Minden in 1849. It lies on the s. border of the co., w. of the center. The surface consists of the intervale of Canajoharie or Bowmans Creek,[8] and undulating uplands 200 to 600 feet above the valley. The soil is a gravelly loam, derived from the disintegration of the underlying slate, in some places intermixed with clay. The cultivation of hops receives some attention. A small woolen factory is located on Bowmans Creek. Canajoharie, (p. v.,) incorp. April 30, 1829, contains 5 churches, the Canajoharie Academy, and 2 banks; pop. 1500. A bridge crosses the Mohawk at this place, connecting it with the village and R. R. station of Palatine Bridge. Ames,[9] (p. v.,) in the s. part of the town, contains an academy and 204 inhabitants, and Buel,[10] (p. v.,) in the s. w. part, 25 houses. Sprout Brook, (p. o.,) Mapleton, and Marshville are hamlets. The first settlement in town was commenced in early colonial times; but the precise date is not known.[11] During the Revolution the people warmly espoused the American cause, and were afterward among the greatest sufferers in the Mohawk Valley.[12] Gen. Clinton, while marching to join Sullivan in 1779, made this place his headquarters for some weeks.[13] In Aug. 1780, Brant made an incursion into the valley and destroyed nearly the whole settlement.[14] During the war several other incursions were made, and the people were often driven to the utmost extremity. Several small forts were built in the town, which afforded some protection to the people.[15] In 1795, Archibald and James Kane established themselves as merchants at this place, and commenced a business which soon grew to be one of the largest in the interior of the State.[16] In 1823, the "Central Asylum for the Instruction of the Deaf and Dumb" was located near Buel, in this town; but in 1836 it was united with the one previously established in New York City.[17] The first church (Free Will Bap.) was organized at Ames, in 1796–97, by Rev. George Elliott.[18]

CHARLESTON—was formed from Mohawk, March 12, 1793.[19] Glen and a part of Root were taken off in 1823. It is the most southerly town in the co., and the only one not bordering upon the Mohawk. It lies upon the high plateau region immediately w. of Schoharie Creek; and the

[1] Named from David Crane, who settled here in 1804.

[2] So named because the Indian tribes were wont to assemble here.

[3] A Remington suspension bridge built here some years since fell of its own weight before it was finished.

[4] This edifice was richly ornamented with carvings of oak and mahogany; and at the time of its erection it was one of the finest mansions in the colony. It is still standing, and is the property of Ethan Aikens, Esq. Sir William lived here for many years, surrounded by numerous dependents, and was frequently visited by great numbers of Indians, by whom he was highly esteemed. He built a mill upon the Kayaderosseras, near his mansion.

[5] The former of these was burned, and its site is now occupied by the hotel of Chas. Chase. The latter, known as "Guy Park," is still standing, between the R. R. and river, 1 mi. w. of Amsterdam. It is now owned by Jas. Stewart. A tract 1 mi. square was originally attached to each of these residences, but the whole was confiscated and sold with the estates of the tories.

[6] This church became Presb. in 1803. There are now 8 churches in town; 2 Presb., 2 M. E., Bap., Ref. Prot. D., Prot. E., and Evang. Luth.

[7] "Canajoharie" in the act of incorporation. Indian name, Ga-na-jo-hi-e, said to signify a "a kettle-shaped hole in the rock," or "the pot that washes itself," and refers to a deep hole worn in the rock at the falls on the creek 1 mi. from its mouth.

[8] It is said that the Indian name of this stream is "Te-ko-ha-ra-wa." The falls on this creek, about 1 mi. from its mouth, are interesting to scientific men for the different geological formations there exposed and the holes of various sizes worn in the rocks.

[9] Named in honor of Fisher Ames.

[10] Named in honor of Jesse Buel, of Albany.

[11] An Indian school was taught at Canajoharie, in 1766, by Philip Jonathan.

[12] At the battle of Oriskany many of the prominent citizens of this place were killed. Among them were Col. Cox, Lieut. Col. Hunt, Maj. Van Slyck, Capt. Henry Devendorf, Robert Orman, Jacob Bowman, Andrew Dillenback, Capt. Jacob Leeber, Charles Fox, and Lieut. Wm. Leeber.

[13] While Gen. Clinton was at this place, Henry Hare and Wm. Newbury, two notorious tories, were arrested and executed as spies. They had formerly been citizens of the town. A deserter named Titus was also shot here.

[14] See page 416.

[15] A fort was built here at an early period as one of the chain of fortifications to Oswego. It was 100 feet square, 15 ft. high, with bastions at the angles, and was armed with several small cannon. In 1781 the house of Philip Van Alstyne was palisaded, and named Fort Van Rensselaer. It is still standing. Fort Plain stood 1 mi. E. of Canajoharie. An Indian burial ground occupied the hillside just W. of the village, and several skeletons have been found, in a sitting posture, facing the E.

[16] In 1799 their purchases of potash and wheat amounted to $120,000.

[17] This asylum was established mainly through the instrumentality of Robt. Bowman, of this town, and its course of instruction was modeled after that at Hartford, Conn. Prof. G. F. Morris, now of the New York Asylum, was its last principal.

[18] The census reports 11 churches; 3 M. E., 2 Ref. Prot. D., 2 Evang. Luth., Presb., F. W. Bap., True Dutch, and Union.

[19] By an act bearing this date, the old town of Mohawk was abolished, and its territory was erected into Florida and Charleston. The present town of Mohawk is of much more recent origin.

greater part of the surface is an undulating upland. On the E. it descends in steep declivities to the valley of the creek, which is here a narrow ravine. Its streams are small. The soil is generally loam intermixed with clay, and is particularly adapted to spring grains and dairying. The town has a limited amount of manufactures, consisting principally of sash and blinds, woolen goods, and flour. Burtonsville,[1] (p. v.,) on Schoharie Creek, in the S. E. corner of the town, contains 32 houses; Charleston Four Corners, (p. v.,) in the S. W. corner, 30; and Charleston, (p. v.,) near the N. border, 20. Carytown and Oak Ridge are hamlets. A portion of this town was included in the patent of 25,400 acres granted to Wm. Corry in 1737; and others were portions of the "Stone Heap Patent," granted to John Bowen and others in 1770, and Thomas Machin's Patent of 1787. The first settlements were probably made previous to the Revolution.[2] The census reports 5 churches in town.[3]

FLORIDA—was formed from Mohawk, March 12, 1793. It embraces that part of the co. lying S. of the Mohawk, and E. of Schoharie Creek. The greater part of the surface is a rolling upland, 600 ft. above the valley. Bean Hill, in the S. W. part, is the highest land in the co. The declivities bordering upon the streams are usually steep. The two principal streams within its borders are Chuctenunda and Cowilliga[4] Creeks. The soil and productions are similar to those of neighboring towns. Several sulphur springs are found in town, the most noted of which is near Scotch Bush. The Erie Canal crosses the Schoharie Creek between this town and Glen, on a costly aqueduct. Broomcorn is one of the principal agricultural products, and brooms are extensively manufactured. Port Jackson (p. v.) is a canal village on the Mohawk, opposite Amsterdam. Pop. 369. Minaville, (p. v.,) on Chuctenunda Creek, near the center, contains 95 inhabitants. Fort Hunter,[5] (p. o.,) at the mouth of Schoharie Creek, and Scotch Bush, (p. o.,) near the S. border, are hamlets. One of the 3 Mohawk castles was situated at the mouth of Schoharie Creek at the first advent of the whites. The first white settlement in this co. is supposed to have been made in this town. Fort Hunter[6] was built here by the whites in 1711. Queen Anne's Chapel was soon after erected, and was furnished with a valuable set of communion plate by Queen Anne.[7] The fort was garrisoned until after the French War, when it was abandoned. During the Revolution the chapel was inclosed with palisades, and converted into a strong fortress defended by cannon. In Oct. 1780, several houses were burned on the opposite side of the creek by the forces under Sir John Johnson, but the fort was not molested. Before the close of the war several newly arrived German emigrants settled in town, and they were followed soon after by Scotch and Irish families.[8] The first preacher after the war was Rev. Thos. Romeyn, (Ref. Prot. D.,) in 1784. The census reports 5 churches in town.[9]

GLEN[10]—was formed from Charleston, April 10, 1823. It lies in the S. W. angle formed by the junction of Schoharie Creek and the Mohawk. Its surface consists principally of uplands about 600 feet high, descending by abrupt declivities to the narrow intervales along the streams. The principal streams are Auries[11] Creek, a tributary of the Mohawk, and Irish Creek, a branch of the Schoharie.[12] The soil is generally a clayey loam. One mi. E. of Voorheesville is a chalybeate spring.[13] Feltonville[14] (p. v.) is situated on the Mohawk and the Erie Canal. Pop. 850. Voorheesville, (Glen p. v.,) near the center of the town, contains 40 houses, and Auriesville, (p. v.,) a canal village near the mouth of Auries Creek, 170 inhabitants. The land bordering upon the river was granted in 10 patents to different persons in 1722 to 1726, and the greater part of the remainder to James De Lancey in 1737. Peter Quackenboss settled on Scott's Patent, near Auries Creek.

[4] Said to signify "Willow."

[5] The Indian name for this place was I-can-de-ro-ga, or Te-on-ni-ogh, "two streams coming together." The first Indian castle, which stood near this place, was called "Os-sco-ne-non," or "Os-sco-ne-ne-ro."—N. Y. Colonial Hist.

[6] The contracts to build this fort, and one at Oswego, were taken Oct. 11, 1711, by Garret Symonce, Barent and Hendrick Fonda, John Wemp, and Arent Van Patten, of Schenectady. The walls of the first were 150 feet square and 12 feet high, and were formed of logs pinned together. It was afterward enlarged and strengthened.

[7] This chapel was for a long time under the charge of the "Society for Propagating the Gospel in Foreign Parts," and a missionary and Indian school were supported here. The chapel was demolished in 1820 to make room for the canal. The parsonage, still standing, is probably the oldest building W. of Schenectady. It was sold a few years since for $1500, and the proceeds were divided between the Prot. E. churches at Port Jackson and Johnstown.

[8] Wm. Bent kept the first store at Port Jackson. The first bridge of any importance over Schoharie Creek was built in 1796, by Maj. Isaiah De Puy. The route S. of the Mohawk was the one principally traveled for a great number of years. An Indian school was taught at Fort Hunter in 1769.

[10] Named from Jacob S. Glen, a prominent citizen of the town.

[11] Auries Creek is the Dutch for "Adrians Creek." It was named from an Indian in the vicinity. The Indian name was Ogh-rack-ie.

[12] Upon Schoharie Creek, about 2 mi. above its mouth, is a high bank formed by a landslide, and called by the Indians Co-daugh-ri-ty, signifying "steep bank," or "perpendicular wall."—Simms's Hist. Schoharie.

soon after it was secured, and was probably the first white inhabitant of the town. About 1740 16 Irish families, under the patronage of Sir Wm. Johnson, settled on Corry's Patent, a few mi. s.w. of Fort Hunter. After making considerable improvements, they abandoned their locations and returned to Ireland in consequence of threatened Indian disturbances.[1] The first church (Ref. Prot. D.) was formed at Glen; Rev. Henry V. Wyckoff was the first pastor.[2] This town was the scene of many interesting incidents connected with the war. It furnished its full proportion of victims at the battle of Oriskany, and sustained an equal share in the losses and suffering from Indian incursions.[3] The last council within the co. previous to the Revolution was held between the Indians and Americans Oct. 13, 1775, on the farm now owned by John S. Quackenboss, on the Mohawk Flats, 2 mi. E. of Fultonville.

MINDEN—was formed from Canajoharie, March 2, 1798. Danube (Herkimer co) was taken off in 1817. It lies upon the s. bank of the Mohawk, in the extreme w. part of the co. Its surface is principally an undulating upland, with steep declivities bordering upon the streams. The principal streams are the Otsquaga[4] and its tributary the Otsquene. Prospect Hill, called by the Indians "Ta-ra-jo-rhies,"[5] lies upon the Otsquaga opposite Fort Plain. The soil is a fine loam of gravelly and clayey loam, and is particularly adapted to grazing.[6] Fort Plain, (p.v.) incorp. April 5, 1832, is situated upon the Mohawk, in the E. part of the town. It contains an academy,[7] bank, printing office, and 4 churches. Pop. 1502. Mindenville, (p.v.) on the Mohawk, in the w. part of the town, contains 30 houses, and Fordsborough, (Minden P.O.) on the w. border, 25. Hallsville,[8] (p. o.,) Freysbush,[9] (p. o.,) and Hessville, are hamlets. In this town are found the remains of one of those ancient fortifications which are so common in Central and Western New York and throughout the Western States, showing that the co. was inhabited long prior to the advent of the Indians.[10] During the French War, Fort Plain was erected on the summit of the hill, half a mi. N. W. of the village.[11] During the Revolution, several other forts were built to protect the people from the sudden attacks of the Indians.[12] The first settlements in this town were among the first in the co. The early settlers were Germans, among whom were the Devendorf, Waggoner, and Gros families, Andrew Keller, and Henry H. Smith.[13] John Abeel, an Indian trader, settled here in 1748.[14] In common with the other valley towns these settlements were ravaged by Brant and Johnson in 1780. At the time of Brant's incursion the men were mostly absent, and the women were shut up in the forts for safety. Upon the

[1] A son of the first settler married Annie, daughter of Capt. John Scott, the patentee, and settled on the site of the present co. poorhouse. Their son John, born about 1725, was the first white child born on the s. side of the Mohawk, between Fort Hunter and German Flats. Cornelius Putnam settled at Oadaughrity, Richard Hoff 1 mi. w. of Glen, Nicholas Gardinier and John Van Eps on the Mohawk, and Charles Van Eps at Fultonville. Near the house of the Van Eps a small blockhouse was erected toward the close of the Revolution. Jno. Hazard taught the first school, at the house of J. S. Quackenboss; Wm. Quackenboss kept the first inn at Auriesville, in 1797, and John Starin one still earlier at the present village of Fultonville. Jer. Smith opened the first store in Glen, in 1797. A. D. Quackenboss kept a store on the Mohawk, E. of Fultonville. Peter and Simon Mabie built the first sawmill and carding machine, in 1797, and Peter Quackenboss a gristmill, on Auries Creek, soon after.

[2] The census reports 4 churches in town; 2 Ref. Prot. D., M. E., True Dutch.

[3] In the fall of 1779 George Cuck, a noted tory, who had often led scalping parties of Indians to the homes of his old neighbors, was seen lurking about, and at one time was fired upon and narrowly escaped. It was supposed that he had returned to Canada; but toward spring it became known that he was concealed at the house of John Van Zuyler, a kinsman and brother tory. A party surrounded the house, dragged Cuck from his hiding place and shot him, and arrested Van Zuyler and sent him prisoner to Albany. In the fall of 1780 the whole settlement was ravaged, and many of the people were murdered. One day Isaac Quackenboss, while out hunting, discovered three hostile Indians sitting upon a log. He fired, and killed two, and mortally wounded the third.

[4] Mohawk, Osquago, signifying "under the bridge."

[5] Said to signify "Hill of Health," or "Fort on a hill."

[6] The dairy products of this town are greater than those of any other in the co. Hops are also largely cultivated.

[7] The "Fort Plain Seminary and Female Collegiate Institute" is supported by the patronage of all denominations. The academic building is a fine structure, situated upon a commanding eminence overlooking the village and valley.

[8] Named from Capt. Robert Hall.

[9] Named from John Frey, a lawyer and leading patriot who resided here during the Revolution.

[10] These mounds and ruins are the most easterly of any of the kind yet discovered. They are situated 4 mi. E. of Fort Plain, on a tongue of land formed by the valleys of Otsquaga Creek and one of its tributaries. This tongue is 100 ft. above the stream, and the declivities are almost precipitous. Across the tongue, at its narrowest part, is a curved line of breastworks 200 ft. in length, inclosing an area of about 7 acres. A gigantic pine, 4 ft. in diameter, stands upon one end of the embankment, showing that the work must have been of great antiquity.—Smithsonian Contributions, Vol. II. Art. 6.

[11] This fort was built by a French engineer for the Government, and was the finest fortification in the valley. It was octagonal, 3 stories high, each story projecting beyond the one below. In the lower story was a cannon, which was fired in cases of alarm to notify the people of danger.

[12] Fort Plank was situated about 2 mi. N. W. of Fort Plain, on the farm now occupied by C. House. Fort Clyde was situated 1 mi. S. W. of Fort Plain, near the residence of Peter Devendorf, at Freysbush. Fort Willett was W. of Fort Plank.

[13] Henry Hayse, a German, taught the first school. Jacob Countryman built the first gristmill, soon after the war, and Isaac Paris kept the first store, about the same time. A large stone dwelling was erected here for the sons of Gov. Clinton, in 1738, but was soon abandoned. It obtained the reputation of being haunted, and was given away, 50 years ago, on condition that it should be demolished.

[14] In his previous intercourse with the Indians, Abeel had married the daughter of a Seneca chief, after the Indian fashion. A child of this marriage was the famous chief Cornplanter. Abeel subsequently married a white woman, and at the commencement of the war was living upon his farm. During the incursion of Oct. 1780, Abeel was taken prisoner by a party of Indians, and, while momentarily expecting death, Cornplanter addressed him as father and assured him of his safety. He was given his choice either to accompany the Indians and the protection of his son, or to return to his white family. He chose the latter; and after the war Cornplanter visited Albany and was received by his Fort Plain relatives with the civilities due his rank and manly bearing. The chief died at his residence in Penn., March 7, 1836. Stone, in his Life of Brant, says that Cornplanter was more than 100 years old at the time of his death. Mr. Webster, of Fort Plain, a descendant of John Abeel, states that Abeel did not make his appearance in the Indian country until 1748, and that Cornplanter was born about 1736. This would make his age about 30 when he accompanied the expedition that took his father prisoner, and but 56 when he died.

approach of the enemy the women showed themselves dressed in men's clothes, and the Indians were kept at a respectful distance. The first church (Ref. Prot. D.) was organized at Fort Plain, long before the war. The census reports 9 churches in town.[1]

MOHAWK—was formed from Johnstown, April 4, 1837.[2] It lies upon the N. bank of Mohawk River and near the center of the co. The surface is uneven, and gradually rises from the river to the N. line, where it attains an elevation of about 400 ft. above the valley. The principal streams are Cayadutta and Da-de-nos-ca-ra[3] Creeks. The soil is generally a good variety of gravelly loam. Fonda,[4] (p. v.,) pleasantly situated upon the Mohawk, is the co. seat. Besides the co. buildings, it contains 2 churches, a bank, printing offices, and several manufactories. Tribes Hill, (p. v.,) on the border of Amsterdam, contains 327 inhabitants. The site of the present village of Fonda was called "Caughnawaga"[5] by the Indians, and was one of the favorite resorts of the Mohawks. It was the scene of some of the earliest labors of the French Jesuits among the Five Nations, two of whom lost their lives here in 1646. The names of the first actual white settlers are not known. Nicholas Hansen[6] settled at Tribes Hill before 1725, and others, by the names of Fonda, Vanderworker, Doxtader, and Fisher, at an early day.[7] Among the other residents of the town before the Revolution were Col. John Butler and his son Walter N., who afterward attained an infamous notoriety for their inhuman atrocities and for the vindictive hate which they seemed to cherish against their old whig neighbors.[8] The principal weight of the incursion of Sir John in May, 1780, fell upon the two settlements of Tribes Hill and Caughnawaga.[9] In the autumn of the same year the second incursion of Sir John swept over the town, destroying the greater part of the property that escaped the first. A stone church (Ref. Prot. D.) erected in 1769 is still standing.[10] Rev. Thos. Romeyn was the first pastor. In 1795 he was succeeded by Rev. William Van Horne.[11] The census reports 3 churches in town; Ref. Prot. D., True D., M. E.

[3] Meaning, "trees having excrescences."

[4] Named from Douw Fonda, who removed from Schenectady and settled here in 1751. At the time of the Revolution he was the only inn-keeper on the State, between the present turnpike and the river, and his house, s. e. of the road leading to the bridge, at which place he was surprised by the Indians under Sir John, May 22, 1780. At the time of his death he was 84 years old. In former years he was strongly befriended the Johnson family; but the ruthless conduct of Sir John spared neither friend nor foe. His three sons, Jellis, and Adam, were stanch whigs, residing in the neighborhood. Indian name, Ga-na-wa-da, "on the rapids." Jellis, "name in the water," or "at the rapids."

[5] Meaning "name in the water," or "at the rapids."

[6] In 1700 acres each, on the Mohawk, were granted to Hansen and his brother Hendrik July 12, 1713. Date of birth N. of the river, of which there is any record, is that of Henry Hansen. —— Collins taught a school in the village (Fonda is said to have been the first merchant in Schenectady. He carried on an extensive trade with the Indians, and with the whites at Forts Schuyler and Stanwix, Forts at Oswego, Niagara, and Schlosser. His sales were largely of blankets, trinkets, ammunition, and rum. The skins of peltries, ginseng, and potash. At one time at the Revolution his ledger showed an indebtedness of over $100,000 in the Indian country. John Chaley was an early settler in Tribes Hill. He was in the war, and found his own brother in arms against him.

[7] Jacob White, Colonial Sheriff of Tryon co., resided on the site of the courthouse. He was a zealous tory, and fled to Canada. He was succeeded by John Frey, who was a member of the Provincial Congress.

[8] The attachment against Tribes Hill was led by Henry and Jacob Bush, who had lived in the vicinity. Passing the tory settlement of Albany Bush (in Johnstown) without molestation, they proceeded to the home of Gerret Putnam, a stanch whig, in Tribes Hill, and there by mistake murdered two tories, who had taken the place a short time before. From this place they went up the river, plundering the houses and murdering the inhabitants and neighbors. Every building was burned except the church and parsonage, and several slaves and white prisoners were carried to Canada. The women were not molested on this occasion. At the house of Col. Fisher they were warmly received by the Col.'s family, consisting of himself, his mother, and his two brothers John and Jacob. The Col.'s wife and children had been sent to Albany for safety; and his two sisters and an old negro, on the approach of the enemy, fled to the woods and escaped. The Indians commenced an attack upon the house, and a constant firing was kept up by the inmates until their ammunition was exhausted. They then all retreated to the chamber except John, who remained in the stairway and defended it with a hatchet until he had killed 7 Indians. He then retreated above, and, slipping down a rope which lay upon the floor, he fell, and was dispatched with a tomahawk. Harmon jumped out of the window to put out the fire that had been applied to the roof, and while standing on the fence he was shot, and fell across the fence dead. The mother was knocked down with the breech of a gun and left for dead. The Col. was also knocked down by a tomahawk, dragged down stairs by his hair, and thrown upon the ground, when an Indian jumped upon his back, drew a knife across his throat, as was supposed, cutting it from ear to ear, then, cutting round the scalp, seized it by his teeth and tore it from his head, and finally gave him a blow in the shoulder with his hatchet and fled. The Col. had not lost his senses through all this mangling, and his throat, being protected by a leather belt worn inside of his cravat, was only slightly wounded. As soon as the Indians disappeared, he arose, went up stairs and brought down his mother, placed her in a chair and leaned her up against the fence; returned, and brought down the body of his brother John and laid it on the grass; then, becoming exhausted from loss of blood and the effect of the scalping, he lay down upon an old rug that lay out of doors,—as he supposed, to die. The old negro and girls soon returned, and found the house burned down and the dead and wounded as described. By signs the Col. made known to the negro that he wanted water, who immediately brought it from the creek near by and gave it to him to drink, and also bathed his head, which restored his speech. A tory named Clement passing by, the negro asked what he should do: the reply, given in German, was, "Let the d—d rebel die." According to the directions of the Col., the negro caught the colts, which had never been broken, harnessed them to the wagon, and took him to the house of Putnam, at Tribes Hill. From there he, together with his mother, sisters, and the bodies of his brothers, was conveyed across the river to Wemples, and thence in a canoe to Schenectady, where they arrived about sundown, and he had his wounds dressed for the first time. After five years' suffering, he nearly recovered from the effects of his wounds. He built a new house on the site of the old one, and lived 29 years after he was wounded,—for several years holding the office of First Judge of the co. His mother also recovered from her wounds, and lived with him. After the war the Indian who scalped him returned to the settlements, and stopped at a tavern kept by a tory at Tribes Hill. The wife of the landlord, who was a whig, sent word immediately to the house of Col. Fisher that the Indian was there and would soon call at his house. The family, knowing that the Col. had sworn revenge, and wishing to prevent any more bloodshed, kept the news from him. As they were all in the front room, about the time the Indian was expected they overset a pot of lye upon the hearth, and persuaded the Col. to go into the back room and lie down until they cleaned it up. While the Col. was gone, the Indian came to the door, where he was met by the old lady, who addressed him in the Indian tongue, told him her son's intentions, and pointed to a gun which was always kept loaded in readiness for him. The Indian listened, gave a grunt, and ran away with all speed.

[9] In 1845 it was fitted up as an academy; but the school was soon after discontinued.

[10] He died in 1840, at an advanced age. During his ministry he married 1500 couples.—Simms's Schoharie.

The IMMIGRANT GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY (IGS) was founded in North Hollywood, California in 1982, to help Americans trace the foreign origins of their ancestors, in particular in the German-speaking areas of Europe.

The Society's greatest assets are the Immigrant Library, a unique collection of German materials, and its two research committees: The German Research Committee (GRC) and the German Genealogical Exchange Group (GGEG).

The IMMIGRANT Library includes a complete set of the Deutsches Familienarchiv (DFA), a fully indexed collection of German genealogies; a large collection of Ortsippenbuecher, lineage books of individual German towns; Amerikana in Deutschen Sammlungen (ADS), a catalogue of materials in German archives relating to American history, including much information on 19th-Century emigration to America; the 1981 edition of the Genealogical Society of Utah's International Genealogical Index (IGI) for Central and Southern Europe (which includes all of Germany); a complete set of West German Telephone Directories (1984); and newsletters from many genealogical societies in Germany, covering not only the Federal Republic of Germany (West Germany) and the German Democratic Republic (East Germany), but also those former German areas now incorporated into the People's Republic of Poland and the U.S.S.R.

In addition to its large collection of German genealogical materials, the IMMIGRANT Library also contains substantial holdings of materials on 17th-, 18th- and 19th-Century German emigration to the United States and Canada and on New England and French-Canadian genealogy.

The IMMIGRANT GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY provides many services for those people researching for their German ancestry:

The Society's greatest assets are the Immigrant Library.

Initial Research Review. The SOCIETY's German Research Committee (GRC) will search the standard German genealogical bibliographies, as well as its own extensive indexes for a certain surname, and send the inquirer a report on its findings, together with a list of German genealogists also researching that surname, and suggestions on how to proceed with further research. The fee for this service is only $10.00 per surname, plus a stamped self-addressed #10 (business-size) envelope and two loose $.17 stamps. To enable the GRC to concentrate its attention on the sources most appropriate to each case, the Society asks that inquirers send a copy of all the information they already know concerning their immigrant ancestor, including: the full name of immigrant ancestor (with alternate spellings of surname), date of birth, ancestral town and/or province, date of immigration or of first appearance in North America, the place(s) in North America where the immigrant settled, and the immigrant's religious affiliation.

Extended Research. The GRC also undertakes more extensive research on behalf of individuals for an hourly fee, payable in advance.

Telephone Books. For researcher who can identify the West German towns from which their ancestors came, the Society will search the West German telephone directories for those areas, for a fee of $5.00 per surname, per town, plus a stamped, self-addressed #10 (business-size) envelope.

FANA Listings. Familienkundliche Nachrichten (FANA) is one of the two German genealogical publications devoted entirely to publishing research queries. From time to time the IGS Newsletter publishes a surname index to this publication under the title "FANA Listings". The IGS will provide a photocopy of any query published in FANA, including the name and of the person submitting the query, for a fee of $5.00, plus a stamped, self-addressed #10 (business-size) envelope. ●

VOL. XXXI No. 3 NOVEMBER 1956

DUTCH SETTLEMENTS ON THE DELAWARE RIVER

By Walter H. Van Hoesen

Far less attention has been given to Dutch settlements on the Delaware River than in any other part of what was New Netherland and yet the efforts to colonize that area date back to 1631.

Henry Hudson reached the shores of Delaware Bay on his trip to America in 1609 and worked North along the coast to his first landing on Staten Island, followed days later by his trip up and down "the great North River," which was later given his name. Cornelius Mey visited the region in 1614 as the skipper of the vessel "New Netherland" and on Timmer's Kill, near the site of the present town of Glouster, New Jersey, he built Fort Nassau.

In June 1623, the West India Company having been fully organized, there sailed from Holland under its auspices an expedition of three ships. They were the Orange Tree, the Eagle and the Love, all of which brought over more Walloon families, some for the settlements on Manhattan and up the Hudson River and others for Fort Nassau on what was then known as the South River.

Another early visitor to the Delaware was Cornelis Hendrickson, who was captain of several vessels outfitted by the United New Netherland Company for trips to America before its charter lapsed in 1618. The first patroonships were located by Samuel Bloemart and Samuel Godyn, merchants of Amsterdam and directors of the Dutch West India Company which followed after the United Netherland Company. Under a plan devised by the successor company to colonize and attract settlers by giving hereditary grants to persons who would settle the and and improve it, the two men secured lands extending for miles along the south west bank of the Delaware River. They planted a colony in 1631 called Swanendael (Swan's Valley), but Fort Nassau had been abandoned as a southern outpost of the New Netherland boundary. An Indian uprising occurred and all the settlers were exterminated.

The next effort to found a colony on the Delaware came in 1638, when the New Sweden Company was formed with Dutch and Swedish capital. The purpose was to promote the Swedish flag. One of the two Hollanders who were leading spirits in the company was none other than Peter Minuit, former Governor of New Netherland, who had been dismissed by the Dutch West India Company. The other was Samuel Blommaert, who had been interested in the Swaenendael colony.

The plans of the New Sweden Company were kept secret until two Swedish ships arrived at the mouth of the Delaware in command of Minuit and Blommaert. Against the protests of Governor Kieft from his head quarters in the fort at New Amsterdam, they established a trading post near the present site of Wilmington, Del., which they named Christina, in honor of the Swedish Queen. The colony was successful and established a large trade in furs.

In 1642 John Prinz became governor of the Swedish colony on the Delaware. Governor Keift had appealed to the West India Company, which took no action beyond lodging protest with the New Sweden Company over the alleged trespassing on Dutch territory.

Fort Christina was meant to be the capitol of a province to be called New Sweden. The Swedes, however, were much like the Hollanders and did not show too much enthusiasm for leaving the homeland to chance life in a wild country 3,000 miles away. Minuit had 213 colonists in the original company when he arrived to found the colony, of which 42 were Hollanders and only a few more Sweedes.

Minuit died soon after the colony came into being, probably in the West Indies on his way back to Europe. Between 1638 and 1654 there were nine Swedish expeditions in all designed to settle New Sweden.

The West India Company, with encouragement from the States General in Holland, continued efforts to settle the area claimed by them as a part of New Netherland. In 1651, repeating the tactics of Sweden, Peter Stuyvesant built a new Dutch outpost known as Fort Casimir below Fort Christina on the same side of the Delaware River. It was one of the first of his aggressive moves after becoming Governor of New Netherlands and he settled 26 Dutch families around the fort. At that time the colonists sent by the New Sweden Company were about 200 in number and the situation remained with very litte change until the last Swedish expedition in 1654 brought an additional 350 colonists.

Thus fortified, the Swedes moved on Fort Casimir, changed its name to Fort Trinity and naturalized the Dutch settlers. Then, in 1656, Stuyvesant set out in three ships from New Amsterdam with an army of nearly 100 soldiers. He laid seige to Fort Christina and when it was captured efforts of the Swedes to maintain a colony on the American continent came to an end.

In 1657 the West India Company, in settlement of a debt, offered to the City of Amsterdam in Holland the original Dutch section of New Sweden. A new town, Nieuwer Amstel (New Castle) was laid out south of Fort Casimir as a settlement for the Waldenses, French Huguenots from the Piedmont province in France, who had fled to Amsterdam to escape persecution. A year later the settlement had a population of 600 people, but in 1659 100 people died from disease and after survivors had fled the population was only 30 families by 1660. Determined not to give up the city of Amsterdam continued to send new settlers and in 1664 the spirit was so strong the inhabitants of Nieuwer Amstel resisted vigorously to the English demand for surrender. In contrast to the inhabitants of New Amsterdam and the Hudson River settlements, the settlers on the Delaware put up a valiant struggle to avoid capture by the English, but they were outnumbered and forced to surrender. The town was plundered and most of the Dutch soldiers were sold as slaves in Virginia.

CONEWAGO AND LATER DUTCH SETTLEMENTS

By John A. Bogart

Who has not come to a point in tracing the descendants of the early Dutch pioneer families when it seemed that progress was slowed down or that the attempt to connect these families with more recent generations defied solution

In many instances this apparent hiatus was due to mass migration from metropolitan New York. The first few generations in this country were closely identified with their respective communities where their records—both church and civil—were fairly well established. But when many of these families crossed the Hudson River after 1750 and joined the trek north, west and south, they left little account of themselves.

These families left the safety and comfort of their humble homes, their friends and loved ones and headed into the forests, mountains and plains—there to test their strength, their faith and courage to conquer the wilderness.

The trials and tribulations of the early pioneers is traditional. A team of horses and wagon were a necessity. As a rule, several families traveled in a group. Most of the roads, they cut themselves. Many were wiped out by the dreaded malaria or smallpox—or did not survive the Indian attacks that were so prevalent in those times.

The dead were buried where they died, in unmarked and forgotten graves, but the survivors went on. There were no churches or missions and no hamets. Those were the days before the "sountry parson" and frequently, in isolated areas, brief marriages were performed by the parents of the bride or bridegroom, the family Bible served as the authority. They were a mobile group who were more concerned with survival than they were in keeping family records so eagerly, but often fruitlessly sought today. One is fortunate who can trace a family record in an unbroken line of descent without documentary proof to support it—proof that may not exist.

It is not surprising that comparatively few early records can be found in such areas as central, eastern and western Pennsylvania, North and South Carolina, eastern and central Tennessee, Kentucky, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana and Virginia. The only records of many settlements were in possession of families and were passed down through generations. After the first crude attempts to establish communities and missions, many such records were either lost, destroyed by fire, flood or by the ravages of war—long before the first Federal Census of 1790 was thought of.

Probably the earliest mass exodus from what is now metropolitan New York and New Jersey was Conewago Settlement in Pennsylvania. In this account, however, we are not so much concerned with the history of the settlement as we are in its pivotal importance, and its genealogical value in tracing families, particularly those of Dutch descent.

Unfortunately, Conewago Settement has not been given the place in history it so well deserves, because it served as the center from which other important migrations followed and hundreds of Dutch, English, Irish and French fanned out over the United States, particularly in the central and southern states where some of our greatest western pioneers were born and nurtured. Conewago gave encouragement to other pioneers who followed, and who successively pushed on and opened the great West.

Conewago Settlement was situated in Straban Township, Adams County—then York County, Pennsylvania, about three miles south of Gettysburg. It was settled in 1765 by several hundred families from Somerset, Bergen and other New Jersey counties, who were joined by others from Manhattan, Long Island and Staten Island, numbering in all about seven-hundred and fifty. The principal route was along the Old York Road in New Jersey to Philadelphia and thence directly west along the southern border of Pennsylvania.

The first deed on record in York County was one issued to a Van Aersdale family in 1768, "adjoining Henry Banta, George Sebring, William Love, David Hunter and Francis Cassart." Among the families who went there were: Ammerman, Boyce, Brokaw, Bogert, Brower, Bodine, Banta, Conover, Duryea, Ditmars, Dorland, De Mott, Du Bois, De Graff, Griggs, Hunter, Love, Monfort, Nevius, Purcell, Peterson, Schamp, Strycker, Smock, Terhune, Van Dyck, Van Cleef, Van Nuys, Van Oder, Van Nest, Van Aersdale, Van Tine, Van Zant, Van Pelt, Van Atten, Van Duyn, Van Hartigen, Van Horn, Vanderveer, Voorhis, Vanderbilt, Wyckoff, Westervelt, Watson and Williamson. A wide variation in the spelling of some of these names appears in the records.

By 1772 the colony commenced to distintegrate and while a few families remained in the vicinity, the great majority of them divided and set out for Kentucky. Some went by way of Pittsburgh, some through Virginia and West Virginia, others down the Shenandoah Valley, along the Great Smokey Mountains to Tennessee and Alabama. Later generations of these families settled in northern Kentucky, Indiana and Illinois, from whence they pushed westward and pioneered our great farm belt.

Kentucky was formerly a portion of the western territory of Virginia and was first settled and pioneered by Daniel Boone, in 1769. He and his brother, "Squire II," sponsored the settlements in Henry, Mercer and Shelby Counties, where many of the former Conewago families settled. By 1780 many families had spread out over the northern part of the state, among them: David Allen, Hendrick Banta, Cornelius Banta, John Banta, Peter Banta, Albert Banta, Jacob Banta, Abraham Banta, Daniel Banta; Cornelius Bogert; Peter Demarest, John Demarest, Samuel Demarest, Samuel Demarest, Jr.; Samuel Duryea, Albert Duryea, Benedict Duryea, Henry Duryea; John Darling; John Harris; Samuel Lock; John Riker, Jr.; Henry Shively;

The other half of the Conewago settlers spread out over parts of eastern Pennsylvania; others Maryland and the Virginias. Following the close of the Revolutionary War, many families were joined by others from Bucks County, Penn., Somerset and other New Jersey counties, as well as from Manhattan. They follow the Susquehanna River Valley, crossed over into New York State, and settled in the Five Finger Lakes region, where millions of acres of land were granted to settlers when the Federal and State Governments opened "bounty lands" in that area. The principa settlement at that time was known as the Owasco Settlement, from whence many of these pioneers and their descendants spread out over central New York state.

Owasco was situated about three miles south of present day Augurn, New York. The first Dutch church was established there in 1798 by the Rev. Abraham Brokaw, who had come from New Jersey. Among the families who settled there or in the vicinity were: Henry Ammerman, Garrett Ammerman, Simon Ammerman; Egbert Bratt; Jacob Bogart; Luke Brinkerhoff, George Brinkerhoff, David Brinkerhoff; George Bennett, Abraham Bennett, John Bennett; George Burnett; John B. Brokaw, Abraham Brokaw, John Brokaw; Christopher Berger; Philip Brien; Thomas Borden; William Cock; Conrad Cox; David Class; Zacharias Cox; Garrett Van W. SOUTHEASTERN BRANCH

The Southeastern Branch of the Society held a very successful outdoor steak dinner on Saturday, June 16, in the garden of Vice-president Donald K. Vanneman at 3198 Habersham Road, Atlanta, Ga.

More than twenty members and their guests were present for the occasion and the famous Georgia beaver which is the branch symbol occupied a place of honor. In accordance with tradition, all present stroked it from stem to stern to assure happiness and prosperity for another year.

Officers of the branch were re-elected to serve until the next meeting in the spring. Besides Mr. Vanneman, as president, they are Harry S. Demaree, secretary, and Nicholas Stillwell, treasurer.

Plans were discussed to have a delegation from the branch attend the annual banquet of the Society on November 16 at the Hotel Biltmore in New York City. A special invitation was voted for any Society members visiting in Atlanta to contact officers of the branch so they may be acquainted with real southern hospitality.

colors ceremony along Fifth Avenue. With representatives of other patriotic organizations, veteran groups and detachments from the armed forces, the Guardsmen paraded the Society banners before attending services in St. Thomas Episcopal Church.

The "Burgher Guard Chromicle" published last spring in loose leaf form, has received an excellent reception within as well as outside the Society. In addition to valuable historical data it gives a biographical sketch of every Guardsman. Captain Ammerman has sent out the first supplemental sheet and intends to keep it up to date as changes may require. The book has been distributed to other Societies and libraries besides members of the Guard and officers of the Society.

Hudson-Fulton Celebration in 1909 and eventually found its way up the Hudson River to a forgotten anchorage in a creek below Albany.

Old Year Books of the Society are coming more difficult to acquire and rapidly increasing in value as the newer members become interested in them. The first Year Book was issued in 1886-7, following an initial volume gotten out after the first annual banquet in 1885. They continued without interruption until the last Year Book which was issued in 1939. De Halve Maen appeared as a four-page pamphlet until 1943, when it was changed to the present size. Members who do not wish to retain copies of the Year Book or quarterly publication, are urged to send them to Headquarters at 90 West Street.

A GLIMPSE OF AN OLD DUTCH TOWN

"Once more I stand, but now unknown, by sacred Hudson's tide, ,
With unfamiliar scenes around, no friendly hand to guide;
For in Albany, forsooth, they've been working such a change
With their modern innovations that the place looks very strange.
All the old places and pasture fields, with clover tops so fair,
Are lost to sight, no fences left. no shady bouweries there.
Old places once so very dear to these old eyes of mine
Are scattered like the hoar-frost by the ruthless hand of Time.

* * *

Old things have changes so swiftly since last I saw the town—
The honest old Dutch customs; and the stones whic marked the mile
Are lost in streets and alleys; and the roads, of which the cows
Had traced the crooked outlines as they moved about to browse,
Are laid in stones and pavements: the degenerated race
Have begun with their 'improvements' to wipe out the old Dutch place.
I would not care to live and see such altered folks and ways,
Since half-doors swung wide open in those palmy old Dutch days,
When streets were cleaned by private hand, and all the city's light
Was furnished by th elanterns from each tenth house hung in sight.

* * *

I fain would take before I go a hasty bird's-eye view
Of forms and places that I loved before all things were new."

Albany, or Beverwyck, is one of the oldest of the permanent European settlements in the United States. In 1610 the Dutch navigators came up the Hudson and built trading houses to traffic for furs with the various Indian tribes.

As early as 1614 a stockade fort was erected on an adjacent island and three years later was swept away by a freshet of unparalleled violence. A new fort was built in 1623 on Market Street, now Broadway, below State Street, and was called Fort Orange in honor of the Stadtholder of Holland.

For a time the village was called Beverwyck, but when James, Duke of York and Albany, came in possession of New Netherland, Nieuw Amsterdam became New York and Orange was known as Albany. In 1647 Fort Willemstadt was built upon the hill at the head of State Street and later on gave way to Fort Frederick.

In 1686 Albany became a city of one mile on the river and three and one-half miles long. All outside of these limits belonged to the Colonie Rensselaerwyck. In 1683 Albany County comprised all the territory north of Dutchess and Ulster Counties on both sides of the river and Albany was looked upon as the fount of authority in church and judicial matters.

The Albany Dutch church, founded in 1640, was the only one north of Esopus until long after 1700 that had an established ministry save the church at Schenectady. In this Albany church preached the well-known domines Schaats, Dellius, Lydius, Van Driessen, Van Schie, Frelinhuysen, Westerlo and Johnson. Here, also, were all the children baptized soon after birth and their names entered on the "Doop Boek."

The great festival days were Keestijd, Nieuwjaarsdag, Paaschdag and Pinksterfeest (Christmas, New Years, Easter and Whitsuntide). Christmas was of little importance among the Dutch, for New Year was the day and then it was that the right fat, jolly, roistering little St. Nicholas made his appearance accompanied by his good natured vrouw, Molly Grietje (wife).

New Years day was devoted to the interchange of visits. Every door was thrown wide open and a warm welcome extended to friend and stranger. It was breech of etiquette to omit any acquaintance in these annual calls, when old friendships were renewed and family differences amicably settled.

The majority of early settlers used no sir name and it was customary to prefix the child's to the father's Christian name terminating in "se" for a girl and "sen" for a boy. Ke, je or ken added to a name signified ittle so-and-so. But one name was given in baptism. The Jufvrouw (wife) had the privilege of resuming her maiden name at pleasure to show her descent and on other occasions she would affix her husband's first name to hers, adding se. The use of surnames increased among the Dutch from the time the province was occupied by the English, in 1664, and after the first quarter of the following century few names were written without the addition of the family name.

The houses in Beverwyck were very neat without and within. They were built chiefly of brick or stone and covered with white pine shingles or tiles from Holland. Most of them had gables fronting the street, with gutters extending from the eaves beyond the sidewalk to carry off the rain water. The streets were almost impassable during a heavy storm of wind and rain, but they were broad and lined with shade trees, with here and there a bit of pavement.

The houses were generally a story and a half high and well spread out on the ground floor. Each bouwery had its grass spot and garden in the rear, where vegetables were produced in great abundance. The "stoops" of the houses were raised above the street and shaded by trees planted in commemoration of some event, or the birth of some member of the family. Here gathered the young and old at twilight. Every family had its cow pastured in a common field at the end of the town, and it was a picturesque sight at evening to see each animal going home of its own accord to be milked, the tinkling bells hung around its neck heralding its approach.

At 8 o'clock the "suppan" bell was rung, a signal that work was over for the day. And here just a brief glance at the interior of the Dutch home. The kitchen fireplace was enormous, large enough to roast a whole sheep or hog. Over the crackling hickory log, suspended on hooks and trammels, bubbled and hissed the large iron pots and kettles.

Here the family gathered while, by the light of the glowing fire and a tallow dip, the women spun their linen and the burghers smoked their pipes. In the parlor, that reverenced apartment of state, was a similar large fireplace, with its hickory back-log and its shovel and tongs keeping guard over the brass and-irons (or fire-dogs) and fender.

The chimney jambs were inlaid with party-colored tiles of Scriptural designs brought from Holland and were extremely quaint. The round tea table stood in the parlor, the large square dining table in the kitchen, or family living room. In one corner stood the old Dutch clock telling the year, month, day and hour, the rising and setting of the moon and when each hour struck it sent forth silvery tones. In another corner stood the Holland cupboard, with its glass doors displaying the family plate and china. There was the massive tankard, the richly engraved punch bowl, the shell shaped sugar bowl and the sifter for cinnamon. On the top stood a decanter of large size, always filled with rum and beside it a piece of a cow's horn, smooth on one end, and hollow, tipped with silver. Every morning before breakfast Mynheer "took a horn" as an appetizer, hence the origin of the term.

In still another corner stood the huge iron bound chest brimful of fine linen of home production. Later this gave place to the "chest of drawers," with its brass rings and key holes. On the wall hung the pipe-case of mahogany, with the drawer underneath for tobacco. Every house of pretension had its cock-loft in the steep roof for house slaves. In the middle of the hall was the "hoist door," which which the wheat was hoisted up by a crane and stored in the loft. Over the front door was a shelf, with steps leading up to it. Here was placed a large tobacco box, always kept filled, for everyone to help themselves. On the parlor walls hung the dim portraits of relatives in the Vaderlandt and a hanging candle stick, with a mirror to reflect the rays.

Chintz calico formed the curtains which were put up without cornices. The windows were of very small panes of glass set in lead frames. The floors were sanded, with fanciful figures made in the sand with a broom handle. The best chairs were straight and high-backed, covered with hair cloth and ornamented with double and triple rows of brass nails.

About 1700 the claw-foot sideboards, sofas and tables were generally used. The high post bedstead had its heavy curtain and valance of camlet, and on it a bed of live geese feathers, with a lighter one for covering. The patch quilt was a most marvelous affair. Over each door was usually a stone, with the date of erection and name or initial of the builder. In later times the date was built in anywhere and the general style of architecture was changed.

The table dainties in those days were suppan en melk, hoofd-kass (head cheese), worst (sausage), goolslaa (cabbage) and the famous Dutch oile-koek (oil cake), with chopped raisin and apple in the center.

The early Dutch rose by sun up and went to bed late. They were almost over-wise and cleanly in regards to the floor. The use of tea was general; coffee seldom. They seldom put sugar or milk in their tea, but took a small piece of the former in their mouths while sipping the beverage. They breakfasted at 7, dined at 12 and supped at 6. Sweet milk and butter milk was used at every meal. Cheese at dinner and breakfast was grated instead of sliced.

The prevailing beverages were beer sand water—though, to be candid, the Dutch thought the latter somewhat injurious when taken inwardly. Fish, flesh and fowl, preserved of the richest kind, pastry, nuts, fruits and various wines were used generously, especially when entertaining company.

As an example of the richness of food an old receipts for wedding cake says it must be "mixed in a wash-tub" and contain 12 dozen eggs. Hospitality was pure and generous without formality, but nothing was allowed to interfere with the household or farm duties. Every family had its brass mortar and pestle, used for grinding the grain for the household.

Each house had its dood-kamer (dead chamber) where the dead were placed until the funeral. Dutch ladies were famous for their attendance on such occasions and, if the deceased was of their sex, burnt wine was served them in silver tankards. The funeral was always a great event and the goedt crouw's (good wife) skill was spent to the utmost to load her table with choice foods for the dood-feest (dead feast), the most prominent dish being the dood-koeks (dead cakes).

A familiar name in the old Dutch times in Albany was Wyngaard. Skipper Block, in his cruise of discovery, called an island he came across Martin Wyngaard's Island, (Martin Vineyard's Island), which has since been corrupted to Martha's Vineyard. Likewise Wyngaard's Point is now known as Vineyard Point. The last in the male line was Lucas Wyngaard, who died about 1756, unmarried and leaving an estate.

Invitations to funerals were general—a custom still kept up among the old Dutch families in Albany. All relatives and friends received a written invitation to be present. Of course the attendance was large and those who attended returned to the house, not leaving until morning's light. In the course of the night a pipe of wine was drunk, dozens of pounds of tobacco consumed, grosses of pipes broken, not a whole decanter or glass left in the house and finally the pall-bearers ended the affair by kindling a fire.

On the corner of State and Pearl Streets stood one of the oldest trees in Albany. Tradition whispers that in 1736 Philip Livingston, one of the signers of the Declaration, saved the life of this historical elm by staying the hand of a sailor who was threatening to cut it down. The frost of centuries had been powerless to kill the old elm; but at last Pearl Street required widening, and about two years since the venerable landmark joined the things of the past.

The margin of the river, save a landing at the foot of State Street, was overhung with willows and the picturesque little islands below the town were covered with foliage and bordered by stately trees. Albany was indeed Dutch, the buildings were Dutch, the people were Dutch, the horses were Dutch and even the dogs marked in Dutch. Every house having any pretension to dignity was placed with its gable end toward the street and was surmounted by a rooster.

When the Governor of the Province, with others of rank, visited the town to hold conference of the Six Nations, there were balls, parties and every kind of amusement known. And then the Van Rensselaers, Lansings, Bogerts, Schuylers, Wessels, Ten Brooks, Douws, Staats, Bleeckers, De Peysters, Gansevoorts, Ten Eycks, Cuylers and other leading families opened their hospitable doors. And speaking of doors reminds me of the brass knockers.

In those unprecocious times the boys and girls did not grow to be men and women so soon as they do now. It would have been highly out of place for them to have thought of falling in love before they were out of their teens, or before Catrina had spun her pile of linen and Volckert had several hundred guilders laid aside.

The fashionable dress for ladies was a colored petticoat, rather short, a waist jacket, colored hose of homespun woollen and high-heeled shoes. The Dutch gentlemen appeared in long waisted coats, with skirts reaching to tre ankles, and shoes adorned with large silver buckles, knee breeches and silk or woolen stockings, with cocked hats or red-ringed worsted caps. But more than this, they carried a turnip-shaped watch, with a heavy seal, a tobacco box of embossed silver, on which was engraved the coat of arms surrounded by a scroll. In a pocket were tongue-scraper; tooth, ear and nail pick, the whole shutting within a guard or handle.

The hair was worn in a queue and was generally powdered, the front hair being straight down over the forehead—a style now imitated by many young ladies.

The Dutch church, to which reference has already been made, was very small. It stood at the intersection of State Street and Broadway, commanding both streets as a security against the Indians. The windows were high from the ground, as it was too far from Fort Orange to be protected by its guns, and hence must guard against sudden attack. The men carried their arms to service and set in the gallery, in order to be able to fire from the windows. The more venerable were seated on a raised platform against the wall, and the women sat out of danger's way in the center.

This church was replaced by a new one in 1715 and tradition says the new church was built around the old one. While the farmer was building, service was held in the latter and only interrupted for two sabbaths. The new edifice was an exact counterpart of the old except in size and it was of stone. There was the same general arrangement and separation of the sexes. By now the congregation was a wealthier one and several of the windows bore family arms in colored glass. There were the Schuyler, Douw, Van Rensselaer and others. Each window had a heavy wooden shutter, fastened with a latch and was never opened except on Sunday. The roof was very steep and surmounted by a belfry and weather cock.

Dominee Westerlo was the beloved pastor and called "Our Westerlo" by his flock. The first child baptized in this church was Elizabeth Vinhagen, who became the wife of Jonas Oothout and the church bell tolled for the last time at her burial, she having died at the age of 92. The church was demolished in 1806, and the materials used in the building of the Middle Dutch Church at Beaver and Hudson Streets. Many of the old families were buried under the church and as a special privilege those who could pay for it were allowed burial under their seats.

One of the great charms of the Dutch life was its simplicity. Life did not materially alter their modes of living with the increase of wealth, and they found their happiness in quiet and unostentaton. You would have found among them refinement of feeling and cultivated minds, with a due appreciation of things necessary to a higher life. They were, as they seemed, simple and true.

While we recollect with honest pride the industry, integrity, love of freedom and the heroism of old Beverwyck let us not forget that the truest way to honor our Dutch ancestors is to follow the example of those who knew no fear where liberty or honor was at stake and let me ask indulgence on the plea that "I am a Dutchman, and so think nothing which concerns the Dutch of unconcern to me."
